SENATE CUTS BUDGET 4½ BILLION

Russia Okays American Plan For Jap Isles

U. S. Trusteeship Is Endorsed By Soviet

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., Feb. 26, (AP)—The United States won speedy Russian endorsement tonight on its request for immediate American trusteeship over the strategic Japanese-mandated islands of the Western Pacific where Japan mounted her attack on Pearl Harbor, Guam and Wake.

The quick Russian approval and informal expressions from other members of the United Nations Security Council indicated that the United States would gain eventual approval of its request. The council, however, adjourned further action on it until March 7 so the delegates could consult their governments.

Austin Asks Action Now

Warren R. Austin, United States representative to the United Nations, formally laid this country's proposed trusteeship agreement, announced by President Truman last November 6, before the council with a request for action now.

Andrei A. Gromyko, Soviet delegate, spoke briefly to record Russia's approval of the principles and main terms involved in the United States proposal. He submitted three amendments to the agreement but they apparently would make no vital change in the United States plan.

Austin, in a 20-minute speech, said the United States would observe the provisions of the United Nations Charter in administering the vast chain of 98 islands and satellite clusters comprising the Marshalls, Marianas and Carolines.

U. S. Could Close Islands

He said the United States, as sole administering authority, could close the islands when it chose for security reasons and could erect and maintain fortifications.

He pledged the United States to abide by all international control and inspection measures that may become part of a system of international control of atomic energy, other weapons of mass destruction and conventional armaments.

The United States has served notice that it will continue to occupy the islands regardless of United Nations action but Austin devoted a good portion of his speech to detailing reasons for United States concern with the security aspects of the islands.

Three Are Slain In Pistol Battle

VANCOUVER, B. C., Feb. 26—(AP)—Two Vancouver police officers and a gunman were killed today in a pistol battle following a chase from a bank to the Great Northern Railway roundhouse.

A third police officer and a second gunman were wounded in the shooting that took place when police investigated a report that three men in a car were acting suspiciously at the Renfew Street Branch of the Royal Bank of Canada.

Patrolmen in a prowl car chased the three men to the railway roundhouse in the east end of the city. The three abandoned their car and opened fire.

Bodies of the policemen, Charles Boyles and Oliver Leddingham, were sprawled along the tracks and one of the three gunmen, identified by police as Douglas Carter, fell dead a short distance away.

As the two men fled down the street, other officers took up the pursuit and in the subsequent gunfire exchange a policeman and a gunman were wounded. The third man was captured a short time later.

Vets' Benefit Plan Asked

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Feb. 26 (AP) — The State Senate asked Gov. Lane in a resolution today to appoint a commission to study and prepare a plan of veterans' benefit and welfare legislation for Maryland.

Truman Sends Armed Services Unification Plan To Legislators

Provides Secretary Of National Defense

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26 (AP)—President Truman laid before Congress today his plan for unification of the nation's armed forces, calling for the creation of a national defense establishment headed by a civilian secretary with Cabinet rank.

All three branches of the armed forces—Army, Navy and Air—would come under the $15,000-a-year Secretary of National Defense.

All would be administered as individual units, however, although their respective secretaries would not hold Cabinet rank.

The proposed act specifically provides that the Navy Department shall comprise "the entire operating forces of the United States Navy including naval aviation," as well as the United States Marine Corps.

Thus the President proposed to settle the bitter dispute over disposition of the Navy's air support, which Navy advocates have vigorously insisted should remain in the Navy.

Speedy Hearings Promised

The chairmen of the two Senate committees which hope to obtain jurisdiction over the bill both promised speedy hearings.

More than a score of sweeping revisions are entailed in the President's plan, entitled "National Security Act of 1947."

These include:

1. Creation of a new Department of Air Force, with a secretary appointed from civilian life by the President.

2. Transfer of Army Air Forces to the Department of Air Force "as deemed necessary or desirable" by the Secretary of National Defense.

3. Abandonment of the titles of "Secretary of War" and "War Department," to be replaced by "Secretary of the Army" and "Department of the Army."

4. Creation of a war council to "advise the Secretary of National Defense on matters of broad policy relating to the armed forces."

5. Establishment of a joint chiefs of staff to "act as the principal military advisers to the President."

6. Establishment of a munitions board, with a chairman appointed from civilian life, to "plan for the military aspects of industrial mobilization."

Research Board

7. Establishment of a research and development board, headed by a civilian secretary, to advise on "scientific research relative to the national security.

8. Establishment of a National Security Council to advise the President on "the integration of foreign and military policies." The council would also "assess and appraise the objectives, commitments and risks of the United States in relation to our actual and potential military power."

9 Establishment of a central inteligence agency. The agency's functions, alone among all those listed, were not specified, but obviously they would focus on espionage and counter-espionage. It would be headed by a ranking military officer.

10. Establishment of a national security resources board, with a civilian chairman, to advise the President on "the coordination of military, industrial and civilian mobilization."

TRUMAN'S CHOICE—Lewis W. Douglas, above, insurance company president who has held a long list of public offices, was chosen yesterday by President Truman to be ambassador to Great Britain. The post has been vacant since Averell Harriman came back from London to take over the Secretaryship of Commerce. O. Max Gardner was to have succeeded Harriman but died just as he was about to sail.

Lewis W. Douglas Is Named Envoy To Great Britain

Senators Praise Truman's Choice

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26 — (AP) — Lewis W. Douglas, who once broke spectacularly with the New Deal but later held wartime posts under Franklin D. Roosevelt, was chosen by President Truman today to be ambassador to Great Britain.

Mr. Truman thereby capped a long list of public offices in which Douglas, 52-year-old Arizonan, has already served.

Douglas has been: A soldier in France in the First World War, a state legislator, member of Congress, director of the federal budget, a lend-lease expediter in London in the Second World War, and deputy war shipping administrator.

Heads Life Insurance Firm

He also took a two-year turn (1938-39) as vice chancellor of Canada's McGill University, where he had a close-up opportunity for studying the British Commonwealth, and is now president of the Mutual Life Insurance Company in New York.

Douglas was named to the post which has been vacant since Averell Harriman came back from London to take over the Secretarship of Commerce from the ousted Henry A. Wallace. O. Max Gardner, former Governor of North Carolina, was to have succeeded Harriman but died just as he was about to sail.

Selection Is Praised

While it took a world war to bring Douglas and President Roosevelt back together after their 1934 break on spending and their 1940 differences on the third term, they got along amicably in the end.

Sen. O'Mahoney (D-Wyo.), who never left the Roosevelt camp, said today of Douglas: "He's a very good choice. I don't believe there will be any opposition to him in the Senate."

Chairman Vandenberg (R-Mich.), of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee which must pass on the nomination, commented: "Mr. Douglas is totally qualified for the high responsibilities which he will assume."

Bevin Charge Brings White House Denial

Politics Not Behind Palestine Interest

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26 (AP) — The White House, replying to British Foreign Minister Bevin, said today that America's interest in Palestine has nothing to do with politics and that Bevin was wrong in hinting that President Truman was political minded in urging entry of Jews into the Holy Land.

"Unfortunate and misleading," was the way a White House statement described the impression given by Bevin.

Bevin Not Mentioned By Name

Bevin was not mentioned by name, but the statement cited "yesterday's debate in the British Parliament." It was then that Bevin said President Truman "spoiled" Palestine negotiations last October by issuing a call, during the congressional campaigns, for the immediate entry of 100,000 Jews into Palestine.

Bevin had added:

"I really must point out that in international affairs, I cannot settle things if my problem is made the subject of local elections."

The White House had been silent until Press Secretary Charles G. Ross late in the day issued the statement asserting:

"The impression that has arisen from yesterday's debate in the British Parliament, that America's interest in Palestine and the settlement of Jews there is motivated by partisan and local politics is most unfortunate and misleading."

Reaffirms U. S. Attitute

The White House said Mr. Truman's statement of last October 4, merely reaffirmed the attitude toward Palestine and Jewish immigration which the American government "has publicly expressed since the summer of 1945."

The statement today added that the United States position was communicated by President Truman to Prime Minister Attlee on August 31, 1945, and made public here November 13, 1945, with the establishment of the joint Anglo-American Committee of Inquiry.

Former Wisconsin Governor Defends David Lilienthal

Says Actions As PSC Member "Honorable"

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26 (AP) — Open hearings on confirmation of David E. Lilienthal as chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission came to a halt today with release of a telegraphic report that his actions as a member of the Wisconsin Public Service Commission were "wholly honorable".

The telegram, read into the record of the Senate Atomic Energy Committee by Chairman Hickenlooper (R-Iowa), was signed by Philip F. LaFollette, who was Governor of Wisconsin when Lilienthal became a member of the state commission in 1931.

LaFollette explained he had noted "the imputation that David Lilienthal was underhandedly serving private interests" while on the commission.

Ex-Secretary Accused Him

Lilienthal's former secretary, Mrs. Meads Leitzel, Chicago, testified last week that he continued to draw pay from a Chicago clearing house after taking the Wisconsin post. Sen. McKellar (D-Tenn), opposing Lilienthal's confirmation, declared the action violated Wisconsin law.

LaFollette's telegram said that when Lilienthal was appointed, "he was active in his profession (the

Luciano Helped Navy During War

NEW YOK, Feb. 26 (AP) — Charles R. Haffenden, former lieutenant commander assigned to Naval Intelligence, said today Charles "Lucky" Luciano, through his underworld connections, aided the Navy in obtaining pre-invasion information about Sicily.

Haffenden said Luciano, deported racketeer and erstwhile vice overload, gave "normal co-operation" to the government when asked to assist in the war effort.

Lifting the curtain partway on the wartime role of Luciano before Gov. Thomas E. Dewey commuted his prison sentence, Haffenden said it would be difficult to evaluate the racketeer's services.

Haffenden, a former New York City Commissioner of Marine and Aviation, said at a news conference that Luciano, while in prison in 1942, was called upon to aid Naval Intelligence in gathering pre-invasion information about Sicily.

Haffenden explained, "like other informants, Luciano did nothing more than any other American would do when called on to help the war effort. It is difficult to tell whether the information his contacts provided was useful. I would say he rendered normal co-operation in the war effort."

Maryland Senate Kills Change Of Venue Bill

ANNAPOLIS, Feb. 26 (AP) — The State Senate killed today a proposal for a referendum on a constitutional amendment to permit courts to grant a change of venue in civil cases only after presentation of "reasonable evidence."

The Judiciary Committee made an unfavorable report on a bill by Minority Leader Kimble (R-Allegany), and its stand was upheld after a lengthy debate.

ARRAIGNED—Alfred Wesley Ingalls (right), 64, identified as a retired lawyer and former Massachusetts legislator, and his wife, Elizabeth (left), 62, are accompanied by a United States marshal (center) as they were arraigned in Federal Court, San Diego, Calif., on a federal charge that they kept a negro housemaid under involuntary servitude for nearly 30 years. The woman in right rear is unidentified. Yesterday, the case was presented to the United States Grand Jury at Los Angeles.

Brussels Police Fire On Marchers Demanding Bonus

Unofficial Reports Say Dozen Killed

BRUSSELS, Feb. 26 (AP) — A demonstration by former Belgian prisoners of war demanding payment of bonuses turned into a riotous battle today in which 50,000 marchers broke through police lines, trampled and crushed each other and were stopped only by machine-gun and rifle fire from behind the steel fence of the Parliament building.

A day-long condition of siege of the Parliament building was not broken until tonight when a ring of armored cars, machine guns, gendarmes and troops finally restored order in the angry throng and the Cabinet members were able to emerge from behind their locked doors.

Unconfirmed reports said a dozen people were killed but an official of the Ministry of the Interior said only one person was dead as the result of a heart attack. Unofficial estimates said 100 were injured, but the ministry placed the list at 40.

Organizations of former prisoners of war and persons once deported by the Germans for political activities, who have been demanding a special legal status and remaining payments of the bonus promised them during the war, chose the approximate hour for their parade when Lt. Col. Raoul de Fraiteur, Minister of Defense, was appearing before the Cabinet.

Funds For Bonus Lacking

De Fraiteur explained that the bonus had not been paid because Belguim does not have the money now.

The organizations carried their wartime flags, some surmounted by eagles like those of Napoleon, and banners, some of which bore the slogans "1940, Duty—1947, Suckers," "Down with de Faiteur," and picture of exiled King Leopold and a war prisoner with the motto "Both Forgotten."

The long murmuring line converged on Rue Royale and headed toward Parliament Square. A block below Parliament black-helmeted gendarmes, police in white helmets and army cavalry with drawn swords were drawn up in triple lines.

The head of the column surged

10 Lbs. More Sugar Per Person This Year Than Last Is Assured

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26, (AP) — Ten pounds more sugar per person this year than last was virtually assured today in an announcement alloting 25 pounds for the first nine months.

An OPA official said it would be a "safe guess" that the 1947 individual use allowance will be 35 pounds.

Jointly the Office of Temporary Controls and the Agriculture Department affirmed that a new ration stamp good for 10 pounds will be validated April 1, and announced that another stamp good for 10 pounds will come up July 1.

Household consumers already have been allowed five pounds each for the first three months.

Lava Threatens Sicilian Towns; Villagers Flee

Fiery Flood Pours From New Crater

ROME, Feb. 26 — (AP) — A fiery stream of lava, bubbling from a new crater broken in the side of Mount Etna, was reported in press dispatches from Sicily today to have branched into separate forks which rolled threateningly toward several communities.

While villagers fled in panic, Italian authorities rushed motor vehicles to Cisterna and Passo Pisciaro to assist in the exodus if the flow continued, the dispatches said. They added that the molten mass had surged to within a mile and a half of Passo Pisciaro, first village in its path.

The eruption of the Sicilian volcano, relatively quiet since 1928 when it destroyed the village of Mascati, was said to have begun late yesterday when the lava blasted out the new crater.

The Rome newspaper Giornale D'Italia said the fiery flood began advancing in a stream 300 yards wide at a rate of about 70 yards an hour, and that when it reached the plain of Damusi, at an altitude of about 1,600 yards, it broke into the three forks.

The northeast and largest fork was reported pushing toward Cisterna Di Collabasso on the Plains of Pauombe. Another large fork was spreading northwestward. A smaller stream oozed between the two.

The incandescent mass was said to have built up to a depth of 200 yards in some ravines.

The correspondent for Giornale D'Italia said the general flow of lava was headed toward Colabasso and Guariola and that two forks menaced Passo Pisciaro.

HOLLYWOOD, Calif., Feb. 26 (AP) —Actress Hedy Lamarr, who has been expecting the stork, will enter Good Samaritan Hospital Friday for a Caesarian operation, her studio announced today. The operation will be performed March 1.

The actress and her husband, Actor John Loder, have two children, a boy, Jamsie, 8, and a girl, Denise, 2.

Green Concedes Industry Should Have Free Speech

Would Not Oppose Union Registration

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26—(AP)—AFL President William Green shouted today under hot-and-heavy questioning by Republican congressmen that he was "willing" for Congress to assure free speech for employers and to have unions register and file financial reports.

The pink-cheeked 73-year-old Green, appearing before the House Labor Committee, continued to oppose nearly all of the labor legislation before Congress.

He insisted that Congress keep out of jurisdictional strikes, shouting: "You can't outlaw them. It's impossible. Listen to me"

Here's what he conceded under relentless questioning by Rep. Hoffman (R-Mich), after saying again and again he had no suggestions for legislation:

"Willing" That Act Be Changed

1. "Now wait! I'm willing that the Wagner Act be changed so that the employer can engage in free speech." (The act now says an employer can put his side of any question before his employes but not in any way that involves coercion or threats of reprisals. Employers have often said administrative rulings under this clause have deprived them of free speech.)

2. "On financial reports of unions, we're willing." (Green explained later he meant public reports by national unions, but not by local unions because the financial information might help employers in bargaining against the locals.)

3. "If it's a mtter of union registration, licensed, on a voluntary basis, we have no objections." (He apparently didn't mean to support bills which would compel unions to register.)

Later, Green stormed at Rep. Gwinn (R-NY) that the Congressman is less interested in the accomplishments of labor than in "belly-aches" against it and passing laws to make workers "criminals."

Quieter labor developments in Congress today included:

Committee Given Green Light

1. The House,, by a 348-29 vote, gave its Labor Committee the power to subpoena witnesses in an investigation of what Committee Chairman Hartley (R-NJ) called "vicious

Large Slashes For Army, Navy Are Rejected

Knutson's Tax Plan Faces Derailment

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26 (AP) — Tacitly rejecting any major cuts for the Army and Navy, the Senate voted 51 to 33 today to slash $4,500,000,000 off President Truman's $37,500,000,000 budget for the year starting July 1.

This compares with a $6,000,000,000 cut already approved by the House. The House action had led to cries that the Army and Navy might be crippled at a critical juncture in world affairs.

Chairman Knutson (R-Minn), of the House Ways and Means Committee, told a reporter after the Senate vote that the cutback of only $4,500,000,000 would throw overboard his bill for a 20 per cent across-the-board slash in individual income taxes, reducing the figure to 10 per cent.

He quickly added, however, that "the House will never accept" the Senate figure.

Debt Proposal Pending

Still pending in the Senate as Knutson spoke was a proposal by Sen. Knowland (R-Calif) to require that $3,000,000,000 of any government surplus be applied to the national debt.

Sen. Taft (R-Ohio) proposed to cut Knowland's debt retirement figure to $1,000,000,000, leaving room for a $3,500,000,000 tax reduction if revenues come in as expected.

Sen. Green (D-RI) went the other way with a proposed amendment to apply all of the budget saving to the debt.

All those proposals remained to be voted on when the Senate quit for the night.

As for the ceiling on spending, Chairman Taft (R-Ohio), of the Senate Republican Policy Committee, predicted to a reporter that a Senate-House compromising committee eventually will arrive at a figure of $5,000,000,000 or slightly more as the overall pledge for reducing expenditures.

This would put Congress on record as promising — if it doesn't change its mind later when individual appropriations bills are voted—to hold government costs to about 35 per cent of the level Mr. Truman previously had described as bedrock.

Victory For Armed Forces

The Senate's vote for the $4,500,000,000 cut represented a victory for the armed services, which had contended that the larger savings promised by the House would cut so deeply into Army and Navy funds as to make them inefficient for national defense and to support American foreign policy.

The House's $6,000,000,000 slash was said to involve lopping $2,250,000,000 off military and civil functions of the two departments. Most Senators appeared to believe the Senate figure would take no more than $750,000,000 away from the two services, if that much.

Involved also were the questions of how much of any savings should be turned into reduction of the national debt and how much should be used to counterbalance a slice in individual income taxes.

Ship Reported Sinking Off Coast Of Carolina

NORFOLK, Va., Feb. 26 (AP) — The former Bay Line steamer President Warfield radioed Coast Guard headquarters late today that she was in trouble 75 miles east of Diamond Shoals off the North Carolina coast.

The tanker H. C. Sinclair and Gulfhawk intercepted the message and headed for the stricken ship, which reported her forward hold was flooded, and that she was leaking badly and listing heavily to starboard. Her engine room, she added, would be flooded within several hours.

Coast Guard spokesmen reported at 9:30 p. m. that the tanker Sinclair had reached the President Warfield and was standing by.

Professor And Hod Carriers Try To Educate Senate Labor Group

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26 (AP) —Are you a lover of lilting prose? Would you like to know the Greek definition of the word monopoly?

Then you should have been at today's meeting of the Senate Labor Committee.

Came Rev. Dr. Jerome L. Toner, a professor at St. Martin's College in Lacey, Wash.

The tall, gray, unsmiling priest discussed proposals to change labor laws all right. But he didn't stop there.

Sen. Ball (R-Minn) had wondered if a closed shop isn't just another form of monopoly.

"That depends on what you mean by monopoly, Senator," said Dr. Toner. "There is the definition given by law. Then there is another definition given by the courts. And there is the real meaning. As you know, the word comes from the Greek."

Dr. Toner then began talking Greek to the surprised Senators. His words will not be repeated here due to the newsprint shortage.

The committee had scarcely got its breath from Dr. Toner's easy display of knowledge when it ran into the poetic prose.

Maybe you think a hod carrier is a fellow who just fetches hods.

But President Joseph V. Moreschi and General Counsel Vincent F. Morreale, of the hod carriers union, prepared a joint statement. In this they said:

"A healthy tree without fertile soil cannot bear fruit. To keep the tree healthy, the soil must be kept fertile. Under this ideal combination, the fruit will be both sturdy and plentiful.

"Labor properly educated, assembled and led is the fertile soil. Industry, likewise properly educated, assembled and led is the healthy tree.

"These two, properly united under the warm sun of cooperation by government and nurtured by the water of understanding from the public, will give forth a bountiful produce, sufficient to meet all needs."

21-Year-Old Army Bride Is Freed In Husband's Death

BALTIMORE, Feb. 26 (AP) — A federal court jury of bankers and businessmen tonight found Mildred Margaret Abney innocent of a murder charge after the 21-year-old expectant mother sobbed from the witness stand that she shot her husband because he insisted upon a divorce.

The crowded federal court room erupted in applause and women spectators screamed their approval as the jury announced its verdict after an hour and a half of deliberation.

The black-haired Army bride was white and trembling as she stood to hear the decision. She gulped a glass of water, but said nothing. She expects a child in June.

"I didn't want to kill him. . . Oh God, I loved him so," she had cried on the witness stand.

Sgt. Jean Richard Abney, 28-year-old military policeman from Junction City, Kas., died of five bullet wounds fired into his back as he was escorting his wife to a bus at nearby fort Meade January 5.

He had insisted that she return to her home at Conshocken, Pa.

Mrs. Abney quickly left the courtroom and murmured "I'm still dreaming" as she entered an elevator.

"I begged him not to leave me,' Mrs. Abney had testified as she told of her trip to Fort Meade to attempt a reconciliation.

"His answer was that he hoped my child would be born dead.

"I told him: 'If you are going to leave me now, I'll kill myself in front of you.' I showed him the gun. He taunted me, saying I didn't have the nerve.

"He walked me toward the bus. He pushed me aside and said he didn't want me. He said: 'You'll be better off dead.'

"Then it happened. I just killed him. I just remember shooting, that's all. I don't remember how many times. Oh God, I loved him so."

The couple was married a year ago at Harrisburg, Pa., after a three-week courtship and three years of writing which started at the suggestion of her brother, serving with Abney's unit in New Caledonia.

Court Fulfills Girl's Humble Plea For Her Mother In DeVore Slaying

DETROIT, Feb. 26—(AP)—A recorder's court judge, tempering justice with mercy, today answered the humble plea of nine-year-old Frankie DeVore by freeing her mother on probation in the slaying of her father.

Mrs. Vera DeVore, 39, tense and silent, broke into tears when Judge W. McKay Skillman placed her on five years probation for the shotgun killing last October 14 of her husband, Robert, 41.

She was charged with first degree murder but a jury found her guilty only of manslaughter February 19 after she pleaded self defense. She faced a maximum penalty of 15 years in prison.

Her pretty, blue-eyed daughter, who celebrated her ninth birthday in court with her mother the day before the trial began, has left Detroit. However, Judge Skillman had before him a letter in her childish handwriting which read in part:

"My heart is nearly broken because I have to leave my poor, darling mom.

"Please, please let my momma come to me soon. I will ask God every night to bless and comfort her and I will not forget you for being kind to a little girl."

Judge Skillman, who had received hundreds of letters asking mercy for the mother, admitted that "the taking of human life is a most serious thing and is never to be regarded lightly."

However, he added:

"I firmly believe that this is an excellent opportunity to temper justice with mercy.

"One of the factors involved is the welfare of your little daughter who has stood by you during all this ordeal.

"If I were to commit you to prison it would be only for retribution for your crime and not for any reformation. Such an act upon my part would only mean that your daughter would be taken from you during the time you were serving your sentence and cared for by others.

"This child has arrived at an age when the care of a mother is very important factor to be considered."

The post has been vacant since Averell Harriman came back from London to take over the Secretaryship of Commerce. O. Max Gardner was to have succeeded Harriman but died just as he was about to sail.

Provides Secretary Of National Defense

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26 (AP)—President Truman laid before Congress today his plan for unification of the nation's armed forces, calling for the creation of a national defense establishment headed by a civilian secretary with Cabinet rank.

All three branches of the armed forces—Army, Navy and Air—would come under the $15,000-a-year Secretary of National Defense.

All would be administered as individual units, however, although their respective secretaries would not hold Cabinet rank.

The proposed act specifically provides that the Navy Department shall comprise "the entire operating forces of the United States Navy including naval aviation," as well as the United States Marine Corps.

Thus the President proposed to settle the bitter dispute over disposition of the Navy's air support, which Navy advocates have vigorously insisted should remain in the Navy.

Speedy Hearings Promised

The chairmen of the two Senate committees which hope to obtain jurisdiction over the bill both promised speedy hearings.

More than a score of sweeping revisions are entailed in the President's plan, entitled "National Security Act of 1947."

These include:

1. Creation of a new Department of Air Force, with a secretary appointed from civilian life by the President.

2. Transfer of Army Air Forces to the Department of Air Force "as deemed necessary or desirable" by the Secretary of National Defense.

3. Abandonment of the titles of "Secretary of War" and "War Department," to be replaced by "Secretary of the Army" and "Department of the Army."

4. Creation of a war council to "advise the Secretary of National Defense on matters of broad policy relating to the armed forces."

5. Establishment of a joint chiefs of staff to "act as the principal military advisers to the President."

6. Establishment of a munitions board, with a chairman appointed from civilian life, to "plan for the military aspects of industrial mobilization."

Research Board

7. Establishment of a research and development board, headed by a civilian secretary, to advise on "scientific research relative to the national security.

8. Establishment of a National Security Council to advise the President on "the integration of foreign and military policies.' The council would also "assess and appraise the objectives, commitments and risks of the United States in relation to our actual and potential military power."

9 Establishment of a central intelligence agency. The agency's functions, alone among all those listed, were not specified, but obviously they would focus on espionage and counter-espionage. It would be headed by a ranking military officer.

10. Establishment of a national security resources board, with a civilian chairman, to advise the President on "the coordination of military, industrial and civilian mobilization."

Lewis W. Douglas Is Named Envoy To Great Britain

Senators Praise Truman's Choice

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26 — (AP) — Lewis W. Douglas, who once broke spectacularly with the New Deal but later held wartime posts under Franklin D. Roosevelt, was chosen by President Truman today to be ambassador to Great Britain.

Mr. Truman thereby capped a long list of public offices in which Douglas, 52-year-old Arizonan, has already served.

Douglas has been: A soldier in France in the First World War, a state legislator, member of Congress, director of the federal budget, a lend-lease expediter in London in the Second World War, and deputy war shipping administrator.

Heads Life Insurance Firm

He also took a two-year turn (1938-39) as vice chancellor of Canada's McGill University, where he had a close-up opportunity for studying the British Commonwealth, and is now president of the Mutual Life Insurance Company in New York.

Douglas was named to the post which has been vacant since Averell Harriman came back from London to take over the Secretaryship of Commerce from the ousted Henry A. Wallace. O. Max Gardner, former Governor of North Carolina, was to have succeeded Harriman but died just as he was about to sail.

Selection Is Praised

While it took a world war to bring Douglas and President Roosevelt back together after their 1934 break on spending and their 1940 differences on the third term, they got along amicably in the end.

Sen. O'Mahoney (D-Wyo.), who never left the Roosevelt camp, said today of Douglas: "He's a very good choice. I don't believe there will be any opposition to him in the Senate."

Chairman Vandenberg (R-Mich.), of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee which must pass on the nomination, commented: "Mr. Douglas is totally qualified for the high responsibilities which he will assume."

Bevin Charge Brings White House Denial

Politics Not Behind Palestine Interest

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26 (AP) — The White House, replying to British Foreign Minister Bevin, said today that America's interest in Palestine has nothing to do with politics and that Bevin was wrong in hinting that President Truman was political minded in urging entry of Jews into the Holy Land.

"Unfortunate and misleading," was the way a White House statement described the impression given by Bevin.

Bevin Not Mentioned By Name

Bevin was not mentioned by name, but the statement cited "yesterday's debate in the British Parliament." It was then that Bevin said President Truman "spoiled" Palestine negotiations last October by issuing a call, during the congressional campaigns, for the immediate entry of 100,000 Jews into Palestine.

Bevin had added:

"I really must point out that in international affairs, I cannot settle things if my problem is made the subject of local elections."

The White House had been silent until Press Secretary Charles G. Ross late in the day issued the statement asserting:

"The impression that has arisen from yesterday's debate in the British Parliament, that America's interest in Palestine and the settlement of Jews there is motivated by partisan and local politics is most unfortunate and misleading."

Reaffirms U. S. Attitude

The White House said Mr. Truman's statement of last October 4, merely reaffirmed the attitude toward Palestine and Jewish immigration which the American government "has publicly expressed since the summer of 1945."

The statement today added that the United States position was communicated by President Truman to Prime Minister Attlee on August 31, 1945, and made public here November 13, 1945, with the establishment of the joint Anglo-American Committee of Inquiry.

Former Wisconsin Governor Defends David Lilienthal

Says Actions As PSC Member "Honorable"

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26 (AP) — Open hearings on confirmation of David E. Lilienthal as chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission came to a halt today with release of a telegraphic report that his actions as a member of the Wisconsin Public Service Commission were "wholly honorable".

The telegram, read into the record of the Senate Atomic Energy Committee by Chairman Hickenlooper (R-Iowa), was signed by Philip F. LaFollette, who was Governor of Wisconsin when Lilienthal became a member of the state commission in 1931.

LaFollette explained he had noted "the imputation that David Lilienthal was underhandedly serving private interests" while on the commission.

Ex-Secretary Accused Him

Lilienthal's former secretary, Mrs. Meads Leitzel, Chicago, testified last week that he continued to draw pay from a Chicago clearing house after taking the Wisconsin post. Sen. McKellar (D-Tenn), opposing Lilienthal's confirmation, declared the action violated Wisconsin law.

LaFollette's telegram said that when Lilienthal was appointed, "he was active in his profession (the

Luciano Helped Navy During War

NEW YOK, Feb. 26 (AP) — Charles R. Haffenden, former lieutenant commander assigned to Naval Intelligence, said today Charles "Lucky" Luciano, through his underworld connections, aided the Navy in obtaining pre-invasion information about Sicily.

Haffenden said Luciano, deported racketeer and erstwhile vice overload, gave "normal co-operation" to the government when asked to assist in the war effort.

Lifting the curtain partway on the wartime role of Luciano before Gov. Thomas E. Dewey commuted his prison sentence, Haffenden said it would be difficult to evaluate the racketeer's services.

Haffenden, a former New York City Commissioner of Marine and Aviation, said at a news conference that Luciano, while in prison in 1942, was called upon to aid Naval Intelligence in gathering pre-invasion information about Sicily.

Haffenden explained, "like other informants, Luciano did nothing more than any other American would do when called on to help the war effort. It is difficult to tell whether the information his contacts provided was useful. I would say he rendered normal co-operation in the war effort."

Maryland Senate Kills Change Of Venue Bill

ANNAPOLIS, Feb. 26 (AP) — The State Senate killed today a proposal for a referendum on a constitutional amendment to permit courts to grant a change of venue in civil cases only after presentation of "reasonable evidence."

The Judiciary Committee made an unfavorable report on a bill by Minority Leader Kimble (R-Allegany), and its stand was upheld after a lengthy debate.

ARRAIGNED—Alfred Wesley Ingalls (right), 64, identified as a retired lawyer and former Massachusetts legislator, and his wife, Elizabeth (left), 62, are accompanied by a United States marshal (center) as they were arraigned in Federal Court, San Diego, Calif., on a federal charge that they kept a negro housemaid under involuntary servitude for nearly 30 years. The woman in right rear is unidentified. Yesterday, the case was presented to the United States Grand Jury at Los Angeles.

Brussels Police Fire On Marchers Demanding Bonus

Unofficial Reports Say Dozen Killed

BRUSSELS, Feb. 26 (AP) — A demonstration by former Belgian prisoners of war demanding payment of bonuses turned into a riotous battle today in which 50,000 marchers broke through police lines, trampled and crushed each other and were stopped only by machine-gun and rifle fire from behind the steel fence of the Parliament building.

A day-long condition of siege of the Parliament building was not broken until tonight when a ring of armored cars, machine guns, gendarmes and troops finally restored order in the angry throng and the Cabinet members were able to emerge from behind their locked doors.

Unconfirmed reports said a dozen people were killed but an official of the Ministry of the Interior said only one person was dead as the result of a heart attack. Unofficial estimates said 100 were injured, but the ministry placed the list at 40.

Organizations of former prisoners of war and persons once deported by the Germans for political activities, who have been demanding a special legal status and remaining payments of the bonus promised them during the war, chose the approximate hour for their parade when Lt. Col. Raoul de Fraiteur, Minister of Defense, was appearing before the Cabinet.

Funds For Bonus Lacking

De Fraiteur explained that the bonus had not been paid because Belguim does not have the money now.

The organizations carried their wartime flags, some surmounted by eagles like those of Napoleon, and banners, some of which bore the slogans "1940, Duty—1947, Suckers," "Down with de Failteur," and picture of exiled King Leopold and a war prisoner with the motto "Both Forgotten."

The long murmuring line converged on Rue Royale and headed toward Parliament Square. A block below Parliament black-helmeted gendarmes, police in white helmets and army cavalry with drawn swords were drawn up in triple lines.

The head of the column surged

10 Lbs. More Sugar Per Person This Year Than Last Is Assured

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26, (AP) — Ten pounds more sugar per person this year than last was virtually assured today in an announcement alloting 25 pounds for the first nine months.

An OPA official said it would be a "safe guess" that the 1947 individual use allowance will be 35 pounds.

Jointly the Office of Temporary Controls and the Agriculture Department affirmed that a new ration stamp good for 10 pounds will be validated April 1, and announced that another stamp good for 10 pounds will come up July 1.

Household consumers already have been allowed five pounds each for the first three months.

Lava Threatens Sicilian Towns; Villagers Flee

Fiery Flood Pours From New Crater

ROME, Feb. 26 — (AP) — A fiery stream of lava, bubbling from a new crater broken in the side of Mount Etna, was reported in press dispatches from Sicily today to have branched into separate forks which rolled threateningly toward several communities.

While villagers fled in panic, Italian authorities rushed motor vehicles to Cisterna and Passo Pisciaro to assist in the exodus if the flow continued, the dispatches said. They added that the molten mass had surged to within a mile and a half of Passo Pisciaro, first village in its path.

The eruption of the Sicilian volcano, relatively quiet since 1928 when it destroyed the village of Mascati, was said to have begun late yesterday when the lava blasted out the new crater.

The Rome newspaper Giornale D'Italia said the fiery flood began advancing in a stream 300 yards wide at a rate of about 70 yards an hour, and that when it reached the plain of Damusi, at an altitude of about 1,600 yards, it broke into the three forks.

The northeast and largest fork was reported pushing toward Cisterna Di Collabasso on the Plains of Pauombe. Another large fork was spreading northwestward. A smaller stream oozed between the two.

The incandescent mass was said to have built up to a depth of 200 yards in some ravines.

The correspondent for Giornale D'Italia said the general flow of lava was headed toward Colabasso and Guariola and that two forks menaced Passo Pisciaro.

Green Concedes Industry Should Have Free Speech

Would Not Oppose Union Registration

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26—(AP)—AFL President William Green shouted today under hot-and-heavy questioning by Republican congressmen that he was "willing" for Congress to assure free speech for employers and to have unions register and file financial reports.

The pink-cheeked 73-year-old Green, appearing before the House Labor Committee, continued to oppose nearly all of the labor legislation before Congress.

He insisted that Congress keep out of jurisdictional strikes, shouting: "You can't outlaw them. It's impossible. Listen to me"

Here's what he conceded under relentless questioning by Rep. Hoffman (R-Mich), after saying again and again he had no suggestions for legislation:

"Willing" That Act Be Changed

1. "Now wait! I'm willing that the Wagner Act be changed so that the employer can engage in free speech." (The act now says an employer can put his side of any question before his employes but not in any way that involves coercion or threats of reprisals. Employers have often sied administrative rulings under this clause have deprived them of free speech.)

2. "On financial reports of unions, we're willing." (Green explained later he meant public reports by national unions, but not by local unions because the financial information might help employers in bargaining against the locals.)

3. "If it's a mtter of union registration, licensed, on a voluntary basis, we have no objections." (He apparently didn't mean to support bills which would compel unions to register.)

Later, Green stormed at Rep. Gwinn (R-NY) that the Congressman is less interested in the accomplishments of labor than in "belly-aches" against it and passing laws to make workers "criminals."

Quieter labor developments in Congress today included:

Committee Given Green Light

1. The House,, by a 348-29 vote, gave its Labor Committee the power to subpoena witnesses in an investigation of what Committee Chairman Hartley (R-NJ) called "vicious

Large Slashes For Army, Navy Are Rejected

Knutson's Tax Plan Faces Derailment

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26 (AP) — Tacitly rejecting any major cuts for the Army and Navy, the Senate voted 51 to 33 today to slash $4,500,000,000 off President Truman's $37,500,000,000 budget for the year starting July 1.

This compares with a $6,000,000,000 cut already approved by the House. The House action had led to cries that the Army and Navy might be crippled at a critical juncture in world affairs.

Chairman Knutson (R-Minn), of the House Ways and Means Committee, told a reporter after the Senate vote that the cutback of only $4,500,000,000 would throw overboard his bill for a 20 per cent across-the-board slash in individual income taxes, reducing the figure to 10 per cent.

He quickly added, however, that "the House will never accept" the Senate figure.

Debt Proposal Pending

Still pending in the Senate as Knutson spoke was a proposal by Sen. Knowland (R-Calif) to require that $3,000,000,000 of any government surplus be applied to the national debt.

Sen. Taft (R-Ohio) proposed to cut Knowland's debt retirement figure to $1,000,000,000, leaving room for a $3,500,000,000 tax reduction if revenues come in as expected.

Sen. Green (D-RI) went the other way with a proposed amendment to apply all of the budget saving to the debt.

All those proposals remained to be voted on when the Senate quit for the night.

As for the ceiling on spending, Chairman Taft (R-Ohio), of the Senate Republican Policy Committee, predicted to a reporter that a Senate-House compromising committee eventually will arrive at a figure of $5,000,000,000 or slightly more as the overall pledge for reducing expenditures.

This would put Congress on record as promising — if it doesn't change its mind later when individual appropriations bills are voted—to hold government costs to about 85 per cent of the level Mr. Truman previously had described as bedrock.

Victory For Armed Forces

The Senate's vote for the $4,500,000,000 cut represented a victory for the armed services, which had contended that the larger savings promised by the House would cut so deeply into Army and Navy funds as to make them inefficient for national defense and to support American foreign policy.

The House's $6,000,000,000 slash was said to involve lopping $2,250,000,000 off military and civil functions of the two departments. Most Senators appeared to believe the Senate figure would take no more than $750,000,000 away from the two services, if that much.

Involved also were the questions of how much of any savings should be turned into reduction of the national debt and how much should be used to counterbalance a slice in individual income taxes.

Ship Reported Sinking Off Coast Of Carolina

NORFOLK, Va., Feb. 26 (AP) — The former Bay Line steamer President Warfield radioed Coast Guard headquarters late today that she was in trouble 75 miles east of Diamond Shoals off the North Carolina coast.

The tanker H. C. Sinclair and Gulfhawk intercepted the message and headed for the stricken ship, which reported her forward hold was flooded, and that she was leaking badly and listing heavily to starboard. Her engine room, she added, would be flooded within several hours.

Coast Guard spokesmen reported at 9:30 p. m. that the tanker Sinclair had reached the President Warfield and was standing by.

21-Year-Old Army Bride Is Freed In Husband's Death

BALTIMORE, Feb. 26 (AP) — A federal court jury of bankers and businessmen tonight found Mildred Margaret Abney innocent of a murder charge after the 21-year-old expectant mother sobbed from the witness stand that she shot her husband because he insisted upon a divorce.

The crowded federal court room erupted in applause and women spectators screamed their approval as the jury announced its verdict after an hour and a half of deliberation.

The black-haired Army bride was white and trembling as she stood to hear the decision. She gulped a glass of water, but said nothing. She expects a child in June.

"I didn't want to kill him. . . Oh God, I loved him so," she had cried on the witness stand.

Sgt. Jean Richard Abney, 28-year-old military policeman from Junction City, Kas., died of five bullet wounds fired into his back as he was escorting his wife to a bus at nearby fort Meade January 5.

He had insisted that she return to her home at Conshocken, Pa.

Mrs. Abney quickly left the courtroom and murmured "I'm still dreaming" as she entered an elevator.

"I begged him not to leave me," Mrs. Abney had testified as she told of her trip to Fort Meade to attempt a reconciliation.

"His answer was that he hoped my child would be born dead.

"I told him: 'If you are going to leave me now, I'll kill myself in front of you.' I showed him the gun. He taunted me, saying I didn't have the nerve.

"He walked me toward the bus. He pushed me aside and said he didn't want me. He said: 'You'll be better off dead.'

"Then it happened. I just killed him. I just remember shooting, that's all. I don't remember how many times. Oh God, I loved him so."

The couple was married a year ago at Harrisburg, Pa., after a three-week courtship and three years of writing which started at the suggestion of her brother, serving with Abney's unit in New Caledonia.

Court Fulfills Girl's Humble Plea For Her Mother In DeVore Slaying

DETROIT, Feb. 26—(AP)—A recorder's court judge, tempering justice with mercy, today answered the humble plea of nine-year-old Frankie DeVore by freeing her mother on probation in the slaying of her father.

Mrs. Vera DeVore, 39, tense and silent, broke into tears when Judge W. McKay Skillman placed her on five years probation for the shotgun killing last October 14 of her husband, Robert, 41.

She was charged with first degree murder but a jury found her guilty only of manslaughter February 19 after she pleaded self defense. She faced a maximum penalty of 15 years in prison.

Her pretty, blue-eyed daughter, who celebrated her ninth birthday in court with her mother the day before the trial began, has left Detroit. However, Judge Skillman had before him a letter in her childish handwriting which read in part:

"My heart is nearly broken because I have to leave my poor, darling mom.

"Please, please let my momma come to me soon. I will ask God every night to bless and comfort her and I will not forget you for being kind to a little girl."

Judge Skillman, who had received hundreds of letters asking mercy for the mother, admitted that "the taking of human life is a most serious thing and is never to be regarded lightly."

However, he added:

"I firmly believe that this is an excellent opportunity to temper justice with mercy.

"One of the factors involved is the welfare of your little daughter who has stood by you during all this ordeal.

"If I were to commit you to prison it would be only for retribution for your crime and not for any reformation. Such an act upon my part would only mean that your daughter would be taken from you during the time you were serving your sentence and cared for by others.

"This child has arrived at an age when the care of a mother is very important factor to be considered."

Bert Solves the Labor Problem

You hear a lot about capital and labor nowadays, as if the two could never get together. But look at Bert Childers—who has 320 acres of producing land, a fair-sized herd of cattle, and two farm hands working for him.

If you called Bert a "capitalist" he wouldn't know what you meant, and neither would Spike and Sandy, the hired men. Bert works side by side with both of them; and in the evenings they sit around the fire together—sharing a friendly glass of beer or two.

If anybody has a beef—whether it's about wages or hours or equipment—they talk it over at those friendly evening sessions.

I don't say all labor problems are as simple as Bert's. But from where I sit, the basic principle applies to any farm or factory or business: A principle of confidence and mutual respect, of daily talks together in a friendly and congenial atmosphere.

SOCIAL GOALS

Thy Kingdom come, Thy will be done in earth, as it is in heaven. Matthew 6:10. Read Matthew 25:31-40.

Hungry men are more aware of their stomachs than of God. Treated with injustice and contempt because of the color of their skins, many find it difficult to believe that we all have one Father. Children who have drunken, brutal fathers may even rebel against God portrayed as a Father. Millions who are victims of the sins of others have the tie of suffering to bind them to Christ; but, without the conviction that their stripes heal someone, God is frequently lost in their suffering.

Jesus saw the necessity of frontal attacks on social as well as on personal evil. His thought dealt with such practical concerns of the Kingdom of God as hunger, shelter, clothing, prisons, money, labor relations, fear, justice, race, disease of body and mind. His goal in these matters was clear and positive: "Thy will be done in earth, as it is in heaven." He cautioned us that we should find him in stern judgment or loving comradeship in accordance with our daily ministry to him "in haunts of wretchedness and need, on shadowed thresholds dark with fears."

Let Us Pray: O thou, who art the giver of all great and perfect gifts, teach us to pray not only in our inner chamber, but in all ministry to social need. Show us that a cup of cold water given in the name of Christ, may become a profound prayer. So dwell in our hearts that we may convey thy spirit with our gifts. Amen.

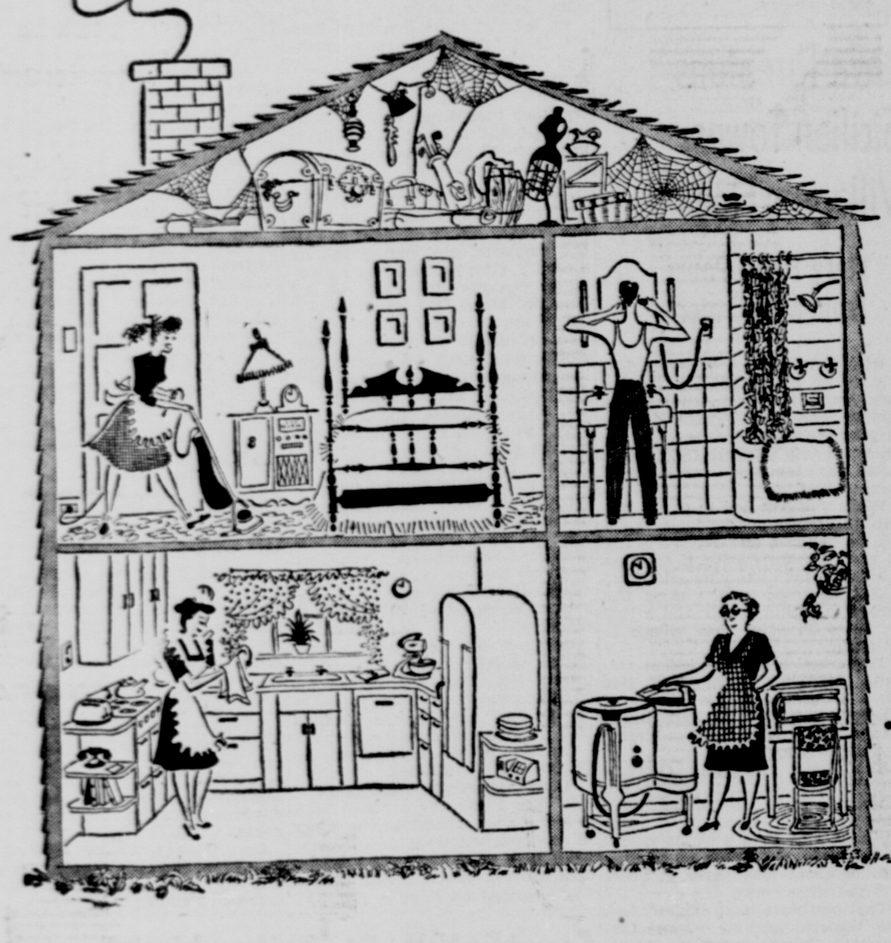
Ready at your finger-tip
To lighten every hour!



MOTHER'S in the kitchen, dreaming up a meal. Grandma's in the laundry, busy washing clothes. Dad plugs in his razor, and whisks off his whiskers. Lights shine, the radio plays merrily, and Sister skims the cleaner across the bedroom rug.

This is a house with dozens of servants—dependable, willing electric servants—ready day and night to make work easier and life more comfortable. This is living the modern way—the electric way!

Yet how little it costs! Grandma can spin the dirt from six heaping tubs of wash—for only a penny! A few more pennies get Mother through her meal and Father through his beard, too. Sister can clean that rug and five others like it before her cent's worth of electricity is used up.

Dollar values for penny prices—that's the story behind every electric switch in your home. That's our song of service!

Council Should Enact Anti-Smoke Ordinance

The Mayor and members of the City Council have had under study almost a week the draft of an ordinance that has for its purpose the abatement of smoke and grime created by railroads, the Potomac Edison power plant, industries and institutions.

It must be agreed that the legislation submitted is most constructive in character and will, no doubt, bring about the improvement sought. It is hoped that little time will be lost in its adoption.

While its enactment, without dotting an "i" or crossing a "t" may be asking too much, it is to be hoped that the city authorities will not propose changes of such a nature as to weaken the instrument to the point that it would fail to give the benefits so much desired by the people of Cumberland.

The ordinance calls for the establishment of a Smoke Bureau, so to speak, to be manned by a "smoke abatement engineer," along with "clerks and other assistants." This is most essential if a proper enforcement of the ordinance is to be hoped for. But because of the cost entailed there probably will be some hesitancy on the part of some city commissioners to vote an appropriation sufficient to carry out this portion of the plan. Improvements, no matter of what character, always cost money, but it is our belief that the cost of an undertaking such as this will be money well spent when its goal is a healthier and cleaner city.

The savings that would accrue to our citizens in the appearance and upkeep of properties, in less work toward cleanliness by housewives, and the general benefits to the city, must not be lost sight of. Taxpayers, in the past, have been assessed for projects that have given much less general benefits than will be achieved through the anti-smoke ordinance and they will not protest paying a reasonable amount in additional taxes for something that means so much.

Every public-spirited man and woman, and organizations should support this progressive step, and make known their support of this ordinance to the city authorities. The move to harness execessive smoke and grime should not suffer any further setback through lack of interest of the part of the people, especially since they voted so overwhelmingly for a smoke-controlling ordinance.

Scientist Comes To Aid Of David Lilienthal

The letter which Dr. Karl T. Compton, president of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and a leader in the development of the atomic bomb, sent to Senator Arthur Vandenberg was significant. Dr. Compton said that scientists would quit en masse and the atomic energy program would become "a hollow shell" if political and special interests won their fight against David Lilienthal. Already scientists have quit their jobs at the atomic projects at Los Alamos, N. M., and Oak Ridge, Tenn., he said.

All this would seem to point up a situation which it is important to understand. Instead of being a Red, as his critics say, Mr. Lilienthal is one of the strongest influences against Communism in this country, it would appear from Dr. Compton's letter.

Communism has a strong appeal to disillusioned idealists. Seeing inconsistencies in the free, democratic society, they fall for Communism's siren promises to solve all problems and establish a Utopia. In fact, Communism does not solve the problems, and the Communist social order, instead of being a Utopia, is a hell of poverty, of propaganda and lies, and secret police terror.

But the wholesale promises nevertheless do appeal to many idealists, especially to scientists. An example of this is the Canadian scientists, one of them wealthy, who gave their country's military secrets to spies of Soviet Russia.

It is contended David Lilienthal has a philosophy and personality which counteract this trend. An idealist himself as well as a superb business executive, he is pictured as appealing to idealists. His friends say he can build a better order under democracy. They contend he has shown how Government operation can be free of patronage and bureaucracy through the merit system and decentralization. At the same time he is pictured as an ardent believer in virtues of free enterprise, and they point to the fact that free enterprise has thrived in the Tennessee Valley under stimulation of the TVA as directed by Mr. Lilienthal. Businessmen in the valley, they argue, do not think TVA is a threat to them, but a friend and assistant. It is a demonstration of the value both of Government ownership in the right place, and private enterprise in the right place, they opine.

It will not be denied that our free order at its worst is better than totalitarian Communism at its best. Nevertheless we will not keep this free order if we do not make our idealists and scientists feel at home in it and give them an opportunity to work in confidence that their efforts are building a better social order. If David Lilienthal has, as is contended, a unique ability to inspire that confidence, then there is no apparent reason, it seems, why he should not be supported for the appointment as chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission, but if it is the concensus of opinion of those who are making a searching study of his activities, dealings and leanings that communistic charges have some basis he should be turned aside without ceremony.

You Tell 'Em, Jack

Prof. Wendell Johnson, University of Iowa psycologist, wants his students to call him "Jack" because calling people by their first names is the solution of an inferiority complex. "By giving other titles, whether they be mother, doctor or professor, you lower yourself in elevating them," he says.

An inferiority complex would seem to be very much advanced, if one felt one lowered himself and elevated others by addressing them as "Mother," "Doctor" or "Professor." But it seems doubtful that university students are affected by that sinking feeling in so doing.

Jack is a little off the beam. Nowadays it's the parents who seem to have the inferiority complexes. That is understandable in the case of a father who has found that calling an offspring "Son" repeatedly has been offset by the appellation "Pop."

Human progress never falters. Among recent innovations are square poker chips and ice which doesn't dilute the cocktails.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

RELIEF OF BURSITIS

ACHES and pains in and about the shoulder and neck are so common that most of us have been bothered at one time or another. For the majority, the disturbance is of little consequence and hardly worth a visit to a physician. It is passed off as "muscular" or a "cold" and disappears in two or three days.

Now and then, however, it is more aggravating and not only persists but takes the joy out of living. There are three or four conditions which can be responsible. If symptoms are confined chiefly to a shoulder and upper arm, bursitis is considered the most likely cause. When the vertebrae in the upper spine are involved or undergo arthritic changes (osteoarthritis), movements of the head may lead to agonizing pain in the back of the neck, shooting down the shoulder and sometimes into the arm. The malady also may be associated with headache, particularly over the rear portion of the scalp. Occasionally individuals who habitually hold the head far forward instead of upright encourage strain, and correction of posture brings improvement.

Another possibility is figromyositis, a term which implies that the muscular and fibrous tissues are inflamed or have been injured. As a consequence, the structures are tender and discomfort follows pressure or movement.

During the early stages of bursitis there is usually excruciating pain in the shoulder which is made worse by certain motions of the arm. Distress is typically more noticeable at night since the victim rolls over on the affected part during sleep. Most of the soreness is found over the outer aspect of the upper arm and may be so pronouncd that the sufferer winces should the extremity be bumped or touched with the finger. When symptoms do not vanish within a short time the disease lapses into the chronic form in which discomfort is not as severe but is a constant source of annoyance. Unless treated the shoulder stiffens and the surrounding muscles become soft and flabby.

Physiotherapy—massage and heat—are of value. For the latter, a diathermy machine or an infrared lamp seem to work best. When the shoulder is rigid the arm is frequently manipulated in an attempt to break up adhesions. Three or four X-ray treatments may relieve symptoms. In a recent series, two-thirds of a series of sufferers in the acute stage reported complete two weeks; only one-third of a group of chronic cases were benefited.

Injecting an anesthetic like novocaine or procaine directly into the affected bursa is also helpful. The results are often dramatic, for the solution not only eases pain and muscle spasm but aids in rupturing any adhesions that have developed.

Caldwell and associates used a slightly different procedure. They introduced an anesthetic preparation into a nerve center (the stellate ganglion). This depot, located in the neck, sends its branches down into the shoulder and arm. Immediate relief was noted in 83.3 per cent of acute attacks. In half the patients, only one hypo was required. The remainder needed more.

ITCHES AFTER WALKING

P. W. S. writes: Whenever I come indoors after a brisk walk I itch all over. Can you help me?

REPLY

I don't know because it is difficult to explain. In some instances, going from a cold to a warm environment will return the circulation from the internal structures to the skin. This could account for the sensation you describe.

CLAMPED THROAT

J. V. L. writes: Can a person's throat tighten all of a sudden enough to strangle him? I have this terrible feeling at times.

REPLY

This symptom, usually referred to as "globus hystericus," is a nervous manifestation. To my knowledge, no one has ever strangled during the episode. An actual obstruction is a different proposition and sometimes occurs in diphtheria, severe laryngitis, or pressure from an enlarged thryoid gland.

ITCHING

J. O. writes: Why is itching worse at night?

REPLY

There are several factors to be considered such as warm bedding, perspiration, and irritation. Furthermore, the mind may dwell on this discomfort more at this time.

It Says Here

By BOB HOPE

The Wyoming legislature may pass a bill compelling California cars to carry red flags and bells to warn pedestrians. It isn't really necessary, you can always spot a California car — Mad-Man Muntz is chasing right behind making offers.

They are already using a similar idea in Los Angeles, one auto dealer is selling a car that comes equipped with church bells.

As for me, I don't need the kind of equipment Wyoming is asking. When I'm out driving I attract enough bulls without carrying a red flag.

The idea of warning pedestrians would appeal to the sporting instinct of some California motorists. Just getting them on the street couldn't mask the thrill of hounding them across fields, over buildings, and finally knocking them off in their own living rooms.

But it's really safe and California pedestrians can relax. I did. I started across Hollywood blvd, humming "Old Buttermilk Sky," in two seconds I was tasting it.

Why single out California drivers? They are as courteous, cautious and careful as the drivers in any other state.

Of course, that's an argument to pass that Wyoming law—If I ever heard one.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

House, Senate Republicans Differ Widely On Cuts In Military Budget; Vandenberg Against Deep Slashes; Truman Knows How To Protect Himself

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26—Republican leaders held two closed-door meetings on the budget last week which were as different as day and night. One was a meeting of Senate Republicans which went on record against any sharp budget cuts for the Army and Navy. House Republicans which voted overwhelmingly to cut the Army and Navy.

At the secret session of House GOP leaders there was only one dissenting voice, that of absent Congressman Ham Andrews of Buffalo, N. Y., who was ill, but whose letter against Army-Navy cuts was read by Congressman Les Arends of Illinois.

In the Senate, however, it was different. Senator Styles Bridges, Chairman of the powerful Senate Appropriations Committee and a vigorous budget-cutter, first took the floor to remind his colleagues of their pledge to prune.

"This question of how far to cut the budget is a definite challenge to each and every one of you," said Bridges, bluntly.

"Budget cuts are going to hurt," he continued. "They will mean squawks and protests and resentment. Some of your friends are going to be hurt, and some of your political supporters. You've got to be prepared for that. What you must decide is whether you are willing to go ahead with a job you know needs to be done even though it will be unpopular."

This brought an immediate reply from Army-Navy champions led by Armed Services Chairman Chan Gurney of South Dakota. "The proposed cuts in the Army and Navy cannot be made," Gurney shouted. "If they are made, ours will be a second-rate power, militarily speaking."

Senator Arthur Vandenberg, ever the diplomat, took a different tack. He began by complimenting the Budget Committee on its job, and commending its courage. But, he concluded, it has recommended too deep a cut. A reduction of six billion dollars will mean sending Secretary Marshall to the Moscow Peace Conference "with both arms in slings."

Senator Bob Taft of Ohio supported Vandenberg, after which Finance Committee Chairman Eugene Millikin of Colorado argued that it would be better to cut too little this year than too much.

"Where we find we have cut too little we can rectify our mistake next year," Millikin suggested. "But if we cut too much we might destroy some vital function of the Government."

Breakdown Of Contemplated Cuts

In the end the holdouts for the six-billion-dollar cut mustered 19 votes while those desiring a smaller cut got 22. Not many of the 19 rigid economizers got up to champion their viewpoint, but among those who did were Senator Harry Cain of Washington, in whose state navy yard and reclamation funds would be cut off, and James Kem of Missouri.

Senator George Aiken of Vermont, one of the outstanding lawmakers of either party, then questioned Bridges about specific reductions which would have to be made. He asked about such things as Rural Electrification, the Department of Agriculture and the Interior Department in each case drawing admissions that the cuts would be substantial but not crippling. They would "slow up" the work, Bridges said in each case.

Bridges did not put before his colleagues a breakdown which he and other Republican members of the Joint Committee had had prepared, showing just where the budget cuts would be made. This breakdown includes the following significant figures.

1. The War Department's military budget would be cut by $1,200,000,000, its civil functions by more than $500,000,000.

2. The Navy cut would be $680,000,000.

3. The $947,000,000 sought for the Department of Agriculture would be cut by $257,000,000.

4. The $307,000,000 asked for the State Department would be cut by $95,000,000.

5. The $1,048,000,000 for the RFC and other Government corporations would be scaled by $228,000,000. And one cut the Republicans chuckle over, but may find difficult is $200,000,000 in the over-all $352,679,250 budget of Bob Hannegan's Post Office Department. They proposed cutting him by over 50 per cent.

Truman Likes Most Republicans

When it comes to personalities, not politicians, President Truman likes Republicans—that is, most of them, and he enjoyed entertaining GOP Congressmen at the White House reception the other night. However, there were four Republicans present he did not like.

Congressman Earl Lewis, an Ohio Republican, discovered this when his son Robert, a captain in the Army Medical Corps, shook hands with the President. Young Lewis offered his sympathy because of all the handshaking the Chief Executive had to do. But the President was quite cheerful about it.

"There's a trick to that," he smiled. "Watch." Grabbing Lewis' hand, he told him to squeeze, but Lewis found he couldn't. Truman had squeezed first.

"I like this party," the President went on. "There are lots of friends of mine here and I can call 75 per cent of the people here by name. I'm glad to see every one of them here, except four Republican——s."

The President did not say who they were, and his guests were too startled to ask him. However, Republican Congressmen have been speculating ever since as to their identity.

Capital Chaff

Now that he has left the RFC, George Allen is really expanding his business holdings. He even owns one per cent of the Broadway hit, "Born Yesterday."

If Congress really wants to economize, it might examine the four and one-half pages of drivel Congressman Rankin of Mississippi recently inserted in the Congressional Record, written by a group of Californians lauding Rankin. It's all printed at the taxpayers' expense. . . . General Eisenhower has ordered the bodies of all American soldiers buried in the China Theater to be collected and shipped home. . . . The split between the Taft and Dewey wings of the Republican party over labor is deepening. Senators Taft and Ball buttonholed Dewey's new Senator Irving Ives in a Senate cloakroom recently and tried to win his support for anti-labor legislation. Ives, however, refused to join them.

Teachers' Strike Held Sign Of Society's Progressive Disease

By MARK SULLIVAN

What is under way in America is a progressive disease. The labor troubles are an important manifestation of it, and effective treatment of them by Congress would go far toward arresting the disease. But the condition extends farther, and is more than a disease. It is a progressive deterioration of our social structure and mechanism as a whole, the things that hold it together and make it work.

A proof that the condition is progressive, and of its wide ramifications, is in the current strikes of school teachers, the one presently conspicious and the largest so far being in Buffalo, New York. For an understanding of these strikes in their relation to what is going on in America, go back ten years.

In 1937 President Roosevelt was an outstanding leader in bringing about advances in privileges for organized labor, increased power for unions and their leaders. But he set a limit, or tried to, and confidently thought he could. He took a firm stand against strikes by employees of government, Federal, state or local. His carefully thought-out statement said:

"Collective bargaining as usually understood . . . cannot be translated into the public service . . . The very nature and purpose of government makes it impossible . . . The employer is the whole people . . . A strike by public employees . . . is unthinkable and intolerable."

Unable to Limit or Control

While Roosevelt still lived, proof had come that a leader who sets in motion such a movement as the one he inaugurated early in his administration often finds himself unable to limit or to control what he has set in motion.

As early as 1943 there were strikes of employees in ordinary public services, garbarge collection, municipally-owned transportation and the like. The first one by teachers was in a Connecticut city some six months ago. Since then the number has become considerable and they have taken place in many parts of the country. They are a present national phenomenon.

That teachers have a fine recognition of the special quality of their occupation, and the special elevation of their standing, is shown by their long reluctance to strikes, in spite of just grievances. They have refrained in spite of the glaring inequity of their pay compared with that of workers in other fields. The consciousness of many is shown by reluctance to join unions or to affiliate with the great national labor organizations, or to practice the tactics of ordinary strikes. In one city a strike by teachers was called a "group action." One of the heads of striking teachers in Buffalo is quoted as saying, "We want to run a dignified strike." The striking teachers refrain from picketing in the ordinary sense but have "observers."

Strike Against Government

Yet it is doubtful if teachers fully recognize their special relation to society. A strike by teachers is a strike against government in a sense beyond that of a strike by workers in ordinary public services or such a strike as that of Mr. John L. Lewis' United Mine Workers when the coal mines were being operated by the government. For government says, by formal statute, that a citizen must send his children to school, and punishes him if he does not. A strike by teachers makes it impossible for the citizen to do what the laws says he must do. This is a thing government can hardly endure and remain government at all. It justifies Roosevelt's phrase "unthinkable and intolerable."

But what makes a strike by teachers a special contribution to disease of the social structure is the effect on the young generation they teach. To the pupils, teachers are instructors in conduct, guides and exemplars of it. The effect of what they do when they strike may overcome what they as teachers teach. They teach civics, dealing with the conduct of society, but what they do hardly promotes an orderly society. To pupils, teachers are authority, and when teachers in striking challenge the authority above them they are likely to find it difficult to impose their own authority on pupils, or to inculcate the idea of authority and order.

That the effect must be progressive is obvious. A rising generation becomes confused about the whole field of authority, discipline and order, without some degree of which a society cannot exist and function.

The questioning of discipline and authority goes on in nearly all areas, including even the armed forces. To put special emphasis upon it in schools is only justified by the effect on the future.

Russia's Bickering Increases Critical Situation Of World

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26—Selection of John Foster Dulles to go to the Moscow Conference as an adviser to the U. S. delegation and to Secretary of State Marshall insures a continuance of the bipartisan course that has been guiding foreign policy. Mr. Dulles is not only a Republican but a man of wide influence in the party.

The purpose in sending Mr. Dulles, however, happens only to be in part related to the fact that he is a prominent Republican. The truth is he is one of the best advisers on foreign affairs in this country. His experience dates from the days when he accompanied the American delegation to the Paris peace conference at the close of World War I.

Mr. Dulles was one of the principal advisers to Secretary of State Stettinius and the American delegation at the San Francisco conference which wrote the United Nations Charter. He attended the "Big Four" meeting in London with Secretary of State Byrnes.

For many years Mr. Dulles has been active in the affairs of the Federal Council of the Church of Christ in America, being the head of a commission which has been concerning itself with declarations on peacemaking. He is widely respected for his endavor to apply Christian principles to the making of public policy in the world generally and probably has given more time and thought to international law and ethics than any other man alive today.

Fully Informed On Issues

Mr. Dulles has, indeed, spent his adult life in the study of foreign policy and matters of law. In private practice he has been concerned with questions of world trade and is thoroughly familiar with the economic as well as the political background of world problems today. The American government is indeed fortunate that Mr. Dulles has sacrificed his private interests for the greater part of the last two years to serve the Department of State.

The connection of Mr. Dulles with domestic politics lies in the fact that he has the confidence of Governor Dewey of New York. It was reported before the 1944 election that, if Mr. Dewey were successful, Mr. Dulles would become secretary of state.

Mr. Dulles has the confidence of Republican members of the Senate, particularly Senator Arthur Vandenberg, of Michigan, with whom he worked closely at San Francisco. Before accepting the Moscow post, Mr. Dulles was in Washington and had a conference with the Michigan senator. It appears, however, that Mr. Dulles does not go as a substitute for Mr. Vandenberg or any other senator. The Senator from Michigan announced this because it is quite possible that a situation may arise requiring his presence at the side of Secretary Marshall for a brief interval.

None of the members of the Senate is anxious to go to Moscow because the pressure of work is such that they want to be at Capitol Hill. The help of Senator Vandenberg in particular is vital in steering through the Senate some of the proposed treaties which were negotiated by Secretary Byrnes. There are other questions of foreign policy and matters relating to economic aid to Europe which will need staunch champions in the Senate, so Mr. Vandenberg's decision to stay here will assist the bi-partisan program very decidedly.

May Be Of Vital Aid At Home

It is quite possible, too, that, with Senators Vandenberg and Connally remaining here, they may be able to make speeches of comment on what's going on in Moscow and help to mobilize world opinion behind Secretary Marshall if issues or cleavages develop which require such public discussion to aid in arriving at a settlement.

The whole world situation is growing increasingly critical and the hope here is that the Russian government has at last come to realize that one of the things that is delaying recovery in Europe and Asia is the constant bickering over relatively unimportant issues. Once there can be a clearing of the air and a settlement reached on how to govern Germany, it is likely that the whole picture will change for the better. To keep Europe in an unsettled state while Russia argues with the other powers of the world does no more than to give lawless forces, like the German underground, a chance to flourish—something which merely adds to the occupation costs that have to be borne by the American and British taxpayers and something which piles up more worries for the Soviet. It is against Russia that much of the fermentation inside Germany is bound to be directed.

What would you do if your house caught fire?

Stand in the living room and tell jokes to the kiddies?

In a pig's ear you would! Chances are you'd run around like crazy and do the silly things people always do when the unexpected hits them.

Ingrid Bergman

Well then, actors aren't people.

When a fire breaks out in a theatre, the actor generally steps down to the footlights to keep the audience from frightening itself into a panic.

I could fill many a column with stories of how actors saved lives by split-second thinking in an emergency.

The heroes of the classic example were a couple of cockney comics named Howard and Hawkins. Howard sang patter songs and Hawkins pointed up his jokes by manipulating a huge cigar. One night, while they were playing a Chicago theatre, a fire broke out in the wings, and the stage filled with smoke. The crowded house was one scream away from a panic. Hawkins was offstage at the time, making a costume change. When Howard saw the smoke, he broke off in the middle of his song, winked at the customers, and cracked, "Awkins 'as lit up that blankety-blank cigar again."

It got a big laugh and the audience settled back in their seats. A minute later, the blaze was under control.

Which brings me to what happened at the Ingrid Bergman show last week.

I was seeing my dream girl in "Joan of Lorraine" for the third time. In the second act, a woman sitting in the first row started to sob. The sob became a moan, and the moan became a shriek. People all over the theatre stood up. No one knew what was happening. It was a moment where one unthinking shout might have set the audience stampeding for the exits. Fire travels fast—hysteria travels faster.

As usual, an actor saved the situation. Before I tell you what happened, I have to tell you something about the show.

"Joan of Lorraine" is a play within a play. It opens on a bare stage, where a company of actors is rehearsing a drama about Joan of Arc. Ingrid Bergman plays the Maid of Orleans. An up-and-coming actor named Sam Wanamaker portrays the director who is staging the play about Joan.

Throughout the evening, Wanamaker functions like a director at a real rehearsal. Sometimes he's on stage telling actors how to read their lines. Sometimes, when they're running through a scene, he sits out in the audience and listens. Occasionally, he interrupts and makes suggestions. He talks to stage hands, holler light cues to the electrician, and generally bosses the works.

Maxwell Anderson's drama is acted out scene by scene through these interruptions. It's so cleverly written and staged, the paying audience gets the illusion it's watching an actual rehearsal.

In the second act, the play within the play reaches its climax in the trial scene. The English Inquisitors lash out savagely at Joan (Ingrid) and threatens to burn her at the stake unless she admits her visions are evil. A man with a black hood enters, and with him comes the hint of thumbscrews and burning flesh.

It was during this scene that the woman down front became hysterical. What happened during the next sixty seconds was one of the neatest things I ever saw in a theatre.

Sam Wanamaker casually walked out on stage. "Stop the rehearsal," he said quietly. "Let's try the scene with a little more light." He looked offstage. "Throw on the houselights," he told an electrician. Then he turned to the cast. "Relax for a minute while I see how it looks from out front."

The actors got it. Ingrid Bergman walked over and began chatting with the Inquisitors. The man in the hood lit a cigarette.

Wanamaker went down into the audience. He planted himself near the hysterical woman. "Bring up the footlights," he called to an assistant. And then he turned to the jittery woman, who was now sobbing softly, and asked her what she thought of the new light setup.

Ten seconds later, it was all over. The woman quieted down, the house lights were dimmed, and Wanamaker signalled the actor to resume the scene.

When the curtain dropped at the end of the play, Miss Bergman got the sustained applause she has received at every performance since opening night.

But when Sam Wanamaker came out for his bow, the audience got to its feet and whooped and hollered.

It was probably the first time in many years that a member of her suporting cast received more applause than the talented Bergman.

I don't think she minded a bit.

Council Should Enact Anti-Smoke Ordinance

The Mayor and members of the City Council have had under study almost a week the draft of an ordinance that has for its purpose the abatement of smoke and grime created by railroads, the Potomac Edison power plant, industries and institutions.

It must be agreed that the legislation submitted is most constructive in character and will, no doubt, bring about the improvement sought. It is hoped that little time will be lost in its adoption.

While its enactment, without dotting an "i" or crossing a "t" may be asking too much, it is to be hoped that the city authorities will not propose changes of such a nature as to weaken the instrument to the point that it would fail to give the benefits so much desired by the people of Cumberland.

The ordinance calls for the establishment of a Smoke Bureau, so to speak, to be manned by a "smoke abatement engineer," along with "clerks and other assistants." This is most essential if a proper enforcement of the ordinance is to be hoped for. But because of the cost entailed there probably will be some hesitancy on the part of some city commissioners to vote an appropriation sufficient to carry out this portion of the plan. Improvements, no matter of what character, always cost money, but it is our belief that the cost of an undertaking such as this will be money well spent when its goal is a healthier and cleaner city.

The savings that would accrue to our citizens in the appearance and upkeep of properties, in less work toward cleanliness by housewives, and the general benefits to the city, must not be lost sight of. Taxpayers, in the past, have been assessed for projects that have given much less general benefits than will be achieved through the anti-smoke ordinance and they will not protest paying a reasonable amount in additional taxes for something that means so much.

Every public-spirited man and woman, and organizations should support this progressive step, and make known their support of this ordinance to the city authorities. The move to harness execessive smoke and grime should not suffer any further setback through lack of interest of the part of the people, especially since they voted so overwhelmingly for a smoke-controlling ordinance.

Scientist Comes To Aid Of David Lilienthal

The letter which Dr. Karl T. Compton, president of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and a leader in the development of the atomic bomb, sent to Senator Arthur Vandenberg was significant. Dr. Compton said that scientists would quit en masse and the atomic energy program would become "a hollow shell" if political and special interests won their fight against David Lilienthal. Already scientists have quit their jobs at the atomic projects at Los Alamos, N. M., and Oak Ridge, Tenn., he said.

All this would seem to point up a situation which it is important to understand. Instead of being a Red, as his critics say, Mr. Lilienthal is one of the strongest influences against Communism in this country, it would appear from Dr. Compton's letter.

Communism has a strong appeal to disillusioned idealists. Seeing inconsistencies in the free, democratic society, they fall for Communism's siren promises to solve all problems and establish a Utopia. In fact, Communism does not solve the problems, and the Communist social order, instead of being a Utopia, is a hell of poverty, of propaganda and lies, and secret police terror.

But the wholesale promises nevertheless do appeal to many idealists, especially to scientists. An example of this is the Canadian scientists, one of them wealthy, who gave their country's military secrets to spies of Soviet Russia.

It is contended David Lilienthal has a philosophy and personality which counteract this trend. An idealist himself as well as a superb business executive, he is pictured as appealing to idealists. His friends say he can build a better order under democracy. They contend he has shown how Government operation can be free of patronage and bureaucracy through the merit system and decentralization. At the same time he is pictured as an ardent believer in virtues of free enterprise, and they point to the fact that free enterprise has thrived in the Tennessee Valley under stimulation of the TVA as directed by Mr. Lilienthal. Businessmen in the valley, they argue, do not think TVA is a threat to them, but a friend and assistant. It is a demonstration of the value both of Government ownership in the right place, and private enterprise in the right place, they opine.

It will not be denied that our free order at its worst is better than totalitarian Communism at its best. Nevertheless we will not keep this free order if we do not make our idealists and scientists feel at home in it and give them an opportunity to work in confidence that their efforts are building a better social order. If David Lilienthal has, as is contended, a unique ability to inspire that confidence, then there is no apparent reason, it seems, why he should not be supported for the appointment as chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission, but if it is the concensus of opinion of those who are making a searching study of his activities, dealings and leanings that communistic charges have some basis he should be turned aside without ceremony.

You Tell 'Em, Jack

Prof. Wendell Johnson, University of Iowa psycologist, wants his students to call him "Jack" because calling people by their first names is the solution of an inferiority complex. "By giving other titles, whether they be mother, doctor or professor, you lower yourself in elevating them," he says.

An inferiority complex would seem to be very much advanced, if one felt one lowered himself and elevated others by addressing them as "Mother," "Doctor" or "Professor." But it seems doubtful that university students are affected by that sinking feeling in so doing.

Jack is a little off the beam. Nowadays it's the parents who seem to have the inferiority complexes. That is understandable in the case of a father who has found that calling an offspring "Son" repeatedly has been offset by the appellation "Pop."

Human progress never falters. Among recent innovations are square poker chips and ice which doesn't dilute the cocktails.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made, under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

RELIEF OF BURSITIS

ACHES and pains in and about the shoulder and neck are so common that most of us have been bothered at one time or another. For the majority, the disturbance is of little consequence and hardly worth a visit to a physician. It is passed off as "muscular" or a "cold" and disappears in two or three days.

Now and then, however, it is more aggravating and not only persists but takes the joy out of living. There are three or four conditions which can be responsible. If symptoms are confined chiefly to a shoulder and upper arm, bursitis is considered the most likely cause. When the vertebrae in the upper spine are involved or undergo arthritic changes (osteoarthritis), movements of the head may lead to agonizing pain in the back of the neck, shooting down the shoulder and sometimes into the arm. The malady also may be associated with headache, particularly over the rear portion of the scalp. Occasionally individuals who habitually hold the head far forward instead of upright encourage strain, and correction of posture brings improvement.

Another possibility is figromyositis, a term which implies that the muscular and fibrous tissues are inflamed or have been injured. As a consequence, the structures are tender and discomfort follows pressure or movement.

During the early stages of bursitis there is usually excruciating pain in the shoulder which is made worse by certain motions of the arm. Distress is typically more noticeable at night since the victim rolls over on the affected part during sleep. Most of the soreness is found over the outer aspect of the upper arm and may be so pronounced that the sufferer winces should the extremity be bumped or touched with the finger. When symptoms do not vanish within a short time the disease lapses into the chronic form in which discomfort is not as severe but is a constant source of annoyance. Unless treated the shoulder stiffens and the surrounding muscles become soft and flabby.

Physiotherapy—massage and heat—are of value. For the latter, a diathermy machine or an infrared lamp seem to work best. When the shoulder is rigid the arm is frequently manipulated in an attempt to break up adhesions. Three or four X-ray treatments may relieve symptoms. In a recent series, two-thirds of a series of sufferers in the acute stage reported complete two weeks; only one-third of a group of chronic cases were benefited.

Injecting an anesthetic like novocaine or procaine directly into the affected bursa is also helpful. The results are often dramatic, for the solution not only eases pain and muscle spasm but aids in rupturing any adhesions that have developed.

Caldwell and associates used a slightly different procedure. They introduced an anesthetic preparation into a nerve center (the stellate ganglion). This depot, located in the neck, sends its branches down into the shoulder and arm. Immediate relief was noted in 83.3 per cent of acute attacks. In half the patients, only one hypo was required. The remainder needed more.

ITCHES AFTER WALKING

P. W. S. writes: Whenever I come indoors after a brisk walk I itch all over. Can you help me?

REPLY

I don't know because it is difficult to explain. In some instances, going from a cold to a warm environment will return the circulation from the internal structures to the skin. This could account for the sensation you describe.

CLAMPED THROAT

J. V. L. writes: Can a person's throat tighten all of a sudden enough to strangle him? I have this terrible feeling at times.

REPLY

This symptom, usually referred to as "globus hystericus," is a nervous manifestation. To my knowledge, no one has ever strangled during the episode. An actual obstruction is a different proposition and sometimes occurs in diphtheria, severe laryngitis, or pressure from an enlarged thryoid gland.

ITCHING

J. O. writes: Why is itching worse at night?

REPLY

There are several factors to be considered such as warm bedding, perspiration, and irritation. Furthermore, the mind may dwell on this discomfort more at this time.

It Says Here

By BOB HOPE

The Wyoming legislature may pass a bill compelling California cars to carry red flags and bells to warn pedestrians. It isn't really necessary, you can always spot a California car — Mad-Man Muntz is chasing right behind making offers.

They are already using a similar idea in Los Angeles, one auto dealer is selling a car that comes equipped with church bells.

As for me, I don't need the kind of equipment Wyoming is asking. When I'm out driving I attract enough bulls without carrying a red flag.

The idea of warning pedestrians would appeal to the sporting instinct of some California motorists. Just getting them on the street couldn't mask the thrill of hounding them across fields, over buildings, and finally knocking them off in their own living rooms.

But it's really safe and California pedestrians can relax. I did. I started across Hollywood blvd, humming "Old Buttermilk Sky," in two seconds I was tasting it.

Why single out California drivers? They are as courteous, cautious and careful as the drivers in any other state.

Of course, that's an argument to pass that Wyoming law—If I ever heard one.

House, Senate Republicans Differ Widely On Cuts In Military Budget; Vandenberg Against Deep Slashes; Truman Knows How To Protect Himself

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26—Republican leaders held two closed-door meetings on the budget last week which were as different as day and night. One was a meeting of Senate Republicans which went on record against any sharp budget cuts for the Army and Navy. House Republicans which voted overwhelmingly to cut the Army and Navy.

At the secret session of House GOP leaders there was only one dissenting voice, that of absent Congressman Ham Andrews of Buffalo, N. Y., who was ill, but whose letter against Army-Navy cuts was read by Congressman Les Arends of Illinois.

In the Senate, however, it was different. Senator Styles Bridges, Chairman of the powerful Senate Appropriations Committee and a vigorous budget-cutter, first took the floor to remind his colleagues of their pledge to prune.

"This question of how far to cut the budget is a definite challenge to each and every one of you," said Bridges, bluntly.

"Budget cuts are going to hurt," he continued. "They will mean squawks and protests and resentment. Some of your friends are going to be hurt, and some of your political supporters. You've got to be prepared for that. What you must decide is whether you are willing to go ahead with a job you know needs to be done even though it will be unpopular."

This brought an immediate reply from Army-Navy champions led by Armed Services Chairman Chan Gurney of South Dakota. "The proposed cuts in the Army and Navy cannot be made," Gurney shouted. "If they are made, ours will be a second-rate power, militarily speaking."

Senator Arthur Vandenberg, ever the diplomat, took a different tack. He began by complimenting the Budget Committee on its job, and commending its courage. But, he concluded, it has recommended too deep a cut. A reduction of six billion dollars will mean sending Secretary Marshall to the Moscow Peace Conference "with both arms in slings."

Senator Bob Taft of Ohio supported Vandenberg, after which Finance Committee Chairman Eugene Millikin of Colorado argued that it would be better to cut too little this year than too much.

"Where we find we have cut too little we can rectify our mistake next year," Millikin suggested. "But if we cut too much we might destroy some vital function of the Government."

Breakdown Of Contemplated Cuts

In the end the holdouts for the six-billion-dollar cut mustered 19 votes while those desiring a smaller cut got 22. Not many of the 19 rigid economizers got up to champion their viewpoint, but among those who did were Senator Harry Cain of Washington, in whose state navy yard and reclamation funds would be cut off, and James Kem of Missouri.

Senator George Aiken of Vermont, one of the outstanding lawmakers of either party, then questioned Bridges about specific reductions which would have to be made. He asked about such things as Rural Electrification, the Department of Agriculture and the Interior Department in each case drawing admissions that the cuts would be substantial but not crippling. They would "slow up" the work, Bridges said in each case.

Bridges did not put before his colleagues a breakdown which he and other Republican members of the Joint Committee had had prepared, showing just where the budget cuts would be made. This breakdown includes the following significant figures.

1. The War Department's military budget would be cut by $1,200,000,000, its civil functions by more than $500,000,000.

2. The Navy cut would be $680,000,000.

3. The $947,000,000 sought for the Department of Agriculture would be cut by $257,000,000.

4. The $307,000,000 asked for the State Department would be cut by $95,000,000.

5. The $1,048,000,000 for the RFC and other Government corporations would be scaled by $228,000,000. And one cut the Republicans chuckle over, but may find difficult is $200,000,000 in the over-all $352,679,250 budget of Bob Hannegan's Post Office Department. They proposed cutting him by over 50 per cent.

Truman Likes Most Republicans

When it comes to personalities, not politicians, President Truman likes Republicans—that is, most of them, and he enjoyed entertaining GOP Congressmen at the White House reception the other night. However, there were four Republicans present he did not like.

Congressman Earl Lewis, an Ohio Republican, discovered this when his son Robert, a captain in the Army Medical Corps, shook hands with the President. Young Lewis offered his sympathy because of all the handshaking the Chief Executive had to do. But the President was quite cheerful about it.

"There's a trick to that," he smiled. "Watch." Grabbing Lewis' hand, he told him to squeeze, but Lewis found he couldn't. Truman had squeezed first.

"I like this party," the President went on. "There are lots of friends of mine here and I can call 75 per cent of the people here by name. I'm glad to see every one of them here, except four Republican———s."

The President did not say who they were, and his guests were too startled to ask him. However, Republican Congressmen have been speculating ever since as to their identity.

Capital Chaff

Now that he has left the RFC, George Allen is really expanding his business holdings. He even owns one per cent of the Broadway hit, "Born Yesterday."

If Congress really wants to economize, it might examine the four and one-half pages of drivel Congressman Rankin of Mississippi recently inserted in the Congressional Record, written by a group of Californians lauding Rankin. It's all printed at the taxpayers' expense. . . . General Eisenhower has ordered the bodies of all American soldiers buried in the China Theater to be collected and shipped home. . . . The split between the Taft and Dewey wings of the Republican party over labor is deepening. Senators Taft and Ball buttonholed Dewey's new Senator Irving Ives in a Senate cloakroom recently and tried to win his support for anti-labor legislation. Ives, however, refused to join them.

Teachers' Strike Held Sign Of Society's Progressive Disease

By MARK SULLIVAN

What is under way in America is a progressive disease. The labor troubles are an important manifestation of it, and effective treatment of them by Congress would go far toward arresting the disease. But the condition extends farther, and is more than a disease. It is a progressive deterioration of our social structure and mechanism as a whole, the things that hold it together and make it work.

A proof that the condition is progressive, and of its wide ramifications, is in the current strikes of school teachers, the one presently conspicious and the largest so far being in Buffalo, New York. For an understanding of these strikes in their relation to what is going on in America, go back ten years.

In 1937 President Roosevelt was an outstanding leader in bringing about advances in privileges for organized labor, increased power for unions and their leaders. But he set a limit, or tried to, and confidently thought he could. He took a firm stand against strikes by employees of government, Federal, state or local. His carefully thought-out statement said:

"Collective bargaining as usually understood . . . cannot be translated into the public service . . . The very nature and purpose of government makes it impossible . . . The employer is the whole people . . . A strike by public employees . . . is unthinkable and intolerable."

Unable to Limit or Control

While Roosevelt still lived, proof had come that a leader who sets in motion such a movement as the one he inaugurated early in his administration often finds himself unable to limit or to control what he has set in motion.

As early as 1943 there were strikes of employees in ordinary public services, garbarge collection, municipally-owned transportation and the like. The first one by teachers was in a Connecticut city some six months ago. Since then the number has become considerable and they have taken place in many parts of the country. They are a present national phenomenon.

That teachers have a fine recognition of the special quality of their occupation, and the special elevation of their standing, is shown by their long reluctance to strikes, in spite of just grievances. They have refrained in spite of the glaring inequity of their pay compared with that of workers in other fields. The consciousness of many is shown by reluctance to join unions or to affiliate with the great national labor organizations, or to practice the tactics of ordinary strikes. In one city a strike by teachers was called a "group action." One of the heads of striking teachers in Buffalo is quoted as saying, "We want to run a dignified strike." The striking teachers refrain from picketing in the ordinary sense but have "observers."

Strike Against Government

Yet it is doubtful if teachers fully recognize their special relation to society. A strike by teachers is a strike against government in a sense beyond that of a strike by workers in ordinary public services or such a strike as that of Mr. John L. Lewis' United Mine Workers when the coal mines were being operated by the government. For government says, by formal statute, that a citizen must send his children to school, and punishes him if he does not. A strike by teachers makes it impossible for the citizen to do what the laws says he must do. This is a thing government can hardly endure and remain government at all. It justifies Roosevelt's phrase "unthinkable and intolerable."

But what makes a strike by teachers a special contribution to disease of the social structure is the effect on the young generation they teach. To the pupils, teachers are instructors in conduct, guides and exemplars of it. The effect of what they do when they strike may overcome what they as teachers teach. They teach civics, dealing with the conduct of society, but what they do hardly promotes an orderly society. To pupils, teachers are authority, and when teachers in striking challenge the authority above them they are likely to find it difficult to impose their own authority on pupils, or to inculcate the idea of authority and order.

That the effect must be progressive is obvious. A rising generation becomes confused about the whole field of authority, discipline and order, without some degree of which a society cannot exist and function.

The questioning of discipline and authority goes on in nearly all areas, including even the armed forces. To put special emphasis upon it in schools is only justified by the effect on the future.

Russia's Bickering Increases Critical Situation Of World

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26—Selection of John Foster Dulles to go to the Moscow Conference as an adviser to the U. S. delegation and to Secretary of State Marshall insures a continuance of the bi-partisan course that has been guiding foreign policy. Mr. Dulles is not only a Republican but a man of wide influence in the party.

The purpose in sending Mr. Dulles, however, happens only to be in part related to the fact that he is a prominent Republican. The truth is he is one of the best advisers on foreign affairs in this country. His experience dates from the days when he accompanied the American delegation to the Paris peace conference at the close of World War I.

Mr. Dulles was one of the principal advisers to Secretary of State Stettinius and the American delegation at the San Francisco conference which wrote the United Nations Charter. He attended the "Big Four" meeting in London with Secretary of State Byrnes.

For many years Mr. Dulles has been active in the affairs of the Federal Council of the Church of Christ in America, being the head of a commission which has been concerning itself with declarations on peacemaking. He is widely respected for his endavor to apply Christian principles to the making of public policy in the world generally and probably has given more time and thought to international law and ethics than any other man alive today.

Fully Informed On Issues

Mr. Dulles has, indeed, spent his adult life in the study of foreign policy and matters of law. In private practice he has been concerned with questions of world trade and is thoroughly familiar with the economic as well as the political background of world problems today. The American government is indeed fortunate that Mr. Dulles has sacrificed his private interests for the greater part of the last two years to serve the Department of State.

The connection of Mr. Dulles with domestic politics lies in the fact that he has the confidence of Governor Dewey of New York. It was reported before the 1944 election that, if Mr. Dewey were successful, Mr. Dulles would become secretary of state.

Mr. Dulles has the confidence of Republican members of the Senate, particularly Senator Arthur Vandenberg, of Michigan, with whom he worked closely at San Francisco. Before accepting the Moscow post, Mr. Dulles was in Washington and had a conference with the Michigan senator. It appears, however, that Mr. Dulles does not go as a substitute for Mr. Vandenberg or any other senator. The Senator from Michigan announced this because it is quite possible that a situation may arise requiring his presence at the side of Secretary Marshall for a brief interval.

None of the members of the Senate is anxious to go to Moscow because the pressure of work is such that they want to be at Capitol Hill. The help of Senator Vandenberg in particular is vital in steering through the Senate some of the proposed treaties which were negotiated by Secretary Byrnes. There are other questions of foreign policy and matters relating to economic aid to Europe which will need staunch champions in the Senate, so Mr. Vandenberg's decision to stay here will assist the bi-partisan program very decidedly.

May Be Of Vital Aid At Home

It is quite possible, too, that, with Senators Vandenberg and Connally remaining here, they may be able to make speeches of comment on what's going on in Moscow and help to mobilize world opinion behind Secretary Marshall if issues or cleavages develop which require such public discussion to aid in arriving at a settlement.

The whole world situation is growing increasingly critical and the hope here is that the Russian government has at last come to realize that one of the things that is delaying recovery in Europe and Asia is the constant bickering over relatively unimportant issues. Once there can be a clearing of the air and a settlement reached on how to govern Germany, it is likely that the whole picture will change for the better. To keep Europe in an unsettled state while Russia argues with the other powers of the world does no more than to give lawless forces, like the German underground, a chance to flourish—something which merely adds to the occupation costs that have to be borne by the American and British taxpayers and something which piles up more worries for the Soviet. It is against Russia that much of the fermentation inside Germany is bound to be directed.

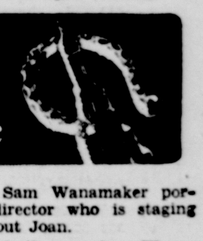
PITCHING HORSESHOES by Billy Rose



What would you do if your house caught fire?

Stand in the living room and tell jokes to the kiddies?

In a pig's ear you would! Chances are you'd run around like crazy and do the silly things people always do when the unexpected hits them.

Ingrid Bergman

Well then, actors aren't people.

When a fire breaks out in a theatre, the actor generally steps down to the footlights to keep the audience from frightening itself into a panic.

I could fill many a column with stories of how actors saved lives by split-second thinking in an emergency.

The heroes of the classic example were a couple of cockney comics named Howard and Hawkins. Howard sang patter songs and Hawkins pointed up his jokes by manipulating a huge cigar. One night, while they were playing a Chicago theatre, a fire broke out in the wings, and the stage filled with smoke. The crowded house was one scream away from a panic. Hawkins was offstage at the time, making a costume change. When Howard saw the smoke, he broke off in the middle of his song, winked at the customers, and cracked, "Awkins 'as lit up that blankety-blank cigar again."

It got a big laugh and the audience settled back in their seats. A minute later, the blaze was under control.

Which brings me to what happened at the Ingrid Bergman show last week.

I was seeing my dream girl in "Joan of Lorraine" for the third time. In the second act, a woman sitting in the first row started to sob. The sob became a moan, and the moan became a shriek. People all over the theatre stood up. No one knew what was happening. It was a moment where one unthinking shout might have set the audience stampeding for the exits. Fire travels fast—hysteria travels faster.

As usual, an actor saved the situation. Before I tell you what happened, I have to tell you something about the show.

"Joan of Lorraine" is a play within a play. It opens on a bare stage, where a company of actors is rehearsing a drama about Joan of Arc. Ingrid Bergman plays the Maid of Orleans. An up-and-coming actor named Sam Wanamaker portrays the director who is staging the play about Joan.

Throughout the evening, Wanamaker functions like a director at a real rehearsal. Sometimes he's on stage telling actors how to read their lines. Sometimes, when they're running through a scene, he sits out in the audience and listens. Occasionally, he interrupts and makes suggestions. He talks to stage hands, holler light cues to the electrician, and generally bosses the works.

Maxwell Anderson's drama is acted out scene by scene through these interruptions. It's so cleverly written and staged, the paying audience gets the illusion it's watching an actual rehearsal.

In the second act, the play within the play reaches its climax in the trial scene. The English Inquisitors lash out savagely at Joan (Ingrid) and threatens to burn her at the stake unless she admits her visions are evil. A man with a black hood enters, and with him comes the hint of thumbscrews and burning flesh.

It was during this scene that the woman down front became hysterical. What happened during the next sixty seconds was one of the neatest things I ever saw in a theatre.

Sam Wanamaker casually walked out on stage. "Stop the rehearsal," he said quietly. "Let's try the scene with a little more light." He looked offstage. "Throw on the houselights," he told an electrician. Then he turned to the cast. "Relax for a minute while I see how it looks from out front."

The actors got it. Ingrid Bergman walked over and began chatting with the Inquisitors. The man in the hood lit a cigarette.

Wanamaker went down into the audience. He planted himself near the hysterical woman. "Bring up the footlights," he called to an assistant. And then he turned to the jittery woman, who was now sobbing softly, and asked her what she thought of the new light setup.

Ten seconds later, it was all over. The woman quieted down, the house lights were dimmed, and Wanamaker signalled the actor to resume the scene.

When the curtain dropped at the end of the play, Miss Bergman got the sustained applause she has received at every performance since opening night.

But when Sam Wanamaker came out for his bow, the audience got to its feet and whooped and hollered.

It was probably the first time in many years that a member of her suporting cast received more applause than the talented Bergman.

I don't think she minded a bit.

Goering Secreted Poison In Toilet In His Jail Cell

Plumbing Differed From That In U. S.

NUERNBERG, Germany, Feb. 26 (AP)—Hermann Goering managed to cheat the hangman because he knew more about German plumbing than his American captors, a reliable source disclosed today.

The informant said that the former Reichsmarshal managed to commit suicide in Nuernberg jail last October by taking poison which he had hidden in the toilet in his cell—a toilet which differed from those in the United States.

Bragged In Farewell Letter

Goering bragged about outsmarting the Americans, in a farewell letter to Col. B. C. Andrus, then the prison commandant, the source said. He gave the following version of that still unpublished letter:

Goering entered Nuernberg with the poison concealed rectally. As soon as he was in his cell, he decided the German-type commode would be the safest place to hide a metal cartridge containing a vial of prussic acid.

There was a slight hump in the outlet pipe through which the water flushed and Goering gambled that the hump was high enough and the metal cartridge heavy enough so the container would not flush out. He put the cartridge in the recess and flushed the toilet experimentally several times. The cartridge stayed there.

Luck Held Out

Goering carried the cartridge to the courtroom with him many times, and his luck held. Although his cell was changed abruptly five different times in his absence, each time he had the cartridge with him.

Sometimes he carried the vial in his uniform pocket, sometimes rectally, and once or twice embedded it in the naval cavity.

Committee Casts Tie Vote On Intentions Bill

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Feb. 26 (AP)—Repeal of Maryland's Declaration of Intentions Act went to sleep in a House committee today.

The Elections Committee cast a tie vote on whether to report the measure favorably and this meant it could not come out.

The bill calls for repeal of the 45-year-old act requiring prospective voters to declare their declaration of intention of becoming citizens a year before registering. It already had passed the Senate.

Nazi "Buzz Bomb" Is Fired From Sub's Deck

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26 (AP)—The Navy has successfully fired a German V-1 rocket from the deck of a submarine, unofficial reports said today.

The Navy Department refused to answer questions concerning the experiment which is understood to have been conducted on the West Coast at Point Mogu, Calif., the Navy's rocket testing station.

Spectators on shore witnessed the flight of the Nazi "buzz bomb" along the coast last week, according to the reports which reached here.

Baltimore Oriole Becomes Official Bird Of Free State

ANNAFOLIS, Md., Feb. 26 (AP)—Ornithological note for those who think the Baltimore Orioles are just a baseball club.

'Tis all very true but Baltimore Orioles are birds—and very pretty ones, too.

Today the oriole became the official bird of the Free State of Maryland.

Gov. Lane signed a law to that effect but there were no birds on hand.

Like the ball club, they intend to hang around the Deep South until spring.

Boxcar Shortage Is Blamed On ICC

CLEVELAND, Feb. 26 (AP)—Rail Executive Robert R. Young today blamed the Interstate Commerce Commission and the federal courts for the nation's boxcar shortage.

"The ICC is at fault in its past decrees that the country had more railroad facilities than could be supported and kept down the acquisition of new rolling stock," the board chairman of Allegany Corporation, railroad hold company, declared in a press conference.

"The federal courts by their interpretation of the Railroad Reorganization Act of 1933 cancelled out the industry's honest dollars. You can't blame management for not buying more equipment if Washington can confiscate investments.

"Congress must rectify this situation or there will be no more investments. The Reorganization Act was intended to protect the railroads but the 'crooks' have used it for purposes not intended by Congress with the result that millions in investments have been wiped out."

The white-haired railroad leader, who controls the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad, the Nickel Plate and the Pere Marquette, and is bidding for New York Central control, said conferences relative to the sale of the Nickel Plate to the Pennsylvania Railroad would commence within a month.

Young said the Nickel Plate could be integrated logically with the Pennsylvania.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Feb. 26 (AP)—Gov. Lane signed today the second batch of General Assembly bills to be enacted since his inauguration.

Illness kept the Governor confined to the executive mansion. The bills were delivered to him there.

They were 57 in number—32 from the Senate and 27 from the House—plus one House joint resolution. The Governor vetoed one House bill which would have barred certain Wicomico County employes from practicing law in connection with their offices.

One of the House bills makes it a misdemeanor for athletes to accept bribes for "fixing" sports contests. It was introduced by Delegate Carrick (D-Balto 6th).

Another series of eight bills gives Baltimore City the authority to issue bonds totaling $55,000,000 for civic improvements, subject to referendum in May.

Three Senate measures provide for setting in the budget the salaries of the State Tax Commission secretary and other employes, deputy state health officers, the chief of the Board of Health and his assistants.

The compensation of court-appointed attorneys will be determined by county and city authorities as the result of another act.

The Governor also signed Senate bills providing for biennial appointments to training school boards of managers, and the naming of an assistant to the Legislative Council's research director.

The posting of a $5,000 bond with the comptroller by the State's Attorney for each county and Baltimore City is required in another bill.

One of the House-originated measures allows filing of petitions for primary election recounts within 10 days after the election.

Boy Is Found Hanging In School Cloakroom

ESSEX, Md., Feb. 26, (AP) — A nine-year-old boy was found hanging by a wool scarf from a coat hanger in the cloakroom of his third grade class today, shortly after he had been sent from the classroom for misbehaving, Essex police reported.

Police and a doctor administered artificial respiration and stimulants for more than one-half hour before he responded.

He was taken to City Hospital and placed in an oxygen tent. Doctors there termed his condition serious.

Cpl. Harry Freund and Patrolman Carrall Huffines identified the boy as Bruce Jennings. They said his teacher, Mrs. Audrey J. Edwards, told them she had banished the youngster to the cloakroom for hitting another third-grader on the head with a book.

Mrs. Edwards told police that when she went in the cloakroom 10 minutes later she found him, his knees buckled, and a wool scarf wrapped around his neck and tied by the other end to a coat hook.

"Night Shift" Will Be Adopted By Great Britain

Introduction Will Pose Many Problems

LONDON, Feb. 26 (AP)—A British government spokesman reluctantly announced tonight that Britain must adopt another innovation—introduction of the "night shift" in industry.

More than a third of Britain's workers must be put on a night shift "at once" to level off the load on the country's time-worn and war-impaired electric power generators, Sir Stafford Cripps, president of the Board of Trade, told the House of Commons.

"There's really no other solution," he said.

Introduction of the night shift—almost unheard of in Britain where few fireside-loving Britons worked at night even during the wartime production crises—will mean "a revolution in the nation's social habits," an official said.

"It will cause a great deal of inconvenience and even discomfort to managements and to operatives," said Anthony Eden, former Foreign Secretary, who nevertheless declared "I think everybody will admit it has some temporary advantage."

Virtually the entire nation is geared for day-time work only. Subways close soon after midnight. Most restaurants and pubs shut their doors by 10 p. m., and theaters are empty soon after.

Transporting, feeding and accommodating millions of night workers therefore promise to be what Eden called problems "very difficult to work out."

A joint committee of labor, employers and government representatives called for reports from local industrial areas on plans for the change.

Controversial Oyster Bill Is Given Assembly

Would Allow Leasing Of Chesapeake Beds

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Feb. 26. (AP)—The General Assembly took unto itself one more hot-to-handle item today in a bill which would allow leasing of oyster beds in the Chesapeake Bay.

The measure, backed by the Tidewater Fisheries Commission as the best means of restocking the depleted bay beds, was sponsored by Speaker Sybert (D-Howard) and Majority Leader Pumphrey (D-Prince George's).

The sponsorship indicated administration backing, although it was not an administration measure.

Despite the fact that the bill was bulwarked by a proviso that the small oystermen now licensed would get absolute priority, there were predictions of a battle royal if the bill ever reaches the floor.

The bill went to the Chesapeake Bay Committee without floor comment and the House went on to complete a routine session.

The Senate, in one of the longest meetings so far, was held up while it engaged in long-winded floor debate on a bill to permit setting up a Maryland Commission on Alcoholism.

The Judiciary Committee had amended the original measure to allow the Governor to name the commission and allow it up to $100,000 a year if funds were available. As drafted, the bill made such a commission mandatory.

The argument was touched off by Sen. McLaughlin (R-Washington), who contended that the expenditure was unjustified and that if a commission were created liquor interests should support it.

Sen. Davis (R-Montgomery) agreed that liquor interests should contribute to establishment of clinics on alcoholism but contended that alcoholism is a disease and a commission should be created.

After more discussion the Senate voted 20 to 8 to adopt the committee's report.

A new move for an investigation of public welfare activities in Maryland was made in the House by Delegate Reed (D-Balto 5th) who offered a resolution that the task be undertaken by the Grand Inquest Committee of the House under its broad powers.

Over Reed's objection, the measure went to the Ways and Means Committee. That group has been holding for several days a resolution by Delegate Luber (D-Balto 5th) calling for a special committee to probe the welfare department.

Rent Control Act Squelched

The Senate Finance Committee and House Ways and Means Committee, laboriously plowing through Gov. Lane's $91,000,000 budget, heard Dr. George H. Preston, commissioner of mental hygiene, say that any budgetary cuts for mental hospitals would seriously handicap their operations.

Dr. Robert H. Riley, director of the State Health Department, and Dr. Victor F. Cullen, former head of tuberculosis sanatoria, also appeared to explain departmental needs.

A state rent control act for Maryland seemed headed for the discard after the Judiciary Committee voted to turn in an unfavorable report on a bill by Sen. Ellison (R-Balto. 4th).

Among the House bills received was one by Delegate Messick (D-Wiscomico), to require the Public Service Commission to investigate applicants for permits to operate charter or contract buses and pronounce them competent and their service necessary to the public welfare.

The investigation would not be required if the applicant was in business from December 7, 1941, to January 1, 1947, and files his application before August 1.

China Reds Open New Offensive In Manchuria

NANKING, Thursday, Feb. 27 (AP)—Government field dispatches said today that nearly 125,000 Chinese Communists had launched a savage new offensive in Manchuria, driving to within 15 miles of Changchun, the capital.

The government's Central News Agency said the Communists, with limited numbers of tanks and armored trucks, had overrun Nungan, 32 miles north of Changchun, and Kiutai, 30 miles to the northeast.

Advance units then speared on southward to the village of Wanpaoshan, 15 miles north of the capital, Central News added. These reports could not be confirmed in Nanking.

This would place the advance guard more than 45 miles south of the Sungari River, which has served as an unofficial dividing line between government and Communist forces during the winter.

against the line of gendarmes who lifted their rifles and held them horizontally across their chests.

The parade stopped.

The leaders of the column began talking with the commanders behind them and the gendarmes in front of them. Thousands of men kept moving forward, pressing tighter and tighter and filling the Broad avenue from window to window.

Leaders of the column began grappling with the gendarmes, who clubbed their rifles and smashed them into the faces of the demonstrators. Heavy canes and clubs were swung and a metallic clanging sounded as they landed on gendarme helmets.

People Crash Through Window

A whole cluster of people suddenly fell backwards through a large plate glass window of a store front. Another cluster standing on top of an automobile dropped inside when the roof collapsed.

Automobiles were overturned, and the gendarmes opened ranks before the rush of the mob.

At that moment mounted police charged. The horses reared high and crashed into the pack of people. The force of the charge was spent after gaining a few feet. The cavalrymen fell back, and the torrent of humanity poured into the Parliament Square.

New lines of mounted troops and armored cars with machine guns waited behind the closed iron-spiked gates. A volley of shots and the chatter of machine-gun fire split through the roar. The firing appeared aimed over the heads of the crowd, but men sprawled on the wet cobblestones.

The mob reached as far as the gates but could go no farther.

union racketeering."

2. Chairman Taft (R-Ohio), of the Senate Labor Committee, said the National Labor Relations Board ought to settle jurisdictional disputes—quarrels between unions—within the AFL and within the CIO. Taft took this position after Vincent F. Morreale, general counsel of the AFL Hod Carriers Union, testified against government settlement of inter-union squabbles.

3. Rev. Jerome L. Toner, labor relations professor at St. Martin's College, Lacey, Wash., told the Senate group the closed shop (which requires hiring of union members only) is "democracy in action under majority rule." He opposed Sen. Ball's (R-Minn) bill to outlaw the various forms of closed shop.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Feb. 26, (AP) — Buffalo's 71,000-pupil education system staggered to a complete shutdown tonight from the effects of a salary strike of 2,400 of its 2,960 teachers.

The Board of Education, in its third stormy session within 36 hours, declared a state of emergency and School Superintendent Robert T. Bapst immediately announced that the 19 schools still open today would not reopen.

The three-day-old strike, largest in United States history, already had closed 79 schools.

The board's action followed a renewed appeal by Mayor Bernard J. Dowd for intervention by New York State officials.

Many principals of the 18 elementary schools that had remained open testified before the board that pickets had instilled fear in the children and had encouraged them to stay away or to make conditions difficult for working teachers.

Meanwhile, the Teamsters Joint Council of Buffalo and Vicinity (AFL) considered cutting off coal and food deliveries to the 19 schools, which are picketed by striking members of the Buffalo Teachers Federation (independent).

Delaware Teachers Protest Salary Bill

DOVER, Del., Feb. 26 (AP)—Delaware teachers swarmed into the State Capitol today to protest a wage increase bill they consider inadequate and upon recess of the State Senate some went down from the gallery to mill about the senators and become involved in a brief skirmish.

The one-day demonstration of approximately half of Delaware's 1,500 teachers closed 25 public schools, including four high schools in Wilmington, the state's largest city.

Teachers, whose minimum wage scale is now $1,680, are opposing a bill passed by the Legislature and awaiting the approval of Republican Gov. Walter W. Bacon. It sets the minimum at $2,000 and provides increases of from $200 to $800.

They have demanded a flat increase of $1,000 but the council for Delaware Education, Inc., has announced they will support its pending bill providing a 30 per cent increase.

Potato Surplus Adds To Worries Of U. S. Officials

Food Price Trend Far From Settled

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26—(AP)—A potato surplus bobbed up today to add new worries to officials confronted by a strange mixture of skyrocketing prices of some foods and tumbling prices of others.

The Agriculture Department found it necessary today to buy three carloads of 1947 crop Florida potatoes in order to carry out a congressional price commitment to growers.

This was the first potato surplus of the new year.

Last year's spud crop turned out to be about 100,000,000 bushels larger than market demands. The department had to take the extra supplies off growers' hands at a cost of about $80,000,000.

The new potato purchase program came at a time when hog prices, reflecting a shortage of supplies, shot up to record levels, and when organized dairymen, on the other hand, were singing the blues about prospective depressed milk prices.

The spurt in hog prices and record advances in grain quotations did not change earlier expressed opinions of officials that the general levels of farm and food prices reached their postwar peak last October and that they will drop below present positions well before the end of the year.

The department already is faced with surpluses of eggs and dried milk as well as of potatoes.

China Reds Open New Offensive In Manchuria

NANKING, Thursday, Feb. 27 (AP)—Government field dispatches said today that nearly 125,000 Chinese Communists had launched a savage new offensive in Manchuria, driving to within 15 miles of Changchun, the capital.

The government's Central News Agency said the Communists, with limited numbers of tanks and armored trucks, had overrun Nungan, 32 miles north of Changchun, and Kiutai, 30 miles to the northeast.

Advance units then speared on southward to the village of Wanpaoshan, 15 miles north of the capital, Central News added. These reports could not be confirmed in Nanking.

This would place the advance guard more than 45 miles south of the Sungari River, which has served as an unofficial dividing line between government and Communist forces during the winter.

Buffalo Teachers' Strike Is 100 Percent Effective

BUFFALO, N. Y., Feb. 26, (AP) — Buffalo's 71,000-pupil education system staggered to a complete shutdown tonight from the effects of a salary strike of 2,400 of its 2,960 teachers.

The Board of Education, in its third stormy session within 36 hours, declared a state of emergency and School Superintendent Robert T. Bapst immediately announced that the 19 schools still open today would not reopen.

The three-day-old strike, largest in United States history, already had closed 79 schools.

The board's action followed a renewed appeal by Mayor Bernard J. Dowd for intervention by New York State officials.

Many principals of the 18 elementary schools that had remained open testified before the board that pickets had instilled fear in the children and had encouraged them to stay away or to make conditions difficult for working teachers.

Meanwhile, the Teamsters Joint Council of Buffalo and Vicinity (AFL) considered cutting off coal and food deliveries to the 19 schools, which are picketed by striking members of the Buffalo Teachers Federation (independent).

against the line of gendarmes who lifted their rifles and held them horizontally across their chests.

The parade stopped.

The leaders of the column began talking with the commanders behind them and the gendarmes in front of them. Thousands of men kept moving forward, pressing tighter and tighter and filling the Broad avenue from window to window.

Leaders of the column began grappling with the gendarmes, who clubbed their rifles and smashed them into the faces of the demonstrators. Heavy canes and clubs were swung and a metallic clanging sounded as they landed on gendarme helmets.

People Crash Through Window

A whole cluster of people suddenly fell backwards through a large plate glass window of a store front. Another cluster standing on top of an automobile dropped inside when the roof collapsed.

Automobiles were overturned, and the gendarmes opened ranks before the rush of the mob.

At that moment mounted police charged. The horses reared high and crashed into the pack of people. The force of the charge was spent after gaining a few feet. The cavalrymen fell back, and the torrent of humanity poured into the Parliament Square.

New lines of mounted troops and armored cars with machine guns waited behind the closed iron-spiked gates. A volley of shots and the chatter of machine-gun fire split through the roar. The firing appeared aimed over the heads of the crowd, but men sprawled on the wet cobblestones.

The mob reached as far as the gates but could go no farther.

union racketeering."

2. Chairman Taft (R-Ohio), of the Senate Labor Committee, said the National Labor Relations Board ought to settle jurisdictional disputes—quarrels between unions—within the AFL and within the CIO. Taft took this position after Vincent F. Morreale, general counsel of the AFL Hod Carriers Union, testified against government settlement of inter-union squabbles.

3. Rev. Jerome L. Toner, labor relations professor at St. Martin's College, Lacey, Wash., told the Senate group the closed shop (which requires hiring of union members only) is "democracy in action under majority rule." He opposed Sen. Ball's (R-Minn) bill to outlaw the various forms of closed shop.

Delaware Teachers Protest Salary Bill

DOVER, Del., Feb. 26 (AP)—Delaware teachers swarmed into the State Capitol today to protest a wage increase bill they consider inadequate and upon recess of the State Senate some went down from the gallery to mill about the senators and become involved in a brief skirmish.

The one-day demonstration of approximately half of Delaware's 1,500 teachers closed 25 public schools, including four high schools in Wilmington, the state's largest city.

Teachers, whose minimum wage scale is now $1,680, are opposing a bill passed by the Legislature and awaiting the approval of Republican Gov. Walter W. Bacon. It sets the minimum at $2,000 and provides increases of from $200 to $800.

They have demanded a flat increase of $1,000 but the council for Delaware Education, Inc., has announced they will support its pending bill providing a 30 per cent increase.

Worker Electrocuted

ROCKVILLE, Md., Feb. 26 (AP) — Earl Johnson, 42, Washington, laborer working on a new water tower here, was electrocuted today while guiding a crane-carried steel section into place. The crane brushed a 2,400-volt power line.

Potato Surplus Adds To Worries Of U. S. Officials

Food Price Trend Far From Settled

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26—(AP)—A potato surplus bobbed up today to add new worries to officials confronted by a strange mixture of skyrocketing prices of some foods and tumbling prices of others.

The Agriculture Department found it necessary today to buy three carloads of 1947 crop Florida potatoes in order to carry out a congressional price commitment to growers.

This was the first potato surplus of the new year.

Last year's spud crop turned out to be about 100,000,000 bushels larger than market demands. The department had to take the extra supplies off growers' hands at a cost of about $80,000,000.

The new potato purchase program came at a time when hog prices, reflecting a shortage of supplies, shot up to record levels, and when organized dairymen, on the other hand, were singing the blues about prospective depressed milk prices.

The spurt in hog prices and record advances in grain quotations did not change earlier expressed opinions of officials that the general levels of farm and food prices reached their postwar peak last October and that they will drop below present positions well before the end of the year.

The department already is faced with surpluses of eggs and dried milk as well as of potatoes.

Potatoes Not Fattening

Potatoes may be served in any course of the meal from soup to dessert. Actually one serving of potatoes contains no more calories than does a banana or a serving of peas. It is the butter and the gravy used on potatoes that make their caloric value rise. One potato supplies only about four percent of the calories required each day.

Star of the East Commandery 461 Knights of Malta, will be host to Rev. Melvin L. Whitmeyer, Nescopeck, Pa., grand commander of the Knights of Malta, for his official visit to Cumberland, Meyersdale and Berlin, Pa., commanderies, which will be held here tomorrow at Malta Temple.

A business session will be held at 7:30, at which time the election of officers will be held.

C. D. Of A. State Court Sponsors Poster Contest

Committee, Delegates To Be Named Mar. 3

Court Cardinal Gibbons, No. 529, Catholic Daughters of America are taking charge, in Western Maryland, of the poster contest being conducted by Maryland State Court Catholic Daughters.

Miss Cecelia Eirich, grand regent, announces that the theme of the poster is "Forward with Tolerance; Onward with Patriotism," and is the same as for the festival, which will be held April 25-27.

The posters must be 15" x 24"; and three colors may be used, and black and white.

Any pupil in the Catholic High Schools of the state may submit one poster, which must be accompanied by a sealed envelope containing the name, age and school of the contestant. All posters must be mailed, with full postage prepaid, to Miss Frances Cassidy, 114 W. Franklin street, Baltimore, 1, Md., and must be received by her not later than March 15.

All posters become the property of the state court, and none will be acknowledged or returned. A jury of three judges will make the awards for $50, for first place; and special art supplies for second and third places. Their decision will be final.

The three winners in the contest will be guests of the state court at it's banquet, April 25, and will receive the awards at that time.

Miss Eirich will name her local poster committee and delegates to the festival, at the regular business session of Court Cardinal Gibbons, at 8, March 3, at the home.

Potatoes Not Fattening

Potatoes may be served in any course of the meal from soup to dessert. Actually one serving of potatoes contains no more calories than does a banana or a serving of peas. It is the butter and the gravy used on potatoes that make their caloric value rise. One potato supplies only about four percent of the calories required each day.

Talk And Exhibit Of Needlepoint Features Program

A talk on needlepoint by Mrs. James Weir Kirk and an exhibit of the work of members of the adult evening classes, taught by Miss Helen Cherry, under the sponsorship of the Board of Education of Allegany County, featured the meeting of the Music Group of the Woman's Civic Club, Tuesday at the public library.

Mrs. Kirk explained that needlepoint is an ancient craft, having been practiced by the lake dwellers of Switzerland, thousands of years ago. However, she said, "the real needlepoint as we know it, using the genuine petit point or tenth stitch, originated in China, in the twelfth century. The art of needle point reached the heighth of popularity in England in the time of Queen Elizabeth and the Stuarts and fell into decadent days uring the late Victorian period.

"New interest has been developed in needle work in the last ten years," the speaker said, and "exhibits of embroidery, held annually in New York, supplies one reason for modern renaissance in needle work in America. The inclination toward original designs constituted one of the outstanding features of the revival of needlew ork in America," vival of needlework in America,"

Besides a display of the complete scope of work done by Miss Cherry's class, which included not only background work but original designs and several types of stitches, there were noteworthy pieces exhibited by members of the Woman's Civic Club. They included pictures, pocketbooks, chair seats and backs, billfolds, cigaret cases, pillows, hats, figures and foot stools, pieces of petit point and bargello, Italian stitch.

Mrs. Miles G. Thompson exhibited an heirloom hanging, with a petit point design on a black satin background; Mrs. Nellie Wilson Footer showed two foot stools, brought from Belgium; Mrs. Catherine Moore, a matching hat and bag with bird of paradise design; Mrs. William Claar, a pocketbook and cigaret case; Mrs. Eugene J. Hopkins, a large picture of a cluster of flowers in soft colors; Mrs. Robert S. Nicholls, several bags and pictures, including a large one of roses and lilacs; Miss Ann Connelly, a wall piece of two figures copied from a picture; besides a needlepoint picture of a collie, a bowl of fruit and a bowl of pansies.

Mrs. William L. Keller is chairman of the group, and was assisted in arranging the exhibit by Mrs. Nicholls and Mrs. Claar, members of Miss Cherry's class. Approximately 50 members attended.

St. Mary's Music Club Has Patriotic Program And Social

A program of patrotic music was presented and plans discussed for the music scrapbook and contest at the meeting of the St. Mary's Music Club yesterday. Roll call was answered by 40 members and routine business was transacted.

Opening with prayer the program consisted of the group singing of "America, the Beautiful," to orchestra accompainiment.

Patricia Webb read a paper on early patriotic music and after she gave the history of each and short sketch of when written the piece was played by a member. "Columbia, Gem of the Ocean," was played as a piano solo by Barbara Decker; "Maryland, My Maryland," clarinet solo by Jeanne Wheeler with Joan Martin at the piano; "Taps," was played by Francis Murphy on the cornet; "Dixie Land," a piano trio by Barbara Martin, Mary Lou Crass and Constance Carroll; and "The Battle Cry of the Republic," clarinet duet by James Van and John Stevens, with Francis Murphy at the piano.

The second part of the program was devoted to later patriotic music with Gary Smith playing "American Patrol," as a piano solo; Janet Pisaneschi and Delores Lisanti, "Anchors Away," a piano duet; Hugh Scott, "The Caissons," piano solo; Michael Kelly, "Marine Hymn," piano solo; and the Coast Guard Song, "Semper Paratus," was played as a piano duet by Eileen Cary and Martha Rogan.

Next popular war songs were played with Patricia Comer playing, "Grand Old Flag," as a saxaphone solo, with Mary Margaret King at the piano; "There's a Star Spangled Banner Waving Somewhere," by Lois Nehring on the violin with Regina Britt at the piano; and the musical program concluded with the National Anthem played as a piano duet by Mary Margaret and James King.

It was announced that the contest of music scrapbooks and "busy work music books" will be held next month. They will be divided into groups and first and second prizes will be awarded each group. One group will be the high school students; the next group seventh and eighth grades; another the fifth and sixth grades; and the third and fourth grades.

Following the singing of "God Bless America," a social meeting was held.

Girl Scouts Will Have Open House For Anniversary

An open house will be held March 12, by the local Girl Scouts in celebration of the 35th anniversary of the Girl Scouts of America. All persons interested in scouting are welcome to attend the program, which will begin at 7 o'clock. The theme for the anniversary is "Girl Scouts—Better Citizens Build a Better World."

Since the organization of the first Girl Scout troop of 12 girls, in Savannah, Ga., March 12, 1912, by Juliette Lowe the Girl Scouts have grown to more than a million girls. The aim of 1947 is to secure more interested adults, so that no girl will be barred from scouting because of the lack of leaders.

Prior to the party, leadership certificates will be presented to all leaders who have completed the required training course. Mrs. J. Gordon Mitchell will make the presentations, assisted by Miss Helen Campbell, president of the Leaders Association. There will also be a color guard ritual.

What To Do For That Sluggish, Down-and-Out Feeling
Remember the time when you could eat like a horse, bubbled-over with energy, felt happy as a lark? Was it not because you liked to eat—didn't know what indigestion was, felt strong as an ox? As age advances the "old stomach and the ever-changing blood" need help. Now you may again release vibrant energy to every muscle, fibre, cell.
Every day—every hour—millions of tiny red-blood-cells must pour forth from the marrow of your bones to replace those that are worn-out. A low blood count may affect you in several ways: no appetite, underweight, no energy, a run-down condition, lack of resistance to infection and disease.
To get real relief you must keep up your blood strength. Medical authorities, by analysis of the blood, have by positive proof shown that SSS Tonic is amazingly effective in building up low blood strength in non-organic nutritional anemia. This is due to the SSS Tonic formula which contains special and potent activating ingredients.
Also, SSS Tonic helps you enjoy the food you eat by increasing the gastric digestive juice when it is non-organically too little or scanty—thus the stomach will have little cause to get balky with gas, bloat and give off that sour food taste.
Don't wait! Energize your body with rich, red-blood. Start on SSS Tonic now. As vigorous blood surges throughout your whole body, greater freshness and strength should make you eat better, sleep better, feel better, work better, play better, have a healthy color glow in your skin—firm flesh fill out hollow places. Millions of bottles sold. Get a bottle from your drug store. SSS Tonic helps Build Sturdy Health.

Military Funerals Planned For Heroes

The bodies of World War II veterans, expected to be returned from overseas shortly, will be buried with full military rites provided by Fort Cumberland Post No. 13, American Legion, members said yesterday.

A special graves registration committee will be set up in the near future, Commander Phil Fleming announced. The committee will furnish pallbearers, firing squad and a bugler for the funeral and register each grave, Fleming explained.

John R. Neff, sergeant-at-arms of Fort Cumberland Post, was named chairman of the new committee and other members will be appointed in the near future, Fleming asserted. Members of the post's present burial committee, composed of Neff, George Cline, Truman Fuller, Earl Brode, Roland Showers, James Beal, George Zimmerla, James Jones and Joseph Fradiska, will also serve on the graves registration committee, which has Fuller as co-chairman.

Plans for a half-hour radio program Sunday, April 6, which is Army Day, have been abandoned, Fleming said, due to no time being available on the local station. The commander added, however, that efforts will still be made to hold some sort of a ceremony suitable to the occasion. April 6 is also the thirtieth anniversary of America's entrance into World War I.

Ten Pullman cars may be provided as housing accommodations for some Lehigh university students. And the fun will start when they try to open windows for fresh air.

Traffic Resumed After 14-Car Derailment

Traffic on the Western Maryland Railway's single line at Casselman, Pa., near Rockwood, blocked by a midnight derailment of 14 cars Tuesday, was opened to traffic at 12:45 p. m. yesterday, railway officials said last night.

They said an extra freight pulled by Engine No. 1202 derailed with the fourth car behind the locomotive leaving the tracks followed by 13 others. Twelve of the cars upset while two remained upright. Nine of the derailed cars were loaded with coal while the rest were hauling pipe and miscellaneous cargo. The freight was headed toward Cumberland.

W. E. Brechbiel, this city, was the engineer, and J. H. Mulligan, also of this city, was conductor. Railway officials said no one was injured.

Rate of blinking the eyes varies greatly, ranging from three to 20 times per minute.

White sidewall tires, as illustrated, will be supplied at extra cost as soon as available.

THAT grille's as fresh and fashion-worthy as a Paris label in a new bonnet.

That long, clean, sweeping-all-the-way-through fender line is as much a "must" with the style-wise as white tie with tails.

There's the sparkle of bright, fresh colors — the rich sheen of chaste chrome—the sleek, slick, able look of an express cruiser, shined and polished for Regatta Day.

But is this the only way in which Buick's smart? Not by a barrelful!

Look at the engine room in that bonnet — that means torrents of Fireball power to put the lift of a lifetime in every mile.

That hug-the-road look means steadiness always—and cushiony coil springs on all four wheels spell serene disregard of any road's rude jolts.

Look at the width amidships that gives you lolling room both front and back—and at push-button controls that not only raise and lower the top, but move door windows up and down and the front seat back and forth.

And look deeper. At engines so fine-made they keep their new-car liveliness seemingly forever. At stout metals and sturdy underpinning, at husky, curl-around bumpers, controls light as a ladyfinger; at wheels that curb heel-over on turns, and brakes both easy and sure.

Fact is, in this trim Convertible or any of the eight other body types, Buick's the smartest buy as well as '47's smartest car. It's the place where dollar-sense meets with style-sense to produce America's most wanted automobile.

Such being so — why hesitate? A day lost now in placing an order can be a week lost later in taking delivery, so — get your order in now!

THAT grille's as fresh and fashion-worthy as a Paris label in a new bonnet.

That long, clean, sweeping-all-the-way-through fender line is as much a "must" with the style-wise as white tie with tails.

There's the sparkle of bright, fresh colors — the rich sheen of chaste chrome—the sleek, slick, able look of an express cruiser, shined and polished for Regatta Day.

But is this the only way in which Buick's smart? Not by a barrelful!

Look at the engine room in that bonnet — that means torrents of Fireball power to put the lift of a lifetime in every mile.

That hug-the-road look means steadiness always—and cushiony coil springs on all four wheels spell serene disregard of any road's rude jolts.

Look at the width amidships that gives you lolling room both front and back—and at push-button controls that not only raise and lower the top, but move door windows up and down and the front seat back and forth.

And look deeper. At engines so fine-made they keep their new-car liveliness seemingly forever. At stout metals and sturdy underpinning, at husky, curl-around bumpers, controls light as a ladyfinger; at wheels that curb heel-over on turns, and brakes both easy and sure.

Fact is, in this trim Convertible or any of the eight other body types, Buick's the smartest buy as well as '47's smartest car. It's the place where dollar-sense meets with style-sense to produce America's most wanted automobile.

Such being so — why hesitate? A day lost now in placing an order can be a week lost later in taking delivery, so — get your order in now!

I HAVE NOT DONE MY BEST

I am always amazed at the creatures who complacently declare that they have "done their best" under any and every condition.

I am quite sure that I have never done my best.

Even when my very soul was torn with the desire to serve, I have not done my best. I thought I was doing so at the time. But, looking back now, I realize that I could have improved the situation greatly if I had merely left the room and closed the door and let others have a little peace. But being by nature a Bustling Bessie I must always be in the thick of things. I can never keep my mouth shut or my hands still. And giving orders is my middle name.

It's not easy to make these confessions after a long and well meaning life. But the simple truth is, I have never done my best nor even approached doing it. I have loved passionately and sacrificed heroically and made a perfect pest of myself by doing so.

Now, at long last, I'm beginning to be a little humble. I'm beginning to see what a nuisance a well meaning person can be. And my only consolation is that I also see how much greater we really are than our poor actions indicate.

I have never done my best but I have ached cruelly to do it. I have been completely willing at many times to give my life for those I love —even though I was never willing to let them live their own lives for themselves, which they much preferred.

But there's something comforting anyway in knowing that I am a better person than I have ever acted.

It's a comfort to think of this not only for myself but for everyone I know.

We are all so much finer than we seem. We all contain such high peaks of grandeur which we never express and such enfolding wings of tenderness.

I have never done my best.

STRAWS IN THE WIND

BROADWAY

By DANTON WALKER

Manhattan Memoranda

Broadwayites returning from the Miamis will tell you that the front page robberies down there are insignificant compared to those that are hushed up. Some victims prefer to swallow their losses rather than have the income tax men get exaggerated ideas. . . . By next year, Havana expects to get the biggest spending trade since Ben Marden of New York is planning a new and luxurious casino there calculated to make the Cuban capital "the Monte Carlo of the Americas.". . . Federal attorneys working on the Garsson case might investigate the report that all during the war a "dummy" worker appeared on the payroll of the New York office. The gal, who never showed up at the office, or did any other kind of work except to threw her "influence" around, was the daughter of a fairly high-ranking military man. . . . Newest gag in sub-letting apartments is to make the new tenant absorb the final phone bill, which sometimes runs into three figures, in addition to selling him a lot of junk described as furniture.

Signs of Spring Department: Orders for pleasure yachts at an all-time high. . . . This week, however, Dan Healy thinks New York's theme song should be There's No Business Like Snow Business. . . . Metropolitan Opera singer Donald Dame, on a recital tour of Nova Scotia, was snowbound last week for two days and only got by dog sled in time to make a train for Montreal, arriving 30 minutes ahead of his scheduled broadcast. . . . Diplomatic scuttlebutt is that England's terrible weather may turn out to be a blessing in disguise. Coming on top of the coal shortage, it has created such disaffection with the Labor Government that a turnover is freely predicted in another six months. And then look to see Winston Churchill become top man again. . . . England's Queen Elizabeth, reviving an old custom among royalty, has commissioned the Royal Academy's modern artist Rodrigo Moynihan to paint Princess Elizabeth's portrait, and commissioned John Piper to do a series of Windsor Castle views.

Margot Grahame collapsed on her arrival in England and is recuperating in a nursing home near London . . . . Dave Selznick coming to New York to make final settlements with his wife, Irene. . . . A well-known female movie star, having extracted all the publicity about changing her religion, has changed her mind, instead. . . . Warner Brothers reshuffling their entire talent department and will start screen-testing Broadway prospects here in the East. Shakeup rumored to have been precipitated by the former talent scout's failure to sign a leading man in a popular hit who received especially fine notices from the New York critics. . . . One of Hollywood's former male movie idols, dating from the silent days, is now such a physical wreck that he can scarcely dress himself. Too much elbow-bending. . . . Another and much younger one, very much about town, is following in his footsteps.

Rosita Royce, the lady of the doves, writes from Panama that things are booming there, with all-nite shows and natives dancing in the streets. Sends a reproduction of this column's profile on her, dating from the New York World's Fair, which has become her trade mark and has appeared with her all over the world. . . . The Flamingo gambling casino in Las Vegas folded suddenly for the odd reason that it was too high class for the tourists and couldn't wait until the expected Hollywood crowd. . . . Pan American's assistant director of public relations, Larry Nixon, has joined up with F. Darius Benham, founder of the Circus Saints & Sinners, to found a new publicity office with New York headquarters. . . . Hollywood's bogus Prince Michael Romanoff now is getting some competition from a real title Italian-born Count Alphonse DeLucia, who has taken over the Chantecler on Sunset Strip.

Raymond Duncan's one-man show, an autobiographical drama, turned out to be an interesting evening, holding the interest of even youngsters to whom the Duncans, a strange and talented tribe, were little more than a myth. . . . The Donald Wolfit troupe, after getting off on the wrong foot with a production of "King Lear" that made the actors resemble a stageful of animated flea bags, has redeemed itself with a competent and not unattractive presentation of "The Merchant of Venice." In London they call Wolfit "the poor man's Gielgud.". . . . The Broadway insiders predict that the real sensation of this season will be Judith Anderson's "Medea.". . . The indefatigable Aline Bernstein, who has by turns been costume designer (for the Neighborhood Playhouse and the Theatre Guild) scenic designer, playwright and novelist ("An Actor's Daughter" et al) will have another opus out March 20, published by Knopf. Title, "Miss Condon."

Designs have been completed for an "electropult" capable of launching largest existing airliners in 500 feet with a 120-mph takeoff. They now need 4000 feet.

Broadwayites returning from the Miamis will tell you that the front page robberies down there are insignificant compared to those that are hushed up. Some victims prefer to swallow their losses rather than have the income tax men get exaggerated ideas. . . . By next year, Havana expects to get the biggest spending trade since Ben Marden of New York is planning a new and luxurious casino there calculated to make the Cuban capital "the Monte Carlo of the Americas." . . Federal attorneys working on the Garsson case might investigate the report that all during the war a "dummy" worker appeared on the payroll of the New York office. The gal, who never showed up at the office, or did any other kind of work except to threw her "influence" around, was the daughter of a fairly high-ranking military man. . . . Newest gag in sub-letting apartments is to make the new tenant absorb the final phone bill, which sometimes runs into three figures, in addition to selling him a lot of junk described as furniture.

Metropolitan Opera singer Donald Dame, on a recital tour of Nova Scotia, was snowbound last week for two days and only got by dog sled in time to make a train for Montreal, arriving 30 minutes ahead of his scheduled broadcast. . . . Diplomatic scuttlebutt is that England's terrible weather may turn out to be a blessing in disguise. Coming on top of the coal shortage, it has created such disaffection with the Labor Government that a turnover is freely predicted in another six months. And then look to see Winston Churchill become top man again. . . . England's Queen Elizabeth, reviving an old custom among royalty, has commissioned the Royal Academy's modern artist Rodrigo Moynihan to paint Princess Elizabeth's portrait, and commissioned John Piper to do a series of Windsor Castle views.

One of Hollywood's former male movie idols, dating from the silent days, is now such a physical wreck that he can scarcely dress himself. Too much elbow-bending. . . . Another and much younger one, very much about town, is following in his footsteps.

Rosita Royce, the lady of the doves, writes from Panama that things are booming there, with all-nite shows and natives dancing in the streets. Hollywood's bogus Prince Michael Romanoff now is getting some competition from a real title Italian-born Count Alphonse DeLucia, who has taken over the Chantecler on Sunset Strip.

Raymond Duncan's one-man show, an autobiographical drama, turned out to be an interesting evening, holding the interest of even youngsters to whom the Duncans, a strange and talented tribe, were little more than a myth. . . . The Donald Wolfit troupe, after getting off on the wrong foot with a production of "King Lear" that made the actors resemble a stageful of animated flea bags, has redeemed itself with a competent and not unattractive presentation of "The Merchant of Venice." In London they call Wolfit "the poor man's Gielgud.". . . The Broadway insiders predict that the real sensation of this season will be Judith Anderson's "Medea.". . . Tucker County Schools Closed By Heavy Snows

Drifts Reported Up To 20 Feet

By HELEN COLLETT

PARSONS, W. Va., Feb. 26—With high northwest winds drifting snow across county roads to depths estimated at 20 feet in some sections, school authorities announced tonight that all Tucker county schools will be closed until Monday, March 3.

Reardon Cuppett, county superintendent of schools, said only two school buses operated today in the Fairfax and Black Fork districts, and that children going to school in Thomas and Parsons on those buses were sent home early this afternoon when it was feared mounting snow drifts would block roads completely.

All roads traveled by school buses were opened earlier this week by the State Roads Commission, and most of the 11 buses operated yesterday. Increasingly heavy snowfall and high winds last night closed roads as fast as they were opened, however.

Urging motorists to stay off highways unless travel is absolutely necessary, Fred Long, state roads supervisor, said tonight that U. S. Route 219 between Parsons and Thomas is clear and that crews worked all day today clearing roads in the Bull Run section. Eight schools in that section were closed yesterday.

Long said 28 men and 10 trucks have been working since the snow storm began last Thursday, stating that crews have been working 8 to 15-hour shifts on a 24-hour schedule to fight drifting snow.

Eighteen to 20 inches is reported at St. George, and in the Limestone and Pifer Mountain sections snow has drifted up to 20 feet deep. Most of the schools in the lower end of the county have been closed since Monday night.

Primary roads in the Thomas section are being kept open, but secondary roads are completely blocked, according to Bert Pease, assistant road supervisor.

One secondary road leading into Canaan Valley is open only for one-way traffic in several places, with drifts reported up to 18 feet. Pase said the Davis Coal and Coke Company of Thomas is operating its own bulldozer to assist state road crews in clearing roads between Kempton, Pierce, Benbush, Douglas and neighboring communities.

In Parsons late tonight the temperature was unofficially reported at 4 above zero, with from 16 to 18 inches of snow on the level. It was snowing heavily, and a high wind was blowing. No storm accidents have been reported, however.

Injured In Blast

Two men injured in a dynamite blast while working at a strip mining operation of the Sam Polina Company near Thomas last night were reported in serious condition at an Elkins hospital.

They are Harry Judy, 45, Silver Lake, Md., who suffered a fracture of the right arm and right leg, and deep lacerations of the right side of the head; and Chester Canan, 30, Davis, who suffered a fracture of the right leg and a possible fracture of the right arm.

Newspaper Sold

Lowell George, editor and owner of the Tucker Democrat, a weekly newspaper, since 1942, announced today that he has sold the paper to R. K. McLain, editor of the weekly Parsons Advocate, for an undisclosed purchase price.

The final edition of the Tucker Democrat to bear George's name as editor will appear tomorrow morning. George purchased the newspaper in 1942 from the late Mrs. Eugenia Morris after her son, William Morris, who had edited the paper since 1940, entered the Army.

Later George entered the Navy, and the newspaper was edited during his absence by Dana Lee Deane, Buckhannon. The Tucker Democrat first started publishing about 60 years ago.

The next meeting of the Ministerium will be held March 24 at Centre Street Methodist Church, including an Easter service and communion for ministers and their wives.

New Flood Plan Obstacles Are Reported Here

Joint Commission Is Suggested

The proposal of Army engineers to establish a single interstate authority to handle Cumberland and Ridgeley as a joint flood protection propect was termed a "wholly new but serious obstacle to carrying out the plans for flood control," in a letter sent by Charles Z. Heskett, city attorney, to Harold W. Smith, chairman of the Municipal Planning and Zoning Commission.

Heskett's letter was in reply to a communication sent the commission by Whitman, Requardt and Associates, Baltimore engineers. The firm is preparing a flood control report for the commission and submitted a preliminary draft to the Army Engineers for comment. Col. Donald G. White, in charge of the district engineer's office, made the proposal for the interstate commission.

White in a letter declared the present opinion of the Engineer Department is that if the project is to proceed, concurrent operations in both communities should be vigorously promoted in the interest of economy in construction and for satisfactory inter-community relations. Consideration of the method of handling local contributions from Cumberland and Ridgeley seem to indicate that a single agency should be created to represent all non-federal participation and to operate and maintain the project after completion to the extent required by law.

Practical Difficulties

In the letter to Smith Heskett writes:

"The new position taken by Col. White with relation to handling Cumberland and Ridgeley as a joint flood protection project under the direction of a joint flood contrl commission, certainly presents a wholly new but serious obstacle to carrying out the plans for flood control. It may be admitted that Ridgeley and Cumberland are interrelated but the years of engineering, studying and planning have all been based on the theory of wholly separate projects. Even if a joint commission with the authority suggested by Col. White would be created a most serious situation would be developed because the obvious implications in Col. White's letter is that Cumberland must take over financing flood protection for Ridgeley. This theory would certainly present many practical political dificuties. I believe that there is sentiment among all residents of Cumberland for flood protection, but we cannot assume that it is unanimous. If we consider that the people of Cumberland must find approximately one and one-half million dollars for protection of Cumberland and in addition to that, approximately $600,000 for protection for Ridgeley, I doubt very much whether the people of Cumberland would stand for it.

"In any event the subject offers other serious practical difficulties. It would be most certainly necessary to get the legislature of Maryland and the legislature of West Virginia to pass identical acts creating a joint commission of flood control and enter into a compact between the two states. I very seriously question whether or not there is sufficient time left to secure such legislation and I am quite sure that there is not sufficient time to secure official legislation in the present year if the legislation has to be cleared through Washington before being passed.

"As a practical matter, therefore, it would seem to be necessary to persuade Col. White to go back to the original theory that the projects are entirely separate as otherwise flood control will certainly be stymied for an indefinite period."

Two Divorces Granted

Two divorces were granted yesterday in Circuit Court and one application for an absolute divorce was filed.

Chief Judge William A. Huster awarded a divorce to Mrs. Dorothy L. Farrady, Pittsburgh, from William A. Farrady and gave the mother custody of a minor child. Mrs. Emma E. Sharon was granted a divorce from Charles L. Sharon.

Mrs. Helen A. Bottemer filed suit for an absolute divorce from Lawrence P. Bottemer.

Conference Held On Child Health In County Schools

Progress of child health experimental centers now in operation in four county schools was discussed at a conference yesterday in the office of Dr. Joseph P. Franklin, city and county health officer, attended by Dr. Edward Davens, chief of the bureau of child hygiene, State Department of Health, and Richard T. Rizer, assistant superintendent of county schools.

The centers, located in Gephart School, Cumberland; Bruce High School, Westernport, and the Cresaptown and Piney Plains schools, were put into operation several months ago to check vision, hearing, height and weight measurements of children.

Three types of special cards are kept, providing dental and medical records and a teacher's observation card for recording symptoms which may require examination by a visiting health nurse or a medical specialist.

Dr. Davens expressed enthusiasm with the work being done in the county and said that Allegany is one of seven counties in the state which has such child health experimental centers in the schools.

Rizer pointed out that the program is expanding, since children in the selected grades are being promoted and new children are coming into those grades, increasing the work as time goes by.

The Massachusetts Vision Test apparatus, developed in recent years through testing of 10,000 school children, was discussed. This type of test provides for more accurate screening of vision defects, such as far and nearsightedness and vertical and horizontal muscular inbalance.

Rizer said it is hoped to secure the device for experimental purposes in county schools.

Chief Of Police Eyerman Returns From Vacation

Spikes Retirement Talk With Work Plan

Oscar A. Eyerman, Chief of the Cumberland Police Department, returned yesterday from a three-months vacation in California and promptly spiked any talk of his retirement by announcing that he will report for work today.

"I'm in fine spirits," the chief said, "and plan to go back to work right away. I needed a long rest, but it took a vacation to convince me of the fact." The city looks good, and I feel fine, the chief said, adding any talk of retirement is out.

Prior to his departure for a visit with his son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. George R. Everman, Los Angeles, Calif., December 1, 1946, many informed sources were predicting that Chief Eyerman would retire by the first of the year.

Noted for his short answers to newspapermen on different occasions, last night the chief talked freely of the three months he spent in California and declared he would not let another five years pass without taking a vacation.

During the three months, Chief Eyerman said "I rested and then rested some more, it was wonderful." However, a love for the garden was professed and he declared he planted a number of Easter flowers and other plants in his son's garden while he was there. "They were blooming when my wife and I started home Sunday a week ago," the chief announced with pleasure.

Several visits were made to Hollywood by Chief and Mrs. Eyerman during the vacation too and he admitted that he enjoyed seeing the nation's movie entertainment being filmed.

The retirement question was laughed at, and Chief Eyerman declared he would report for work today "if they will have me."

Returning to the city at a time when the much discussed slot machine question was being aired throughout the city, the chief declared he knew nothing about it, explaining that he hadn't seen a local paper for months.

The trip home was as enjoyable as the vacation the chief said, and he enjoyed it. However, he recalled that the bad weather that has been hanging over the east for the past week was encountered in Tennessee.

Lt. Detective B. Frank Gaffney has been serving as chief of police during the absence of Chief Eyerman.

Tucker County Schools Closed By Heavy Snows

Drifts Reported Up To 20 Feet

By HELEN COLLETT

PARSONS, W. Va., Feb. 26—With high northwest winds drifting snow across county roads to depths estimated at 20 feet in some sections, school authorities announced tonight that all Tucker county schools will be closed until Monday, March 3.

Reardon Cuppett, county superintendent of schools, said only two school buses operated today in the Fairfax and Black Fork districts, and that children going to school in Thomas and Parsons on those buses were sent home early this afternoon when it was feared mounting snow drifts would block roads completely.

All roads traveled by school buses were opened earlier this week by the State Roads Commission, and most of the 11 buses operated yesterday. Increasingly heavy snowfall and high winds last night closed roads as fast as they were opened, however.

Urging motorists to stay off highways unless travel is absolutely necessary, Fred Long, state roads supervisor, said tonight that U. S. Route 219 between Parsons and Thomas is clear and that crews worked all day today clearing roads in the Bull Run section. Eight schools in that section were closed yesterday.

Long said 28 men and 10 trucks have been working since the snow storm began last Thursday, stating that crews have been working 8 to 13-hour shifts on a 24-hour schedule to fight drifting snow.

Eighteen to 20 inches is reported at St. George, and in the Limestone and Pifer Mountain sections snow has drifted up to 20 feet deep. Most of the schools in the lower end of the county have been closed since Monday night.

Primary roads in the Thomas section are being kept open, but secondary roads are completely blocked, according to Bert Pease, assistant road supervisor.

One secondary road leading into Canaan Valley is open only for one-way traffic in several places, with drifts reported up to 18 feet. Pase said the Davis Coal and Coke Company of Thomas is operating its own bulldozer to assist state road crews in clearing roads between Kempton, Pierce, Benbush, Douglas and neighboring communities.

In Parsons late tonight the temperature was unofficially reported at 4 above zero, with from 16 to 18 inches of snow on the level. It was snowing heavily, and a high wind was blowing. No storm accidents have been reported, however.

Injured In Blast

Two men injured in a dynamite blast while working at a strip mining operation of the Sam Polina Company near Thomas last night were reported in serious condition at an Elkins hospital.

They are Harry Judy, 45, Silver Lake, Md., who suffered a fracture of the right arm and right leg, and deep lacerations of the right side of the head; and Chester Canan, 30, Davis, who suffered a fracture of the right leg and a possible fracture of the right arm.

Newspaper Sold

Lowell George, editor and owner of the Tucker Democrat, a weekly newspaper, since 1942, announced today that he has sold the paper to R. K. McLain, editor of the weekly Parsons Advocate, for an undisclosed purchase price.

The final edition of the Tucker Democrat to bear George's name as editor will appear tomorrow morning. George purchased the newspaper in 1942 from the late Mrs. Eugenia Morris after her son, William Morris, who had edited the paper since 1940, entered the Army.

Later George entered the Navy, and the newspaper was edited during his absence by Dana Lee Deane, Buckhannon. The Tucker Democrat first started publishing about 60 years ago.

The next meeting of the Ministerium will be held March 24 at Centre Street Methodist Church, including an Easter service and communion for ministers and their wives.

The centers, located in Gephart School, Cumberland; Bruce High School, Westernport, and the Cresaptown and Piney Plains schools, were put into operation several months ago to check vision, hearing, height and weight measurements of children.

Three types of special cards are kept, providing dental and medical records and a teacher's observation card for recording symptoms which may require examination by a visiting health nurse or a medical specialist.

Dr. Davens expressed enthusiasm with the work being done in the county and said that Allegany is one of seven counties in the state which has such child health experimental centers in the schools.

Rizer pointed out that the program is expanding, since children in the selected grades are being promoted and new children are coming into those grades, increasing the work as time goes by.

The Massachusetts Vision Test apparatus, developed in recent years through testing of 10,000 school children, was discussed. This type of test provides for more accurate screening of vision defects, such as far and nearsightedness and vertical and horizontal muscular inbalance.

Rizer said it is hoped to secure the device for experimental purposes in county schools.

Chief Of Police Eyerman Returns From Vacation

Spikes Retirement Talk With Work Plan

Oscar A. Eyerman, Chief of the Cumberland Police Department, returned yesterday from a three-months vacation in California and promptly spiked any talk of his retirement by announcing that he will report for work today.

"I'm in fine spirits," the chief said, "and plan to go back to work right away. I needed a long rest, but it took a vacation to convince me of the fact." The city looks good, and I feel fine, the chief said, adding any talk of retirement is out.

Prior to his departure for a visit with his son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. George R. Eyerman, Los Angeles, Calif., December 1, 1946, many informed sources were predicting that Chief Eyerman would retire by the first of the year.

Noted for his short answers to newspapermen on different occasions, last night the chief talked freely of the three months he spent in California and declared he would not let another five years pass without taking a vacation.

During the three months, Chief Eyerman said "I rested and then rested some more, it was wonderful." However, a love for the garden was professed and he declared he planted a number of Easter flowers and other plants in his son's garden while he was there. "They were blooming when my wife and I started home Sunday a week ago," the chief announced with pleasure.

Several visits were made to Hollywood by Chief and Mrs. Eyerman during the vacation too and he admitted that he enjoyed seeing the nation's movie entertainment being filmed.

The retirement question was laughed at, and Chief Eyerman declared he would report for work today "if they will have me."

Returning to the city at a time when the much discussed slot machine question was being aired throughout the city, the chief declared he knew nothing about it, explaining that he hadn't seen a local paper for months.

The trip home was as enjoyable as the vacation the chief said, and he enjoyed it. However, he recalled that the bad weather that has been hanging over the east for the past week was encountered in Tennessee.

Lt. Detective B. Frank Gaffney has been serving as chief of police during the absence of Chief Eyerman.

Whitefield Quits Squad

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 26 (AP)—Malvin Whitfield, Los Angeles, a distance runner, announced today he had quit the Ohio State University track squad because of "discrimination."

Coach Larry Snyder said he had received assurance that Whitfield, a staff sergeant at the nearby Lockbourne Army Air Base, would return to the squad.

Snyder said a "misunderstanding" arose because Whitfield was not allowed taxi fare from downtown Columbus to the Lockbourne base—a 10-mile distance—upon the squad's return from Minneapolis Sunday.

Advice To The Lovelorn

Girl, 17, In Love With Boy Her Age Is Advised To Stick To Plans

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX
Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I'm 17, and in love with a boy my age. We both date other people, and both plan to go to college next year. He says he loves me, too, and wants me to marry him eventually. We both plan to meet a lot of people in college, "get around" a lot, and then, if we still feel the same way, to get married.

Do you think 17 is too young to know if you really love someone? Do you think we would be happy if we decided to marry and go on to college, or do you think if one of us found someone else, the other would be left bitter, alone and never marry, maybe? Lastly, what do you think are the signs of someone loving you? This boy is the athletic type, has seen a good deal of sorrow in his life, but is slightly conceited and spoiled. He also seems to be rather jealous. How do you think a person of this temperament would display his love and sincere affection?

"ANXIOUS."

That's a lot of questions you're asking all at once, "Anxious," and I feel sure that all of them will take care of themselves if you and this boy are wise enough to go right ahead with your plans.

I do think 17 is too young to be certain that you are in love for good. I do not think that, even though the two of you feel now you want to marry eventually, you can enjoy yourselves apart, at different colleges, in the meantime. And I don't think that if one of you found someone else, the other would remain an embittered bachelor or bachelor-maid all the rest of his or her life. Finally, I think the signs of true love are, fundamentally, that the person you love comes first in you thoughts; that you are so full of the desire to make the loved one happy, that there is no room in you for conceit, selfishness or jealousy, which are all a matter of putting yourself first.

Question Of Telling

Dera Miss Fairfax:

I am a girl in my early twenties, and the mother-to-be of a child. What I'm trying to get at is, how I can get around to telling him and his mother. His mother is a very conceited person.

Before he came home from the service, he said we would get married, and his mother opposed it. Now he hasn't come to see me more than three times since this happened. Who do you think I should tell first, him or his mother? My mother knows all about this, so I have nothing to keep from her. Please advise me on how I should get around to telling him and his mother.

"A FAITHFUL READER."

I don't see why you should have anything to say to this man's mother at all. It is a matter solely between yourself and him. I am very much afraid that your chief reason for wanting to tell her is that, since she opposed your marrying her son, you want to flaunt in her face the fact that you are going to have his child. Your desire to "take her down a peg" shows very plainly in what you say about her being a "very conceited person."

As far as telling him is concerned, the only way to tell a person anything is to go ahead and do it. Since he seems to have lost interest in you already, however, I wouldn't predict a very happy outcome.

KEEPING UP WITH

HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 25.—Hold Everything! Jean Arthur, the elusive one, sought after by every producer and every film company, has finally been captured, signed and will soon be delivered. Charlie Brackett and Billy Wilder, that inimitable pair were the lucky captors.

Eleanor Powell

Well, I'll say Jean's lucky, too, on account of, if I were an actress, I don't know anyone I'd rather make a picture for than these two.

They chose for Jean "Foreign Affairs", a dramatic comedy, which tells the story of an American congresswoman in Berlin who's investigating the morals of our boys there.

I asked if the attractive Clare Booth Luce had inspired the story and they said, "No, our congresswoman is just a fictional character and she's being put on paper by Billy Wilder and Robert Harari who are writing the script."

P. S. It's for Paramount, of course.

Dorothy Lamour gets her heart's desire in "Lulu Belle," the old Belasco play which starred Lenore Ulric at the height of her glory.

But when Dorothy makes "Lulu Belle," it's for Ben Bogeaus and not Hunt Stromberg, as I said last week.

"Lulu Belle," written by Edward Shelton and Charles MacArthur some 25 years ago, now becomes a musical drama with Dottie warbling five songs. Ben will spend a fortune to do right by the old time stage hit—and by my girl friend Mrs. William Ross Howard (Lamour to you).

"The Beginning Or the End," the M-G-M atomic bomb epic over which there has been so much discussion, is a picture that should be a must on every list. The subject is so much more important than any one performance.

It's so frightening and so overpowering—the scenes showing the first test of the bomb are terrific. You will be impressed by what motion pictures can do in the way of showing actual scientific experiments and of bringing home the frightening dangers of this atomic age.

The love story is incidental, put in to add lightness to a grim subject that can only strike terror to the hearts of those who may well worry about what's going to be next in this mad, crazy world.

Chatter in Hollywood: I asked Deborah Kerr at Louis B. Mayer's party if it were true that Gabriel Pascal had offered her Shaw's "Joan of Arc." I had printed that he was asking M-G-M to let him make the picture there with Greer Garson.

Deborah laughed heartily and said, "I'm afraid it's true. Mr. Pascal told me I was just right for 'Joan' and wanted to know if I would be willing to star in the picture for him."

Both Deborah and her husband, Tony Bartley, are very well liked in Hollywood. They are two charming, unaffected people.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random: Rudy Vallee(crooning at the Last Frontier in Las Vegas, sends the gang just as Bing and Frankie or Al Jolson does. Speaking of Al, I had a letter from a fan saying that Lary Parks sang better in "The Jolson Story" than Al Jolson ever did the best years of his life (Help!)

Eleanor Powell will dance at the White House Saturday night. She's accepted an invitation extended her by President Truman.

Just heard that Virginia Gilmore who is married to Yul Brencashner, became the mother of a baby boy last week.

Mack (Killer) Gray suffered a broken left shoulder in an automobile accident last week, but he kept it out of the papers because he was afraid George Raft would get blamed.

Mrs. Joe Lilley is expecting a baby in July. Her husband wrote "I Got Spurs That Jingle, Jangle Jingle," and he does all of Betty Hutton's arrangements.

Robin Raymond owns an interest in a billion dollar tungsten mine given her by her bridegroom, Harry Epstein. Ain't bad to marry a millionaire, I always say.

The Van Johnsons made their first appearance at a big party at Atwater Kent's. I thought everybody was at Atwater's until I went on to L. B. Mayer's, and it seemed everybody was at L. B.'s to welcome the young Henry Fords, two very attractive people.

At Atwater's, I chatted with the Brian Ahernes, Dorothy Lamour, who looked like a dream, Merle Oberon, exquisitely turned out, and many others. When Joan Caulfield walked in the Kent party on the arm of Hurd Hatfield, everything stopped—she's that pretty.

At L. B.'s, I sat next to Cary Grant and Peter Lawford at dinner. Cary sounded to me as if he is a little bit lonesome for Betty Hensel. The girl that got the most compliments was Virginia O'Brien, who is getting so pretty that she's absolutely dazzling.

Peter Lawford admitted to me that Irene Dunne had been his secret sorrow since he played her son in "White Cliffs Of Dover." Loretta Young wore one of the new short evening dresses, and I noticed that Nan Bennett who was there with Keenan Wynn, also wore one of them. On these two girls, those dresses are pretty, but I think most women look better in the long evening dresses.

Such a lot of parties I missed Lady Mendl's dinner and I am sorry because she will soon leave for Europe.

Kurt Krueger, who suffered a leg sprain in Sun Valley, is being comforted by Vivi Stokes Taylor, New York socialite, who turned Lawrence Tierney into a social gentleman.

That's all today.

HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 25.—Hold Everything! Jean Arthur, the elusive one, sought after by every producer and every film company, has finally been captured, signed and will soon be delivered. Charlie Brackett and Billy Wilder, that inimitable pair were the lucky captors.

Eleanor Powell

Well, I'll say Jean's lucky, too, on account of, if I were an actress, I don't know anyone I'd rather make a picture for than these two.

They chose for Jean "Foreign Affairs", a dramatic comedy, which tells the story of an American congresswoman in Berlin who's investigating the morals of our boys there.

I asked if the attractive Clare Booth Luce had inspired the story and they said, "No, our congresswoman is just a fictional character and she's being put on paper by Billy Wilder and Robert Harari who are writing the script."

P. S. It's for Paramount, of course.

Dorothy Lamour gets her heart's desire in "Lulu Belle," the old Belasco play which starred Lenore Ulric at the height of her glory.

But when Dorothy makes "Lulu Belle," it's for Ben Bogeaus and not Hunt Stromberg, as I said last week.

"Lulu Belle," written by Edward Shelton and Charles MacArthur some 25 years ago, now becomes a musical drama with Dottie warbling five songs. Ben will spend a fortune to do right by the old time stage hit—and by my girl friend Mrs. William Ross Howard (Lamour to you).

"The Beginning Or the End," the M-G-M atomic bomb epic over which there has been so much discussion, is a picture that should be a must on every list. The subject is so much more important than any one performance.

It's so frightening and so overpowering—the scenes showing the first test of the bomb are terrific. You will be impressed by what motion pictures can do in the way of showing actual scientific experiments and of bringing home the frightening dangers of this atomic age.

The love story is incidental, put in to add lightness to a grim subject that can only strike terror to the hearts of those who may well worry about what's going to be next in this mad, crazy world.

Chatter in Hollywood: I asked Deborah Kerr at Louis B. Mayer's party if it were true that Gabriel Pascal had offered her Shaw's "Joan of Arc." I had printed that he was asking M-G-M to let him make the picture there with Greer Garson.

Deborah laughed heartily and said, "I'm afraid it's true. Mr. Pascal told me I was just right for 'Joan' and wanted to know if I would be willing to star in the picture for him."

Both Deborah and her husband, Tony Bartley, are very well liked in Hollywood. They are two charming, unaffected people.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random: Rudy Vallee(crooning at the Last Frontier in Las Vegas, sends the gang just as Bing and Frankie or Al Jolson does. Speaking of Al, I had a letter from a fan saying that Lary Parks sang better in "The Jolson Story" than Al Jolson ever did the best years of his life (Help!)

Eleanor Powell will dance at the White House Saturday night. She's accepted an invitation extended her by President Truman.

Just heard that Virginia Gilmore who is married to Yul Brencashner, became the mother of a baby boy last week.

Mack (Killer) Gray suffered a broken left shoulder in an automobile accident last week, but he kept it out of the papers because he was afraid George Raft would get blamed.

Mrs. Joe Lilley is expecting a baby in July. Her husband wrote "I Got Spurs That Jingle, Jangle Jingle," and he does all of Betty Hutton's arrangements.

Robin Raymond owns an interest in a billion dollar tungsten mine given her by her bridegroom, Harry Epstein. Ain't bad to marry a millionaire, I always say.

The Van Johnsons made their first appearance at a big party at Atwater Kent's. I thought everybody was at Atwater's until I went on to L. B. Mayer's, and it seemed everybody was at L. B.'s to welcome the young Henry Fords, two very attractive people.

At Atwater's, I chatted with the Brian Ahernes, Dorothy Lamour, who looked like a dream, Merle Oberon, exquisitely turned out, and many others. When Joan Caulfield walked in the Kent party on the arm of Hurd Hatfield, everything stopped—she's that pretty.

At L. B.'s, I sat next to Cary Grant and Peter Lawford at dinner. Cary sounded to me as if he is a little bit lonesome for Betty Hensel. The girl that got the most compliments was Virginia O'Brien, who is getting so pretty that she's absolutely dazzling.

Peter Lawford admitted to me that Irene Dunne had been his secret sorrow since he played her son in "White Cliffs Of Dover." Loretta Young wore one of the new short evening dresses, and I noticed that Nan Bennett who was there with Keenan Wynn, also wore one of them. On these two girls, those dresses are pretty, but I think most women look better in the long evening dresses.

Such a lot of parties I missed Lady Mendl's dinner and I am sorry because she will soon leave for Europe.

Kurt Krueger, who suffered a leg sprain in Sun Valley, is being comforted by Vivi Stokes Taylor, New York socialite, who turned Lawrence Tierney into a social gentleman.

That's all today.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

Helen A. Bottemer, Vs. Lawrence P. Bottemer, No. 19905, Equity, in the Circuit Court, for Allegany County, Maryland.

The object of this Bill of Complaint is to secure the passage of a decree divorcing Helen A. Bottemer, Complainant, A VINCULO MATRIMONII, from Lawrence P. Bottemer, the Defendant.

The Bill of Complaint states that the couple were married on July twenty-fourth, 1945, at St. Augustine, Florida, and lived together for approximately ten days at which time the Defendant exhibited severe cruelty toward the Complainant, at which time she returned to Cumberland, and has lived here ever since; the Bill further states that she has attempted to effect a reconciliation, her efforts have been of no avail. No children were born of this marriage. The separation of the parties has been continuous and unbroken for more than eighteen consecutive months before the filing of this suit for an absolute divorce and that the Complainant is a resident of the state of Maryland, and that the Defendant is a non-resident of this state and when last heard from was a resident of the state of Florida. The bill prays the Court to grant her the right to resume the use of her maiden name, Helen A. Combs, and for such other and further relief as may be proper in Equity.

It is thereupon this 26th. day of February, 1947, ORDERED by the Circuit Court, for Allegany County, Maryland, sitting in Equity, that the Plaintiff cause a copy of this order to be inserted in some newspaper published in Allegany County, one each week, for four successive weeks, before the 30th. day of March, 1947, giving notification to the said Lawrence P. Bottemer, absentee Defendant, of the object and substance of this Bill of Complaint, and warning him to be and appear in this Court, either in person, or by solicitor, on or before the 15th. day of April, 1947, to show cause, if any he may have, why a decree ought not be passed as prayed.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

Helen A. Bottemer, Vs. Lawrence P. Bottemer, No. 19905, Equity, in the Circuit Court, for Allegany County, Maryland.

The object of this Bill of Complaint is to secure the passage of a decree divorcing Helen A. Bottemer, Complainant, A VINCULO MATRIMONII, from Lawrence P. Bottemer, the Defendant.

The Bill of Complaint states that the couple were married on July twenty-fourth, 1945, at St. Augustine, Florida, and lived together for approximately ten days at which time the Defendant exhibited severe cruelty toward the Complainant, at which time she returned to Cumberland, and has lived here ever since; the Bill further states that she has attempted to effect a reconciliation, her efforts have been of no avail, No children were born of this marriage. The separation of the parties has been continuous and unbroken for more than eighteen consecutive months before the filing of this suit for an absolute divorce and that the Complainant is a resident of the state of Maryland, and that the Defendant is a non-resident of this state and when last heard from was a resident of the state of Florida. The bill prays the Court to grant her the right to resume the use of her maiden name, Helen A. Combs, and for such other and further relief as may be proper in Equity.

It is thereupon this 26th. day of February, 1947, ORDERED by the Circuit Court, for Allegany County, Maryland, sitting in Equity, that the Plaintiff cause a copy of this order to be inserted in some newspaper published in Allegany County, one each week, for four successive weeks, before the 30th. day of March, 1947, giving notification to the said Lawrence P. Bottemer, absentee Defendant, of the object and substance of this Bill of Complaint, and warning him to be and appear in this Court, either in person, or by solicitor, on or before the 15th. day of April, 1947, to show cause, if any he may have, why a decree ought not be passed as prayed.

Sentinels Close Season Today With Ridgeley Hi

Hawks Beat Allegany, LaSalle In Ridgeley

Fort Hill and Ridgeley will lower the curtain on their regular basketball schedule tonight when they clash in a return game at 8 o'clock on the Ridgeley court.

The Sentinels and Blackhawks last met on January 20 and the result was a 38-29 victory for Coach "Bobby" Cavanaugh's aggregation. That was the game which later became known as the "Battle of Who Jumped Over The Table."

On that evening at Fort Hill a scorekeeper jumped over the table and galloped out on the floor to tell the arbiters there were five personals on a Fort Hill player, an argument ensued as to whether the player in question had four or five personals on him, the scorers were overruled and during the confusion someone got punched and others took John L. Sullivan poses before the police called a halt to hostilities.

Fort Hill will be striving to do something LaSalle and Allegany were unable to accomplish this season—to beat Ridgeley on its own floor. Across the Potomac river, Ridgeley took Allegany, 25-15, and followed with a 26-23 verdict over LaSalle. The Campers and Explorers, however, won the return games on their home floor, 35-23 and 38-33.

In this game Fort Hill will be closing a schedule of 26 games, having won 17 and lost 8 to date. Ridgeley, winner of 12 out of 20 games, will play in state tournament games after the Fort Hill tilt.

Here are the records of teams in tonight's game:

Holy Cross Selected For NCAA Tourney

HARTFORD, Conn., Feb. 26 (AP)—The Holy Cross basketball team of Worcester, Mass., was selected today by Ray Oosting, chairman of the National Collegiate Athletic Association for New England, to represent the area in the NCAA tournament at Madison Square Garden, New York, next month.

Willie Jones Is Seen As Rookie Of Year By Phils

May Plug Big Gap At Shortstop Post

By JACK HAND

CLEARWATER, Fla., Feb. 26 (AP)—Willie (Puddin' Head) Jones, a $16,000 shortstop find from the Carolina sandlots, is regarded by the Philadelphia Phillies as a logical heir of Del Ennis' rookie-of-the year crown.

The well-heeled Phils, no longer subsisting on handouts from the National League's upper crust, hit the jack pot in 1946 when Ennis returned from service to become a standout freshman star. He hit .314 including 17 home runs to revitalize the ball club which finished a hustling fifth instead of a customary last.

Now they are hoping Jones will follow in Ennis' steps and jump into a regular big league job in his first season.

Shortstop is the weakest link in the Phillies ball club, a position General Manager Herb Pennock futilely has been trying to plug since he joined the organization. When the scouts head for the bushes each spring they have had one common order: "bring back a shortstop."

Johnny Nee, who uncovered such prize packages as Bill Dickey, Spud Chandler, Tommy Henrich, Ben Chapman and Dixie Walker, thinks he has the answer to the Phils' problem. John, a conservative southerner who had been hunting what he calls "goats," for the Yankees year before he joined his old friend Pennock in Philadelphia, won't predict Jones is a sure fire big leaguer. He tabs the rookie as a "great prospect" and a good righthanded hitter with power.

The Yankees, Giants, Dodgers, Tigers and Athletics also trailed young Willie through a successful 1946 season with the Bennettsville, S. C., team of the semi-pro Palmetto League. Six Big League offers, one of which included a college education at a leading southern school, were dangled before the wavy-haired 21-year-old lad from Laurel Hill, N. C.

"It narrowed down to a choice between the Dodgers and Phillies," Jones said. "I picked the Phillies because I just liked their organization better."

Hillerich And Bradsby Employes On Strike

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Feb. 26—(AP)—Employes of Hillerich and Bradsby, manufacturers of golf clubs and the nationally known Louisville slugger baseball bats, went on strike today for higher wages and established a picket line around the plant.

Harold A. Rasmussen, representative of the CIO-United Steelworkers Union, said the walkout was 100 percent effective. He said the company's 2,200 workers "didn't go to work because the company refuses to negotiate any further over and above its last offer of 5 percent increases." He did not say how much increase the workers were seeking.

GETS GRID POST—Adm. Jonas Howard Ingram (right) is congratulated by Ben. F. Lindheimer, temporary commissioner, upon his appointment yesterday as commissioner of the All-America Football Conference, succeeding Jim Crowley who resigned to coach the Chicago Rockets.

Adm. Jonas H. Ingram Named Commissioner Of All-America Loop

Chosen To Succeed Jimmy Crowley

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 26 (AP)—Adm. Jonas Howard Ingram, commander-in-chief of the Atlantic Fleet until last September, was named today as commissioner of the All-America Football Conference.

Appointment of the ruddy-faced 60-year-old four-star admiral was announced at a press luncheon by Ben F. Lindheimer, temporary commissioner of the conference and chief stockholder of the Los Angeles Club. Ingram was present.

Ingram was a backfield star at Annapolis in 1905-06 and is one of three brothers long associated in collegiate and service sports.

The length of his contract with the conference was not disclosed. He succeeds Jimmy Crowley, who resigned to coach the Chicago team of the All-American.

Ingram, who wears six decks of ribbons and decorations from World Wars One and Two, has been an all-around athlete all his life, proficient not only in football but in crew. He was captain of the championship Annapolis crew in 1907.

He is a brother of William A. (Navy Bill) Ingram, one of Navy's stellar backs of all time. He has made his home in Coronado, Calif., for the past 10 years.

President Don Amache of the Los Angeles Club, and President Tony Morabito of the San Francisco Club were present at the luncheon to welcome the new commissioner.

The admiral will retire formally from the Navy next week after 44 years in the service.

In informal comment he said he had nothing to say on league problems at this time. He added, however, that before he came into the organization, he viewed favorably the All-America and the other National Pro League working together in much the same way as the two major Baseball Leagues.

"There's room for both," he commented.

He plans to go to Chicago about March 15 to confer with Crowley and then on to New York. The Conference headquarters will remain in New York until such time as the directors may contemplate a change.

Ingram said he preferred not to discuss his salary, but added that the question of money had never been an issue. Crowley was said to have received $30,000 a year.

The smiling Admiral grew abruptly serious when someone asked him about action on gambling.

"I can be just as tough as old Judge Landis of baseball ever thought of being," he said. "Anyone who gets off the beam in any way will get no mercy from me. The league got me for results and I am going to do the job.'

Lesnevich May Get Past Fox On Experience

By SID FEDER

CLIFFSIDE, N. J., Feb. 26—(AP)—There is some talk that there is a "deal on" for light-heavyweight chaimpion Gus Lesnevich's title in his fuss with Belting Billy Fox Friday night, and Gus wants it strictly understood that even if such a thing had been brought up, he can't afford it right now.

The rumor is that Gus is guaranteed $50,000—win, lose or do a rhumba—in Friday's scramble, and for that reason he doesn't care if he wins or not. Actually, there is a financial arrangement cooking, although it isn't for $50,000. Gus gets 42½ per cent of the gate, but is guaranteed $40,000. Fox gets 17½ per cent. If the gross isn't enough to give Gus the 40 g's from his percentage, Fox takes the full 60 per cent and pays Gus the guarantee.

That, however, doesn't mean that Gus is going into a swoon in Madison Square Garden Friday and politely hand over his title. In fact, it's little different than a Jack Dempsey being guaranteed $450,000 to meet Luis Firpo, regardless of the gate or a win, or a Gene Tunney being assured $500,000 to defend his heavyweight crown against Dempsey. And neither of those gentlemen was accused of "dealing" anything except, possibly, a deck of cards in a gin-rummy game.

Both Gus and manager, round Joe Vella, insist that right now the champ is in a spot where he needs a considerable quantity of what the trade refers to as lettuce—without mayonnaise. The white-Russian walloper from Jersey has just built himself a home here that set him back a rough $40,000. If he were to lose the title now, he wouldn't have any source for move-around money from here on in.

As a result, although he realizes Billy carries a large headache in his right hand—the flailing Fox has 43 straight knockouts as of this writing—Gus is all out now to hang onto the crown and continue doing business at the old stand.

Tel O'Sullivan Wins Feature At Hialeah

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 26—(AP)—Mrs. L. Rabinowitz's Tel O'Sullivan, a $31.90 for $2 shot, won the $15,000 added Miami Beach Handicap over the grass course at Hialeah today.

J. Sher's Frere Jacques was second and B. H. Wise's Bimont third.

Tel O'Sullivan, a four-year-old gelding, carried 118 pounds including Jockey J. Stout over the mile and a half distance. The time was 2:36.

KEYSER HIGH CLOSES SCHEDULE BY PLAYING HOST TO BEALL FIVE

Navy Is Working Hard For Army

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Feb. 26 (AP)—Navy's powerful basketball quintet, perhaps in line for a bid to the National Invitation Basketball Tournament, rehearsed today for an event decidedly more crucial to Bluejackets—the Army game Saturday.

Dispatches from New York hint that Navy, victor in 15 of its 16 starts this season, has a high spot among the score or more quintets under scrutiny by ASA Bushnell's selection committee as possible contestants in the annual tourney beginning March 15.

West Virginia, whose only defeat this year was administered by Coach Ben Carnevale's Middies, and Kentucky are the only teams invited so far. Six more will be picked.

The Academy's official position on such post-season affairs has not been stated, so Capt. E. B. Taylor, athletic director, put it this way:

"We have absolutely nothing to say at this time. We're thinking only of the Army game this Saturday."

The Brigade of Midshipmen was preparing for a giant rally tomorrow night to give vent to the excitement that traditionally foreruns a meeting with Army.

A number of ranking service figures will be on hand for the basketball tilt, the Academy announced. Secretary of the Navy and Mrs. Forrestal and General and Mrs. Omar Bradley are slated to head the rival cheering sections.

Bluefield College Cancels Its Game With Potomac State

The basketball game between Potomac State and Bluefield College, scheduled for the Potomac State field house in Keyser tonight has been cancelled. Dana "Horse" Lough, mentor of the Catamounts, announced today that he had received word from Bluefield College officials that weather conditions have made it impossible to make the trip. At the time Lough was notified, snow was 30 inches deep in the southern West Virginia town and still falling.

This reduces the number of games left on Potomac State's cage schedule to three, the Davis-Elkins game Friday, the Concord tilt March 5, both at the Cats' field house and the Frostburg game, March 7 at Frostburg.

LONACONING, Feb. 26—K. Y. Hodgdon's "Indians" defeated the Presbyterians 23 to 10 in a game played Tuesday evening in Central High School gym.

John, a conservative southerner who had been hunting what he calls "goats," for the Yankees year before he joined his old friend Pennock in Philadelphia, won't predict Jones is a sure fire big leaguer. He tabs the rookie as a "great prosject" and a good righthanded hitter with power.

The Yankees, Giants, Dodgers, Tigers and Athletics also trailed young Willie through a successful 1946 season with the Bennettsville, S. C., team of the semi-pro Palmetto League. Six Big League offers, one of which included a college education at a leading southern school, were dangled before the wavy-haired 21-year-old lad from Laurel Hill, N. C.

"It narrowed down to a choice between the Dodgers and Phillies," Jones said. "I picked the Phillies because I just liked their organization better."

Hillerich And Bradsby Employes On Strike

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Feb. 26—(AP)—Employes of Hillerich and Bradsby, manufacturers of golf clubs and the nationally known Louisville slugger baseball bats, went on strike today for higher wages and established a picket line around the plant.

Harold A. Rasmussen, representative of the CIO-United Steelworkers Union, said the walkout was 100 percent effective. He said the company's 2,200 workers "didn't go to work because the company refuses to negotiate any further over and above its last offer of 5 percent increases." He did not say how much increase the workers were seeking.

GETS GRID POST—Adm. Jonas Howard Ingram (right) is congratulated by Ben. F. Lindheimer, temporary commissioner, upon his appointment yesterday as commissioner of the All-America Football Conference, succeeding Jim Crowley who resigned to coach the Chicago Rockets.

Adm. Jonas H. Ingram Named Commissioner Of All-America Loop

Chosen To Succeed Jimmy Crowley

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 26 (AP)—Adm. Jonas Howard Ingram, commander-in-chief of the Atlantic Fleet until last September, was named today as commissioner of the All-America Football Conference.

Appointment of the ruddy-faced 60-year-old four-star admiral was announced at a press luncheon by Ben F. Lindheimer, temporary commissioner of the conference and chief stockholder of the Los Angeles Club. Ingram was present.

Ingram was a backfield star at Annapolis in 1905-06 and is one of three brothers long associated in collegiate and service sports.

The length of his contract with the conference was not disclosed. He succeeds Jimmy Crowley, who resigned to coach the Chicago team of the All-American.

Ingram, who wears six decks of ribbons and decorations from World Wars One and Two, has been an all-around athlete all his life, proficient not only in football but in crew. He was captain of the championship Annapolis crew in 1907.

He is a brother of William A. (Navy Bill) Ingram, one of Navy's stellar backs of all time. He has made his home in Coronado, Calif., for the past 10 years.

President Don Amache of the Los Angeles Club, and President Tony Morabito of the San Francisco Club were present at the luncheon to welcome the new commissioner.

The admiral will retire formally from the Navy next week after 44 years in the service.

In informal comment he said he had nothing to say on league problems at this time. He added, however, that before he came into the organization, he viewed favorably the All-America and the other National Pro League working together in much the same way as the two major Baseball Leagues.

"There's room for both," he commented.

He plans to go to Chicago about March 15 to confer with Crowley and then on to New York. The Conference headquarters will remain in New York until such time as the directors may contemplate a change.

Ingram said he preferred not to discuss his salary, but added that the question of money had never been an issue. Crowley was said to have received $30,000 a year.

The smiling Admiral grew abruptly serious when someone asked him about action on gambling.

"I can be just as tough as old Judge Landis of baseball ever thought of being," he said. "Anyone who gets off the beam in any way will get no mercy from me. The league got me for results and I am going to do the job.'

Lesnevich May Get Past Fox On Experience

By SID FEDER

CLIFFSIDE, N. J., Feb. 26—(AP)—There is some talk that there is a "deal on" for light-heavyweight chaimpion Gus Lesnevich's title in his fuss with Belting Billy Fox Friday night, and Gus wants it strictly understood that even if such a thing had been brought up, he can't afford it right now.

The rumor is that Gus is guaranteed $50,000—win, lose or do a rhumba—in Friday's scramble, and for that reason he doesn't care if he wins or not. Actually, there is a financial arrangement cooking, although it isn't for $50,000. Gus gets 42½ per cent of the gate, but is guaranteed $40,000. Fox gets 17½ per cent. If the gross isn't enough to give Gus the 40 g's from his percentage, Fox takes the full 60 per cent and pays Gus the guarantee.

That, however, doesn't mean that Gus is going into a swoon in Madison Square Garden Friday and politely hand over his title. In fact, it's little different than a Jack Dempsey being guaranteed $450,000 to meet Luis Firpo, regardless of the gate or a win, or a Gene Tunney being assured $500,000 to defend his heavyweight crown against Dempsey. And neither of those gentlemen was accused of "dealing" anything except, possibly, a deck of cards in a gin-rummy game.

Both Gus and manager, round Joe Vella, insist that right now the champ is in a spot where he needs a considerable quantity of what the trade refers to as lettuce—without mayonnaise. The white-Russian walloper from Jersey has just built himself a home here that set him back a rough $40,000. If he were to lose the title now, he wouldn't have any source for move-around money from here on in.

As a result, although he realizes Billy carries a large headache in his right hand—the flailing Fox has 43 straight knockouts as of this writing—Gus is all out now to hang onto the crown and continue doing business at the old stand.

Navy Is Working Hard For Army

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Feb. 26 (AP)—Navy's powerful basketball quintet, perhaps in line for a bid to the National Invitation Basketball Tournament, rehearsed today for an event decidedly more crucial to Bluejackets—the Army game Saturday.

Dispatches from New York hint that Navy, victor in 15 of its 16 starts this season, has a high spot among the score or more quintets under scrutiny by ASA Bushnell's selection committee as possible contestants in the annual tourney beginning March 15.

West Virginia, whose only defeat this year was administered by Coach Ben Carnevale's Middies, and Kentucky are the only teams invited so far. Six more will be picked.

The Academy's official position on such post-season affairs has not been stated, so Capt. E. B. Taylor, athletic director, put it this way:

"We have absolutely nothing to say at this time. We're thinking only of the Army game this Saturday."

The Brigade of Midshipmen was preparing for a giant rally tomorrow night to give vent to the excitement that traditionally foreruns a meeting with Army.

A number of ranking service figures will be on hand for the basketball tilt, the Academy announced. Secretary of the Navy and Mrs. Forrestal and General and Mrs. Omar Bradley are slated to head the rival cheering sections.

Bluefield College Cancels Its Game With Potomac State

The basketball game between Potomac State and Bluefield College, scheduled for the Potomac State field house in Keyser tonight has been cancelled. Dana "Horse" Lough, mentor of the Catamounts, announced today that he had received word from Bluefield College officials that weather conditions have made it impossible to make the trip. At the time Lough was notified, snow was 30 inches deep in the southern West Virginia town and still falling.

This reduces the number of games left on Potomac State's cage schedule to three, the Davis-Elkins game Friday, the Concord tilt March 5, both at the Cats' field house and the Frostburg game, March 7 at Frostburg.

LONACONING, Feb. 26—K. Y. Hodgdon's "Indians" defeated the Presbyterians 23 to 10 in a game played Tuesday evening in Central High School gym.

Maryland Downs Citadel 52 To 40 In Rough Contest

COLLEGE PARK, Md., Feb. 26 (AP) — Maryland's basketball team virtually clinched a berth in the Southern Conference tourney at Durham March 6-8 by taking a rough game from the Citadel tonight, 52-40.

Seventeen fouls were called against each team and Jim Lancaster, Citadel center, was tossed out of the contest early in the second half on a referee's ruling he had committed an intentional foul.

The win gave Maryland an eight win — five loss record in conference play this season, with a game to be played against VMI here Saturday.

Maryland got started quickly and jumped into a 19-4 lead at the midpoint of the first half. The halftime score was 25-12.

With three Maryland regulars on the bench as the second half got underway, the Citadel gradually cut down the Old Liner margin and the South Carolinians were trailing by but five points with four minutes left. Maryland scored 10 points after that, while the Citadel was making three.

Maryland forward John Edwards led the scoring with 16 points.

SEEDED PLAYERS ARE NAMED FOR INDOOR TENNIS TOURNEY

NEW YORK, Feb. 26 (AP)—In an effort to restore to the National Indoor Tennis Championships some of the prestige they carried 20 years ago, the United States Lawn Tennis Association has enlisted two members of its triumphant Davis Cup Team and one highly-regarded stranger to the slick Seventh Regiment Armory boards to head the field for the 44th annual tournament, starting tomorrow.

National Outdoor Champion Jack Kramer, Los Angeles, who led the United States Davis Cup Team to victory over Australia in December, is the top-seeded player in the men's singles field of 51. Bill Talbert, Wilmington, Del., a member of the Davis Cup squad who didn't play in the challenge round, was given the second spot and tall Bobby Falkenburg, Los Angeles, who hasn't competed in the indoor tourney before, was placed third.

The other three seeded players, all veterans of many board court tourneys, are Sidney B. Wood, Jr., Frank X. Shields and Elwood T. Cooke, all of New York. Francisco Segura, the bounding Ecuadorean who won the title on his first try last year, will not defend the crown. He is reported to be in California and the U.S.L.T.A. has no explanation for his failure to enter.

Pauline Betz, Los Angeles, who is trying for her fourth indoor title to match her outdoor championship record, heads the list of 27 entries in the women's singles. Doris Hart, Miami, fourth in the national ranking, and Mrs. Helen Pedersen Rihbany, Cambridge, Mass., the defending champion, are the other seeded women. Play in this division will not start until Saturday.

Maver Will Sell Valuable Horses Tonight

ARCADIA, Calif., Feb. 26—(AP)—Movie Executive Louis B. Mayer, who went into horse racing as a hobby in 1938 and has since collected more than $1,700,000 in prize money, figures to realize upwards of $1,000,000 when his valuable stable—60 head of stock—goes on the auction block at Santa Anita Park tomorrow night.

All was ready today for the dispersal, which has attracted nationwide attention. After the last race the thoroughbreds were paraded in the paddock for the benefit of the general public.

Turfmen from all parts of the country were here. Many came to attend the $100,000 handicap Saturday, but the majority arrived ahead of time for the Mayer sale.

Public interest rested on four thoroughbreds—Busher, Honeymoon, Stepfather and Be Faithful—but Stepfather, a strong eligible for the $100,000 Santa Anita Derby March 8, may bring the top cash. This Beau Pere three-year-old is also nominated for other major fixtures, including the Kentucky Derby.

Faultless, Bullet Proof Favored In Flamingo

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 26—(AP)—Calumet Farm's seasoned veteran, Faultless, and Mrs. M. E. Whitney's Bullet Proof ranked three-to-one favorites today over a field of 13 nominations for the $50,000 Flamingo Stake for three-year-olds at Hialeah Saturday.

Both will carry a standard 118-pound impost in the mile and an eighth event. Veteran Jockey Al Snider will ride Faultless and Carson Kirk will pilot the Whitney choice.

Woolford Farm's Delegate, a 15-to-1 shot, has been assigned top weight of 122 pounds and will have Bobby Watson aboard if he goes, but he is considered a doubtful starter.

16,500 Cheer Golden Gloves Contestants

CHICAGO, Feb. 26 (AP)—A howling crowd of 16,500 cheered 32 amateur boxers—among the best in the nation—as they fought their way through the quarter final round of the Golden Gloves Tournament of champions in the Chicago Stadium tonight for the right to return for the semi-finals and finals March 7.

The winning boxers were survivors from 39 centers in 29 states from an original starting cast of 50,000 amateur swingers.

Billy Guernsey, 16-year-old high school lad, Minneapolis, Minn., and Pat Lowery, youngster from Toledo, O., appeared to be much of the best of the flyweight mites.

Guernsey won his quarter final bout in disposing of Francis Fitzgerald, St. Louis, Mo., in their three [illegible]nder. Lowery scored a technical two-round knockout over [illegible]es Davis, Springfield, Ill.

West Virginia Wallops W & J By 83-56 Score

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Feb. 26—(AP)—The Madison Square Garden-bound West Virginia Mountaineers rolled to their 16th victory in 17 games before a packed house tonight, defeating Washington and Jefferson 83 to 56.

It was the second victory this season over the Presidents, and in this game as in the last, the Mountaineers had little difficulty. They piled up a 19-5 lead in the first quarter and then coasted in, with the reserves bearing the brunt of the battle in the second half.

A capacity crowd of 5,000 turned out to the Mountaineers, who were the first team to be invited to the National Invitation meet in New York next month.

Hank Knocke, W. and J. ace, found the range for 20 tallies to lead the scoring, but most of his baskets came late in the game when the Mountaineers reserves were in. In the first game, which West Virginia won 90-40, Knoche was held to six points.

Eddie Beach, standout freshman center, led West Virginia with 17 points.

The game was halted numerous times while the floor, slippery from a leak in the Field house roof due to heavy snow, was dried.

Maryland Downs Citadel 52 To 40 In Rough Contest

COLLEGE PARK, Md., Feb. 26 (AP) — Maryland's basketball team virtually clinched a berth in the Southern Conference tourney at Durham March 6-8 by taking a rough game from the Citadel tonight, 52-40.

Seventeen fouls were called against each team and Jim Lancaster, Citadel center, was tossed out of the contest early in the second half on a referee's ruling he had committed an intentional foul.

The win gave Maryland an eight win — five loss record in conference play this season, with a game to be played against VMI here Saturday.

Maryland got started quickly and jumped into a 19-4 lead at the midpoint of the first half. The halftime score was 25-12.

With three Maryland regulars on the bench as the second half got underway, the Citadel gradually cut down the Old Liner margin and the South Carolinians were trailing by but five points with four minutes left. Maryland scored 10 points after that, while the Citadel was making three.

Maryland forward John Edwards led the scoring with 16 points.

SEEDED PLAYERS ARE NAMED FOR INDOOR TENNIS TOURNEY

NEW YORK, Feb. 26 (AP)—In an effort to restore to the National Indoor Tennis Championships some of the prestige they carried 20 years ago, the United States Lawn Tennis Association has enlisted two members of its triumphant Davis Cup Team and one highly-regarded stranger to the slick Seventh Regiment Armory boards to head the field for the 44th annual tournament, starting tomorrow.

National Outdoor Champion Jack Kramer, Los Angeles, who led the United States Davis Cup Team to victory over Australia in December, is the top-seeded player in the men's singles field of 51. Bill Talbert, Wilmington, Del., a member of the Davis Cup squad who didn't play in the challenge round, was given the second spot and tall Bobby Falkenburg, Los Angeles, who hasn't competed in the indoor tourney before, was placed third.

The other three seeded players, all veterans of many board court tourneys, are Sidney B. Wood, Jr., Frank X. Shields and Elwood T. Cooke, all of New York. Francisco Segura, the bounding Ecuadorean who won the title on his first try last year, will not defend the crown. He is reported to be in California and the U.S.L.T.A. has no explanation for his failure to enter.

Pauline Betz, Los Angeles, who is trying for her fourth indoor title to match her outdoor championship record, heads the list of 27 entries in the women's singles. Doris Hart, Miami, fourth in the national ranking, and Mrs. Helen Pedersen Rihbany, Cambridge, Mass., the defending champion, are the other seeded women. Play in this division will not start until Saturday.

Maver Will Sell Valuable Horses Tonight

ARCADIA, Calif., Feb. 26—(AP)—Movie Executive Louis B. Mayer, who went into horse racing as a hobby in 1938 and has since collected more than $1,700,000 in prize money, figures to realize upwards of $1,000,000 when his valuable stable—60 head of stock—goes on the auction block at Santa Anita Park tomorrow night.

All was ready today for the dispersal, which has attracted nationwide attention. After the last race the thoroughbreds were paraded in the paddock for the benefit of the general public.

Turfmen from all parts of the country were here. Many came to attend the $100,000 handicap Saturday, but the majority arrived ahead of time for the Mayer sale.

Public interest rested on four thoroughbreds—Busher, Honeymoon, Stepfather and Be Faithful—but Stepfather, a strong eligible for the $100,000 Santa Anita Derby March 8, may bring the top cash. This Beau Pere three-year-old is also nominated for other major fixtures, including the Kentucky Derby.

Faultless, Bullet Proof Favored In Flamingo

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 26—(AP)—Calumet Farm's seasoned veteran, Faultless, and Mrs. M. E. Whitney's Bullet Proof ranked three-to-one favorites today over a field of 13 nominations for the $50,000 Flamingo Stake for three-year-olds at Hialeah Saturday.

Both will carry a standard 118-pound impost in the mile and an eighth event. Veteran Jockey Al Snider will ride Faultless and Carson Kirk will pilot the Whitney choice.

Woolford Farm's Delegate, a 15-to-1 shot, has been assigned top weight of 122 pounds and will have Bobby Watson aboard if he goes, but he is considered a doubtful starter.

LAFAYETTE, Ind., Feb. 26 (AP) — The death of Theodore E. Norquist, 25, of Gary, Ind., increased to three today the toll of the bleacher collapse in the Purdue University fieldhouse during the Wisconsin basketball game Monday night.

Nordquist was a World War II veteran and senior in mechanical engineering. The bodies of two other students were taken from the splintered bleachers soon after the crash.

Ninety-eight of the 250 persons injured still were hospitalized today and 10 of these were listed as in serious or critical condition.

Our customers are getting this new Passenger Car Tire at Outwears Prewar Tires!
It's the new B. F. Goodrich Silvertown
It's made with a new tire-type rubber — developed and proved by B. F. Goodrich. Tires built with this new rubber run cooler, wear longer and stand up better at high speeds.
For even longer tire life, a wider, flatter tread is used. It puts more rubber on the road—wears better and more evenly. Gives greater road contact which means quicker, safer stops.
Stronger cords, and more of them, are used in the tire body. And double shock-absorber breaker strips are used to cushion and distribute sudden blows.
For longer, even wear, safer driving, get the best tire value — the new B. F. Goodrich Silvertown.

Seal Punctures As You Ride
New B. F. Goodrich Seal-o-matic Tube
Saves Money 3 Ways:
1. Saves repair bills
2. Increases tire life
3. Outlasts several sets of tires.
Not an emergency tube that lets you stop . . . but a self-healing safety tube that keeps you going . . . seals punctures as you ride. Gives puncture protection and extra blowout protection even with old tires.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of my mother, Mrs. Ida Messick, who passed away 11 years ago today, February 27, 1936.

Days have been long and lonely,
Since God took Mother away;
But I know Mother is happy in heaven,
Where, thru faith, I'll meet her someday.

We miss Mother in all that we do,
Her voice still softly I hear.
God bless her, the one that I love,
Mother, my mother dear.

Sadly missed by her daughter and children
MRS. JOHN W. STAFFORD

In memory of my husband, Clarke D. Rinker, who departed this life three years ago today, February 27, 1944.

A happy home we once enjoyed,
How sweet the memory still;
But death has left a loneliness
The world can never fill.
I have lost my soul companion,
A life linked with my own,
And day by day I miss him more
As I walk through life alone.
There is a home not made by hands,
Beyond its golden door,
Awaits the one who is now away—
Not lost, just gone before;
And in that home not made by hands
The Master has prepared
A place for me and when he calls
I'll meet him over there.

Sadly missed by
HIS WIFE and CHILDREN

In Memoriam

In loving memory of my mother, Mrs. Ida Messick, who passed away 11 years ago today, February 27, 1936.

Days have been long and lonely,
Since God took Mother away.
But I know Mother is happy in heaven,
Where, thru faith, I'll meet her someday.

We miss Mother in all that we do.
Her voice still softly I hear.
God bless her, the one that I love,
Mother, my mother dear.

Sadly missed by her daughter and children
MRS. JOHN W. STAFFORD
2-27-1t

In memory of my husband, Clarke D. Rinker, who departed this life three years ago today, February 27, 1944.

A happy home we once enjoyed,
How sweet the memory still;
But death has left a loneliness
The world can never fill.
I have lost my soul companion,
A life linked with my own,
And day by day I miss him more
As I walk through life alone.
There is a home not made by hands,
Beyond its golden door,
Awaits the one who is now away—
Not lost, just gone before;
And in that home not made by hands
The Master has prepared
A place for me and when he calls
I'll meet him over there.

Sadly missed by
HIS WIFE and CHILDREN

Ellen Terry Will Be Paid Tribute On CBS Tonight

By C. E. BUTTERFIELD

NEW YORK, Feb. 26—Tribute to Ellen Terry in commemoration of the birth of the actress 100 years ago is to come in a CBS special at 11:30 Thursday night. Roles of Shakespeare which she made famous will be portrayed by modern stage stars.

They include Ingrid Bergman, Helen Hayes, Jane Cowl and Eva Le Gallienne. Title of the broadcast is "Born in a Merry Hour." Walter Hampden and Cornelia Otis Skinner will be guest speakers.

The Family Theater of MBS is borrowing Bing Crosby for one of its leads at 10 p. m. of the Charles Tazwell drama "J. Smith and Wife." He will have the acting cooperation of Irene Dunne and Dana Andrews.

From now until June 5, the Story of Music is to go to Rochester, N. Y., for a series of weekly chamber music concerts as supplied by the Eastman School of Music. This program is a late one on NBC at 11:30.

America's Town Meeting, gathering together a panel of four qualified to cover the subject, brings forth this question on ABC at 8:30: "How can we get and keep good teachers in our schools?"

Another discussion series, in MY Opinion of CBS at 6:15, wants to know "Should the presidency be limited to two terms?" with two members of congress supplying the answers.

William Bendix out of the NBC Life of Riley, shows up in the CBS Suspense at 8 for the play, "Three Faces for Midnight," something about murder and bribery.

County Has "Just Claim" To More Funds For Asylum

Dr. Preston Goes On Record At Hearing

The statement that Allegany County has a "very just claim" to an increased state budgetary allowance for expenses at the county asylum was won yesterday from Dr. George O. Preston, state commissioner of mental hygiene, by Horace P. Whitworth, Jr., chairman of the Allegany County delegation to the Legislature.

Whitworth is attempting to gain an increase of at least $10,000 in the state's allowance to this county for expenses at the asylum and said last night that he will request Gov. Lane to include it in the supplementary budget as soon as the Governor, now ill, returns to his office.

The Senate Finance Committee and the House Ways and Means Committee, of which Whitworth is a member, met jointly yesterday in studying the Governor's $91,000,000 budget, and Whitworth asked for the increased appropriation on the basis that this county is bearing part of the state's financial burden in caring for its own mental patients rather than committing them to already crowded state institutions.

Asked For $25,000

This year the state was asked to appropriate $25,000 annually for the asylum for the next two years, but Gov. Lane cut this appropriation to $10,000 a year for 1947 and 1948. For the past number of years the state appropriation has been only $8,000.

Whitworth said he believes this county should receive from the state the amount it would cost the state to care for an equal number of mental patients who are treated at the asylum if they were supported in state institutions. He said he believes $20,000 would be a "just and equitable" share.

Allegany County is the only county in the state that maintains facilities for mental patients who are residents of the county, Whitworth pointed out.

Because county mental patients are committed to the asylum rather than to state institutions, Whitworth said he believes the state should contribute a greater share toward the cost to the county and county taxpayers.

Preston first told Whitworth at the joint hearing yesterday that the reason he did not favor an increased appropriation to the county was because the asylum was "not so much a mental hospital as an almshouse."

Cites Court Decision

However, Whitworth referred Dr. Preston to a decision handed down by the Court of Appeals in 1915 after mandamus proceedings were instituted by the Allegany County Commissioners against the then existent State Lunacy Commission. This decision allowed the county its proportionate share of funds from the state in the cost of maintaining patients at the asylum.

In view of this decision, Dr. Preston declared, Whitworth said, that he believes this county has "a very just claim" to additional funds. He added, however, that should the additional money be granted he would recommend that a better program for care of patients be instituted.

Whitworth said that in 1945 Milton B. Patterson, director of the State Department of Welfare, went on record as favoring an increase in the budget allowance for the asylum. In that year, however, the county received only $8,000 from the state.

The county delegation yesterday reported favorably on three measures they previously had introduced.

Favor Bingo Bill

One is a city revenue bill that would amend the charity bingo act for the county to give the city power to levy at its discretion "an admission tax not in excess of five cents per person from any such organization operating a game of bingo within the limits of the City of Cumberland."

Another measure reported favorably would give the Mayor and Council power to sell $150,000 in bonds "for the purpose of acquiring land, if needed, and the construction of suitable playgrounds and recreation facilities, but shall not be used for the purpose of operating said playgrounds."

The bill as reported provides that the bonds cannot be sold until authorized in a referendum vote at the next general election or at a special election.

Whitworth said the delegation voted five to one to report the bill favorably but that Delegate Charles M. See opposed submitting it to a referendum.

Also reported favorably was a bill to increase the salary scale for school teachers. The minimum salary for teachers with a degree would be $2,400 and the maximum salary would be $3,900 in 17 years.

The House yesterday passed a bill introduced by Senator Robert B. Kimble to pay the clerk to the County Commissioners $10 daily for working on tax assessment reviews.

Canvass On Street Lighting Planned

At a meeting of the Corriganville Improvement Association last night, it was decided to make a house to house canvass to determine the number of persons in favor of securing street lighting for the community, according to Joseph C. Stuckey, president.

Stuckey said those making the canvass will report at the next meeting, scheduled for Tuesday at 7:30 p. m. in the Corriganville Fire Hall. Approximately 75 persons attended last night's meeting.

The president explained that the association is interested in obtaining a charter only for the purpose of securing street lighting. No incorporation of the town is planned.

The committee of canvassers named by Stuckey includes Henry W. Ford, vice president, and Edward Matthews, who will cover the upper part of Corriganville; H. W. Martz and Ellsworth Beal, who will canvass the lower end of town; and Irvin Burkett and Hugh A. Heming, who will cover the Cash Valley section.

PE Power Sales Agent Is Named

E. P. Bachtell, Jr., Hagerstown, has been appointed industrial power sales and engineering representative for the Potomac Edison Company in this area. The post has been vacant recently but last was held by Joseph C. Whitesel.

U. S. Conciliator Expected In PE Drivers' Dispute

Holden Will Assist In Negotiations

A representative of the United States Conciliation Service is expected to arrive in Cumberland today to assist in negotiation of a new contract between the Potomac Edison Company and its bus drivers, members of Local Division 1110, Amalgamated Association of Street, Electric Railway and Motor Coach Employes of America, AFL, who have threatened to strike Saturday unless their demands are met.

John M. Elliott, international representative of the union, said last night he had contacted the United States Conciliation Service and was advised that Conciliator James A. Holden, a veteran of many labor disputes here, will be sent to Cumberland and should arrive this morning. He assisted in negotiating a contract between the union and the PE firm a year ago.

Yesterday, Henry W. Price, district manager of the Potomac Edison Company, said he had no statement to make and added that the arrival of a conciliator is awaited.

Contract of the approximately 90 members of the local, 67 of them drivers and the others maintenance men, expires at midnight Friday, and Elliott, as well as local union officers, said a strike will be called unless the union's demands are met.

The union is asking a wage increase of 23 cents an hour, improved vacation plan and furnishing of one uniform by the company.

The company has offered an eight cents hourly increase, very little change in vacation and refused to provide a uniform, according to Elliott.

Union members on January 28 rejected the company's proposal and voted for a strike, placing the power to call the strike in the hands of the negotiating committee and the international representative.

The last meeting between the union and the company was held Tuesday.

While a strike appears imminent, Elliott said he hopes it can be avoided so the public will not be inconvenienced.

Toastmaster for the event will be Arthur Schusterman, who served as recording secretary in 1946. Mrs. Perle Miller will present carnations to both incoming and outgoing officers of the Celanese local, Lewis "Red" Chaney, acting chairman of the special activity committee, said.

Wind And More Snow Make Roads Worse In Garrett

Schools Closed Today Because Of Storm

Fresh snow and strong winds in Western Allegany and Garrett counties gave more trouble last night to isolated families and road crews who have been battling for a week to keep highways open.

East of Frostburg snow yesterday ranged from an inch and a half to two inches while in Cumberland snowfall last night amounted to a quarter to half an inch. East of this city it was even less.

However, the light snowfall made streets and highways slippery and State Roads Commission crews were busy cindering on hills and curves.

In Garrett County, roads employes were too busy plowing and bucking drifts of 10 to 12 feet in the Oakland section to bother about cindering.

Snow Still Falling

Snow was still falling heavily at midnight and fresh snow yesterday ranged in depth from four to five inches at Frostburg and Grantsville to nine at Oakland.

Roads Commission officials said there was "a good bit of drifting" west of Frostburg and motorists reported only one-day traffic possible at times on some mountain tops because of drifts piled up by strong winds. However, all state roads were reported open.

Close to 30 inches of snow covered Garrett County in the Oakland-Accident section and road workers said snow fences were of little use because snow had piled over them. There was no sign of a let up.

Garrett County students were sent home from school yesterday for the first time for fear they would be caught in the storm at nightfall. When the snow continued they were directed to stay home today.

At Grantsville, games in an independent basketball league tournament were postponed because of the weather and state Police said while state roads were open, many dirt roads were closed.

"Bad" Condition

State Police said roads in Garrett County generally were in "bad" condition. They recommended no driving unless absolutely necessary and then only with chains.

G. Bates Chaires, district engineer for the State Roads Commission, reported yesterday all state roads in Garrett were open but said one-way traffic only was possible in numerous spots.

"The snow is all still there," said Chaires. "There has been no thaw and we are experiencing increasing difficulty in keeping cuts open."

Visibility in Garrett is extremely poor and driving "very hazardous," Chaires said, in advising against travel unless necessary. He said driving should not be attempted without chains.

In Cumberland at midnight the snow had stopped and the temperature stood at 30 degrees. However, it was still cloudy.

At Deal, Pa., the temperature was 16 and it was cloudy. There was 20 inches of snow on the ground, four having fallen yesterday. Thomas, W. Va., reported 30 inches of snow on the ground and more falling. The temperature was 18.

Getson Forfeits Bond On Disorder Charge

One of two brothers arrested Tuesday night for allegedly assaulting a pedestrian struck by the automobile in which they were riding forfeited bond of $25 in Police Court yesterday on a disorderdly conduct charge and the other had the same amount refunded.

The brothers were booked as Earl W. Getson and Henry Getson. The former forfeited bond when he failed to appear for trial.

Police said the brothers were riding in a car that struck Ray Nixon, 118 Polk street, as he crossed Centre street. After Nixon's remark that he intended to report it, the alleged assault occurred, police said.

Hundreds Of Sport Enthusiasts Throng To Guntertown Ski Center

Guntertown Ski Lodge and ski trail in Garrett County have probably been the most popular spots for outdoor sport enthusiasts in Western Maryland since last Thursday when the first heavy snowfall of the winter gave skiiers a chance to enjoy the sport.

There was an 18-inch snowfall Thursday and Friday with the thermometer at 10 above. According to Dave Gunter, the temperature and dry powdery quality of the snow made an ideal combination for skiing. Two inches of snow has fallen every day since last Friday at Guntertown and the use of the trail each afternoon and evening by hundreds of skiiers has packed the snow so solid that ideal conditions for the sport should continue for several weeks, Gunter added.

The trail is open for use daily and at night electric illumination is an added attraction. Music along the trail is provided by an amplifier from the ski lodge. Visitors during the past week have included skiiers from Baltimore, Washington, Pittsburgh, Columbus, Ohio, as well as towns in Allegany and Garrett counties.

In addition to persons participating in skiing, scores of spectators have been at the trail the past week, and many remain in the cars along the highway to watch the sport.

4-H Calf Club Elects Officers

The County-Wide 4-H Dairy Calf Club elected officers for the coming year last night in the County Agent's office and made plans for a membership drive, after Harry Johnson was presented with a $25 War Bond for State wide achievements.

Robert Heavener, Union Grove, was elected vice president while Fred Miltenberger, Frankfort road was selected as secretary.

Johnson was presented with the bond which was awarded by the state organization, for efficient records kept on his dairy projects during 1946. Efforts to increase the membership were also discussed, along with increased herds for the coming spring.

Each member will indicate the number of pure bred calves that he desires to purchase this spring and then the club will assist him in finding the cattle.

Zion Methodist Church Acquires Building Site

Zion Methodist Church has purchased a two-acre plot on Bedford Road as the site for a new church building. Located on the McElfish Farm, about a mile and a quarter from the Cumberland city limits, the new church will be centrally placed in a rapidly growing community, Rev. Richard Hugh Bready, pastor, announced yesterday.

Zion Methodist was organized on April 7, 1940, with Rev. Robert Parker as the first pastor. Services and church school have been held since its organization in a small abandoned Lutheran Church through the courtesy of the heirs of the Neff estate, to whom the property reverted. A growing Sunday school and membership soon made this building totally inadequate for the needs of the church and the community. In the fall of 1945, in the pastorate of Rev. Richard H. Bready, a site committee was appointed under the chairmanship of Ward W. Wilson.

The purchase was facilitated by a substantial donation by Mrs. Hannah B. McElfish, a member of the church who made the site available. A campaign to raise a balance of $1,500 on the price by May 31 has been launched, led by John Rodecap as building committee chairman; Paul Hendrickson, as church school superintendent; Mrs. Ward Wilson, as president of the Woman's Society, and Thomas Murray, as Men's Club president.

Preliminary planning discussion envisions a church to include full educational and fellowship facilities and a sanctuary adequate to serve the increasing population. A community survey is planned to measure the needs to be met, following which cost estimates and plans for the approval of the congregation will be obtained.

The purchase was approved at a special session of the Union Grove Quarterly Conference February 17 by Rev. William F. Wright, district superintendent of the Hagerstown district of the Methodist Church. Previously the site had been approved by the Board of Church Location of the District, as well as by the Site Committee and Official Board of Zion Church.

Former pastors in addition to Rev. Mr. Parker, include Rev. Odell Osteen, 1941-43; Rev. William Merchant, 1943-45.

Singing Prisoner Good For Morale Of Other Inmates

Youth Is Held In County Jail

A singing inmate of Allegany County Jail who "doesn't care too much for work" has done a lot for the morale of other prisoners during the past week and once or twice he gave "command performances for a few of Sheriff Edward R. Muir's riends, the sheriff said last night.

Robert Hockaday, 18, 326 Baltimore Avenue, readily admitted that "roving feet" have carried him to a "good many" of the 48 states in the past few years, but declared that he would rather sing than work any day in the week. He does sing too, and the sheriff and his deputies willingly admit that they enjoy it.

Held For Delinquent

Arrested on a "delinquent warrant" Saturday a week ago, the youth was giving a solo concert for other inmates shortly after he was confined. One of the deputies overheard him, the sheriff said, and he was summoned to the front of the jail to sing for the officers on duty.

Since that time "quite a number" of persons who stop in the sheriff's office on business have heard Hockaday crooning one or more of the currently popular tunes, and all agree that the youth has a future if given a chance, the deputies say.

Hockaday, a likeble youth, who sings willing at any moment for one or a group, declared last night, that he thought he would go to work when he got out of jail. "I couldn't see much sense in working, he said, but I guess I'd better get a job, if they are going to start putting me in these places.

Just what kind of job doesn't matter much now, I'll even take dish washing but of course, I'd prefer to earn a living singing. Hockaday, admitted that he has never done any professional singing, but declared he has noticed that everyone is satisfied to listen to him when he is singing.

Prisoners Like Songs

The other prisoners are after him from morning 'til night to sing "another song," jail authorities said, and occassionally when things begin to lag during the day, the deputies call for a song to cheer things up a bit.

Sheriff Muir seems to care a great deal for the "To Each His Own" song, the youth declared, and "I'm learning to think a good bit of it too." The sheriff said he has Hockaday sing for the physician who attends the prisoners and some other friends that stop in. "They like his voice," he declared.

Hockaday wasn't old enough for the service during the war, but he served with the merchant marine and held numerous jobs "throughout the country" in defense work, he said yesterday. Once he worked in California and visited Hollywood, but he didn't even try to get a job in the movies.

The youth will be released in a few days, the sheriff said, but added most of the other prisoners, who will be remaining, are going to hate to see him go. Hockaday said it was a fine jail and everything was "first class," but he guessed he'd better get a job, and sing in his spare time from now on.

Arm Becomes Infected

Henry Walker, 49, 707 Columbia avenue, an employe of the Queen City Brewing Company, was treated in Allegany Hospital yesterday morning for an infected right arm. He told attaches he was scratched by a piece of tin last Friday.

Held For Army

Arrested yesterday afternoon, Avenue, was being held in Grand Avenue, was being held in City Jail last night for United States authorities at Fort Bragg, N. C. He was apprehended by Detective Edwin Lilya.

Kopp Is Recommended For Recreation Board

Mrs. R. L. Critchfield, president of the Cumberland Council of Church Women, yesterday submitted the names of three persons recommended by the council for appointment to the proposed recreation board, in a letter to the Mayor and Council.

They are Rev. James A. Richards, pastor of First Methodist Church; Charles L. Kopp, superintendent of county schools, and Mrs. Erich C. Roeder, representing the Cumberland branch of the American Association of University Women.

County Reported Cleaned Up Of Slot Machines

Devices Disappear Following Tipoff

While law enforcement officers still had their first arrest to make and their first machine to confiscate in the current drive on slot machines, an order to bring in the devices" by the truckload" apparently had its effect in cleaning up the county as far as slot machines are concerned.

Police reported the devices were "scarce as hen's teeth" last night.

One city police officer declared, "If you can show me where there's a slot machine in this town I'll confiscate it now."

The sheriff's office reported its men visited two establishments on Oldtown road yesterday but that no machines were located.

Officers in three county towns said in effect, "Things are closed down here even though we haven't bothered them."

Meanwhile, State Police said they have not been advised of orders issued Monday that all slot machines in the county are to be confiscated and said they have not been asked to assist.

Tipoff Passed Along

A tipoff to various clubs and other places in Cumberland and the county that the "heat was on" in regard to slot machines, was passed along Monday afternoon and night, a short time after the acting Cumberland police chief, the county sheriff and chiefs of police of incorporated county towns were summoned to the office of State's Attorney Morgan C. Harris and reminded that it was their duty to enforce the law.

Authorities readily admitted that the tipoff prevented what promised to be a large scale raid.

Asked if he had any statement to make regarding reports that this was the end of slot machines in the county, State's Attorney Harris replied, "I think it might be pertinent to point out that this office is not the law enforcement agency in the county. We prosecute cases brought to our attention. The Allegany County sheriff is the law enforcement agent in the county and if you want a statement regarding what will be done, it would be well to call on him."

Sheriff Edward Muir said there will be a systematic clean up of all slot machines found. He said there would be no large scale raids but that his personnel intended to cover the county in a matter of time.

The Sheriff said newspaper publication regarding the matter was premature, but he also admitted that a majority of clubs apparently knew what was afoot a very short time after the meeting Monday afternoon. (The News withheld publication of the story for about 35 hours in order to give authorities ample time in which to make raids.)

Works Fast

Acting Chief of Police B. Frank Gaffney stated yesterday that he attended the meeting Monday, but said any information regarding the affair should come from the State's Attorney. The acting chief did say that Cumberland clubs and other organizations apparently had been advised of the plans a short time after the meeting.

"I can't understand how a grapevine can work so fast", Gaffney commented.

Law enforcement officials quoted Harris as having told them that it is their job to enforce the law, and that he wanted machines in operation in the county brought in "by the truckload."

At this point he reportedly turned to the chief of police of Lonaconing and remarked, "If you have any trouble finding the machines, just go to Mayor Evans and he will point them out to you."

Law enforcement officials said today Harris apparently was alluding to a remark made by Mayor Jack Evans at a recent public meeting called at City Hall here to discuss needed fund-raising legislation. Evans reportedly said "I'm here representing the owners of 45 slot machines in Lonaconing."

Evans' remark plus a series of other incidents allegedly resulted in the action Monday.

One law enforcement official remarked yesterday, "This is the end of slot machines in Allegany county."

Machines Played By Children

Another officer said in his opinion a recent upsurge of juvenile delinquency is one cause for the wide-scale cleanup. For example, in recent weeks, school officials have reported that school children in Frostburg had allegedly been playing slot machines with their lunch money, he said.

Asked what the law enforcement officials told Harris Monday at the meeting, Sheriff Muir said "They promised to cleanup all slot machines where they are found."

To date none has been found. Some officers grumbled that a newspaper story "upset the applecart," but others readily admitted the damage was done by the tipoff that went down the line a matter of minutes, in some cases, after the officers left the State's Attorney's office Monday. Some clubs reportedly "evacuated" slot machines from their quarters and carted them away.

The word that went around reportedly was not to "cover them up and get them out of sight," but "get rid of them," which was interpreted as being a precaution against orders by law enforcement agents

Judge Henderson To Be Red Cross Dinner Speaker

Kickoff Event Set For Monday At "Y"

Associate Judge George Henderson will be the principal speaker at the kickoff dinner of the 1947 Red Cross fund campaign in Allegany County, to be held Monday, March 3, at 6:15 p. m. at Central YMCA, according to Thomas B. Finan, general chairman.

Finan said division chairmen, their captains and campaign workers are invited to attend the dinner. The general chairman will preside and will introduce the various campaign leaders. Henderson will discuss the purposes of the American Red Cross and the need for funds to continue its work.

Present plans are to keep the affair as short as possible, Finan said. Tickets for the dinner will be on sale at the door Monday night.

Women To Meet Today

Meanwhile, division chairmen were readying final plans for the drive to raise $29,560 by March 10. The campaign will open Saturday, but the advance gifts section, headed by George Schwarzenbach, has already held one report meeting and the second is scheduled for tomorrow at 4 p. m. in the Post Office.

The women's division, headed by Mrs. Jim McQuown and Mrs. Holmes H. Cessna, will meet today at 2 p. m. in the Post Office to receive their supplies and assignments of areas to be canvassed. Finan will attend the meeting to answer any questions which may be raised regarding the drive.

Several captains in the division have already reported to Mrs. McQuown that they are prepared to start canvassing at any time. The division will start its work immediately after today's meeting.

The classified section will meet today at 7:30 p. m., headed by George Young and Max Bastian, and union delegates plan a meeting tomorrow at 8 p. m. at Rubber Workers' Hall, 12 South Mechanic Street, under the direction of John Chisholm, head of the labor section.

Ridgeley Workers Named

In Ridgeley, Jack Murrell, chairman, reported last night that he has selected his campaign workers in preparation for the drive, adding that several Ridgeley representatives expect to attend the kickoff dinner Monday night. The community's quota is $375.

Melvin Heiskell, principal of Ridgeley High School, will handle contributions from students in the high school and grammar school. William C. Knieriem and Leon Hammond will canvass business establishments, and Mrs. Carl Miller is in charge of the Carpenters Addition section.

Other campaign workers include Miss Ursula Dougherty, Ridgeley postmistress; Mrs. Emma Ridgeley, Mrs. Mabel Ridgeley, Mrs. Sam Thompson, Mrs. William Sleeman, Mrs. Ethel Thomas, Mrs. Edith Swarner, Mrs. Harry Bean, Mrs. James Arrington and Mrs. Joseph Grimm.

Eckhart Miner Is Injured At Work

A 53-year-old miner suffered undetermined injuries last night at 6 o'clock in Consolidated Fuel Mine No. 3, Hoffman, when he was partially buried under a ton-and-a-half of coal that fell from the roof, Frank Powers, mine inspector said.

Identified as Johnson DeVore, attaches at Miners Hospital, Frostburg, said the injured man was admitted at 7:45 o'clock and declared he was suffering from shock and "other possible injuries." He was in a semi-conscious condition late last night.

Powers said DeVore, and Paddy Thomas, also of Eckhart, were working on the night shift putting props under the section when the cavein came. If they had had five more minutes, Powers explained, the supports would have prevented the fall.

The coal fall caused by workers digging along an old section in a effort to remove "coal pillers," the inspector said, adding that this is the first serious accident to occur in that mine "in a number of years."

DeVore was partially buried under the fall but was helped to safety by Thomas who escaped injury and the shift boss, who was not identified. The injured man was carried to the mouth of the mine and then taken to the hospital, Powers said.

Allegany May Get Seventh Assemblyman

The possibility that Allegany County may be entitled to a seventh representative in the House of Delegates after 1950 was called to the attention of Governor Lane yesterday by William C. Walsh, state committee of reappointments chairman.

Walsh stated "there is a possibility that Allegany County, whose poulation in 1940 was almost 87,000, will be 100,000 by 1950 and thus be entitled to an additional delegate."

However, since it can not be definitely determined, Walsh said, that the population will reach 100,000 or more by 1950, the county has not been included as one which should immediately be given an additional delegate.

Lenten Services At Centre Street Church

Dr. Michael announces that these services will be held each Thursday evening during Lent.

County Has "Just Claim" To More Funds For Asylum

Dr. Preston Goes On Record At Hearing

The statement that Allegany County has a "very just claim" to an increased state budgetary allowance for expenses at the county asylum was won yesterday from Dr. George O. Preston, state commissioner of mental hygiene, by Horace P. Whitworth, Jr., chairman of the Allegany County delegation to the Legislature.

Whitworth is attempting to gain an increase of at least $10,000 in the state's allowance to this county for expenses at the asylum and said last night that he will request Gov. Lane to include it in the supplementary budget as soon as the Governor, now ill, returns to his office.

The Senate Finance Committee and the House Ways and Means Committee, of which Whitworth is a member, met jointly yesterday in studying the Governor's $91,000,000 budget, and Whitworth asked for the increased appropriation on the basis that this county is bearing part of the state's financial burden in caring for its own mental patients rather than committing them to already crowded state institutions.

Asked For $25,000

This year the state was asked to appropriate $25,000 annually for the asylum for the next two years, but Gov. Lane cut this appropriation to $10,000 a year for 1947 and 1948. For the past number of years the state appropriation has been only $8,000.

Whitworth said he believes this county should receive from the state the amount it would cost the state to care for an equal number of mental patients who are treated at the asylum if they were supported in state institutions. He said he believes $20,000 would be a "just and equitable" share.

Allegany County is the only county in the state that maintains facilities for mental patients who are residents of the county, Whitworth pointed out.

Because county mental patients are committed to the asylum rather than to state institutions, Whitworth said he believes the state should contribute a greater share toward the cost to the county and county taxpayers.

Preston first told Whitworth at the joint hearing yesterday that the reason he did not favor an increased appropriation to the county was because the asylum was "not so much a mental hospital as an almshouse."

Cites Court Decision

However, Whitworth referred Dr. Preston to a decision handed down by the Court of Appeals in 1915 after mandamus proceedings were instituted by the Allegany County Commissioners against the then existent State Lunacy Commission. This decision allowed the county its proportionate share of funds from the state in the cost of maintaining patients at the asylum.

In view of this decision, Dr. Preston declared, Whitworth said, that he believes this county has "a very just claim" to additional funds. He added, however, that should the additional money be granted he would recommend that a better program for care of patients be instituted.

Whitworth said that in 1945 Milton B. Patterson, director of the State Department of Welfare, went on record as favoring an increase in the budget allowance for the asylum. In that year, however, the county received only $8,000 from the state.

The county delegation yesterday reported favorably on three measures they previously had introduced.

Favor Bingo Bill

One is a city revenue bill that would amend the charity bingo act for the county to give the city power to levy at its discretion "an admission tax not in excess of five cents per person from any such organization operating a game of bingo within the limits of the City of Cumberland."

Another measure reported favorably would give the Mayor and Council power to sell $150,000 in bonds "for the purpose of acquiring land, if needed, and the construction of suitable playgrounds and recreation facilities, but shall not be used for the purpose of operating said playgrounds."

The bill as reported provides that the bonds cannot be sold until authorized in a referendum vote at the next general election or at a special election.

Whitworth said the delegation voted five to one to report the bill favorably but that Delegate Charles M. See opposed submitting it to a referendum.

Also reported favorably was a bill to increase the salary scale for school teachers. The minimum salary for teachers with a degree would be $2,400 and the maximum salary would be $3,900 in 17 years.

The House yesterday passed a bill introduced by Senator Robert B. Kimble to pay the clerk to the County Commissioners $10 daily for working on tax assessment reviews.

Canvass On Street Lighting Planned

At a meeting of the Corriganville Improvement Association last night, it was decided to make a house to house canvass to determine the number of persons in favor of securing street lighting for the community, according to Joseph C. Stuckey, president.

Stuckey said those making the canvass will report at the next meeting, scheduled for Tuesday at 7:30 p. m. in the Corriganville Fire Hall. Approximately 75 persons attended last night's meeting.

The president explained that the association is interested in obtaining a charter only for the purpose of securing street lighting. No incorporation of the town is planned.

The committee of canvassers named by Stuckey includes Henry W. Ford, vice president, and Edward Matthews, who will cover the upper part of Corriganville; H. W. Martz and Ellsworth Beal, who will canvass the lower end of town; and Irvin Burkett and Hugh A. Heming, who will cover the Cash Valley section.

PE Power Sales Agent Is Named

E. P. Bachtell, Jr., Hagerstown, has been appointed industrial power sales and engineering representative for the Potomac Edison Company in this area. The post has been vacant recently but last was held by Joseph C. Whitesel.

Bachtell was graduated from Lehigh University in 1941, and served with the Troop Carrier Command as supervisor of maintenance in the Army Air Forces during the war. He held the rank of major when he was separated from service. Bachtell now is living in LaVale.

U. S. Conciliator Expected In PE Drivers' Dispute

Holden Will Assist In Negotiations

A representative of the United States Conciliation Service is expected to arrive in Cumberland today to assist in negotiation of a new contract between the Potomac Edison Company and its bus drivers, members of Local Division 1110, Amalgamated Association of Street, Electric Railway and Motor Coach Employes of America, AFL, who have threatened to strike Saturday unless their demands are met.

John M. Elliott, international representative of the union, said last night he had contacted the United States Conciliation Service and was advised that Conciliator James A. Holden, a veteran of many labor disputes here, will be sent to Cumberland and should arrive this morning. He assisted in negotiating a contract between the union and the PE firm a year ago.

Yesterday, Henry W. Price, district manager of the Potomac Edison Company, said he had no statement to make and added that the arrival of a conciliator is awaited.

Contract of the approximately 90 members of the local, 67 of them drivers and the others maintenance men, expires at midnight Friday, and Elliott, as well as local union officers, said a strike will be called unless the union's demands are met.

The union is asking a wage increase of 23 cents an hour, improved vacation plan and furnishing of one uniform by the company.

The company has offered an eight cents hourly increase, very little change in vacation and refused to provide a uniform, according to Elliott.

Union members on January 28 rejected the company's proposal and voted for a strike, placing the power to call the strike in the hands of the negotiating committee and the international representative.

The last meeting between the union and the company was held Tuesday.

While a strike appears imminent, Elliott said he hopes it can be avoided so the public will not be inconvenienced.

Toastmaster for the event will be Arthur Schusterman, who served as recording secretary in 1946. Mrs. Perle Miller will present carnations to both incoming and outgoing officers of the Celanese local, Lewis "Red" Chaney, acting chairman of the special activity committee, said.

Wind And More Snow Make Roads Worse In Garrett

Schools Closed Today Because Of Storm

Fresh snow and strong winds in Western Allegany and Garrett counties gave more trouble last night to isolated families and road crews who have been battling for a week to keep highways open.

East of Frostburg snow yesterday ranged from an inch and a half to two inches while in Cumberland snowfall last night amounted to a quarter to half an inch. East of this city it was even less.

However, the light snowfall made streets and highways slippery and State Roads Commission crews were busy cindering on hills and curves.

In Garrett County, roads employes were too busy plowing and bucking drifts of 10 to 12 feet in the Oakland section to bother about cindering.

Snow Still Falling

Snow was still falling heavily at midnight and fresh snow yesterday ranged in depth from four to five inches at Frostburg and Grantsville to nine at Oakland.

Roads Commission officials said there was "a good bit of drifting" west of Frostburg and motorists reported only one-day traffic possible at times on some mountain tops because of drifts piled up by strong winds. However, all state roads were reported open.

Close to 30 inches of snow covered Garrett County in the Oakland-Accident section and road workers said snow fences were of little use because snow had piled over them. There was no sign of a let up.

Garrett County students were sent home from school yesterday for the first time for fear they would be caught in the storm at nightfall. When the snow continued they were directed to stay home today.

At Grantsville, games in an independent basketball league tournament were postponed because of the weather and state Police said while state roads were open, many dirt roads were closed.

"Bad" Condition

State Police said roads in Garrett County generally were in "bad" condition. They recommended no driving unless absolutely necessary and then only with chains.

G. Bates Chaires, district engineer for the State Roads Commission, reported yesterday all state roads in Garrett were open but said one-way traffic only was possible in numerous spots.

"The snow is all still there," said Chaires. "There has been no thaw and we are experiencing increasing difficulty in keeping cuts open."

Visibility in Garrett is extremely poor and driving "very hazardous," Chaires said, in advising against travel unless necessary. He said driving should not be attempted without chains.

In Cumberland at midnight the snow had stopped and the temperature stood at 30 degrees. However, it was still cloudy.

At Deal, Pa., the temperature was 16 and it was cloudy. There was 20 inches of snow on the ground, four having fallen yesterday. Thomas, W. Va., reported 30 inches of snow on the ground and more falling. The temperature was 18.

Getson Forfeits Bond On Disorder Charge

One of two brothers arrested Tuesday night for allegedly assaulting a pedestrian struck by the automobile in which they were riding forfeited bond of $25 in Police Court yesterday on a disorderdly conduct charge and the other had the same amount refunded.

The brothers were booked as Earl W. Getson and Henry Getson. The former forfeited bond when he failed to appear for trial.

Police said the brothers were riding in a car that struck Ray Nixon, 118 Polk street, as he crossed Centre street. After Nixon's remark that he intended to report it, the alleged assault occurred, police said.

Hundreds Of Sport Enthusiasts Throng To Guntertown Ski Center

Guntertown Ski Lodge and ski trail in Garrett County have probably been the most popular spots for outdoor sport enthusiasts in Western Maryland since last Thursday when the first heavy snowfall of the winter gave skiiers a chance to enjoy the sport.

There was an 18-inch snowfall Thursday and Friday with the thermometer at 10 above. According to Dave Gunter, the temperature and dry powdery quality of the snow made an ideal combination for skiing. Two inches of snow has fallen every day since last Friday at Guntertown and the use of the trail each afternoon and evening by hundreds of skiiers has packed the snow so solid that ideal conditions for the sport should continue for several weeks, Gunter added.

The trail is open for use daily and at night electric illumination is an added attraction. Music along the trail is provided by an amplifier from the ski lodge. Visitors during the past week have included skiiers from Baltimore, Washington, Pittsburgh, Columbus, Ohio, as well as towns in Allegany and Garrett counties.

In addition to persons participating in skiing, scores of spectators have been at the trail the past week, and many remain in the cars along the highway to watch the sport.

4-H Calf Club Elects Officers

The County-Wide 4-H Dairy Calf Club elected officers for the coming year last night in the County Agent's office and made plans for a membership drive, after Harry Johnson was presented with a $25 War Bond for State wide achievements.

Robert Heavener, Union Grove, was elected vice president while Fred Miltenberger, Frankfort road was selected as secretary.

Johnson was presented with the bond which was awarded by the state organization, for efficient records kept on his dairy projects during 1946. Efforts to increase the membership were also discussed, along with increased herds for the coming spring.

Each member will indicate the number of pure bred calves that he desires to purchase this spring and then the club will assist him in finding the cattle.

Zion Methodist Church Acquires Building Site

Zion Methodist Church has purchased a two-acre plot on Bedford Road as the site for a new church building. Located on the McElfish Farm, about a mile and a quarter from the Cumberland city limits, the new church will be centrally placed in a rapidly growing community, Rev. Richard Hugh Bready, pastor, announced yesterday.

Zion Methodist was organized on April 7, 1940, with Rev. Robert Parker as the first pastor. Services and church school have been held since its organization in a small abandoned Lutheran Church through the courtesy of the heirs of the Neff estate, to whom the property reverted. A growing Sunday school and membership soon made this building totally inadequate for the needs of the church and the community. In the fall of 1945, in the pastorate of Rev. Richard H. Bready, a site committee was appointed under the chairmanship of Ward W. Wilson.

The purchase was facilitated by a substantial donation by Mrs. Hannah B. McElfish, a member of the church who made the site available. A campaign to raise a balance of $1,500 on the price by May 31 has been launched, led by John Rodecap as building committee chairman; Paul Hendrickson, as church school superintendent; Mrs. Ward Wilson, as president of the Woman's Society, and Thomas Murray, as Men's Club president.

Preliminary planning discussion envisions a church to include full educational and fellowship facilities and a sanctuary adequate to serve the increasing population. A community survey is planned to measure the needs to be met, following which cost estimates and plans for the approval of the congregation will be obtained.

The purchase was approved at a special session of the Union Grove Quarterly Conference February 17 by Rev. William F. Wright, district superintendent of the Hagerstown district of the Methodist Church. Previously the site had been approved by the Board of Church Location of the District, as well as by the Site Committee and Official Board of Zion Church.

Former pastors in addition to Rev. Mr. Parker, include Rev. Odell Osteen, 1941-43; Rev. William Merchant, 1943-45.

Singing Prisoner Good For Morale Of Other Inmates

Youth Is Held In County Jail

A singing inmate of Allegany County Jail who "doesn't care too much for work" has done a lot for the morale of other prisoners during the past week and once or twice he gave "command performances for a few of Sheriff Edward R. Muir's riends, the sheriff said last night.

Robert Hockaday, 18, 326 Baltimore Avenue, readily admitted that "roving feet" have carried him to a "good many" of the 48 states in the past few years, but declared that he would rather sing than work any day in the week. He does sing too, and the sheriff and his deputies willingly admit that they enjoy it.

Held For Delinquent

Arrested on a "delinquent warrant" Saturday a week ago, the youth was giving a solo concert for other inmates shortly after he was confined. One of the deputies overheard him, the sheriff said, and he was summoned to the front of the jail to sing for the officers on duty.

Since that time "quite a number" of persons who stop in the sheriff's office on business have heard Hockaday crooning one or more of the currently popular tunes, and all agree that the youth has a future if given a chance, the deputies say.

Hockaday, a likeble youth, who sings willing at any moment for one or a group, declared last night, that he thought he would go to work when he got out of jail. "I couldn't see much sense in working, he said, but I guess I'd better get a job, if they are going to start putting me in these places.

Just what kind of job doesn't matter much now, I'll even take dish washing but of course, I'd prefer to earn a living singing. Hockaday, admitted that he has never done any professional singing, but declared he has noticed that everyone is satisfied to listen to him when he is singing.

Prisoners Like Songs

The other prisoners are after him from morning 'til night to sing "another song," jail authorities said, and occassionally when things begin to lag during the day, the deputies call for a song to cheer things up a bit.

Sheriff Muir seems to care a great deal for the "To Each His Own" song, the youth declared, and "I'm learning to think a good bit of it too." The sheriff said he has Hockaday sing for the physician who attends the prisoners and some other friends that stop in. "They like his voice," he declared.

Hockaday wasn't old enough for the service during the war, but he served with the merchant marine and held numerous jobs "throughout the country" in defense work, he said yesterday. Once he worked in California and visited Hollywood, but he didn't even try to get a job in the movies.

The youth will be released in a few days, the sheriff said, but added most of the other prisoners, who will be remaining, are going to hate to see him go. Hockaday said it was a fine jail and everything was "first class," but he guessed he'd better get a job, and sing in his spare time from now on.

County Reported Cleaned Up Of Slot Machines

Devices Disappear Following Tipoff

While law enforcement officers still had their first arrest to make and their first machine to confiscate in the current drive on slot machines, an order to bring in the devices" by the truckload" apparently had its effect in cleaning up the county as far as slot machines are concerned.

Police reported the devices were "scarce as hen's teeth" last night.

One city police officer declared, "If you can show me where there's a slot machine in this town I'll confiscate it now."

The sheriff's office reported its men visited two establishments on Oldtown road yesterday but that no machines were located.

Officers in three county towns said in effect, "Things are closed down here even though we haven't bothered them."

Meanwhile, State Police said they have not been advised of orders issued Monday that all slot machines in the county are to be confiscated and said they have not been asked to assist.

Tipoff Passed Along

A tipoff to various clubs and other places in Cumberland and the county that the "heat was on" in regard to slot machines, was passed along Monday afternoon and night, a short time after the acting Cumberland police chief, the county sheriff and chiefs of police of incorporated county towns were summoned to the office of State's Attorney Morgan C. Harris and reminded that it was their duty to enforce the law.

Authorities readily admitted that the tipoff prevented what promised to be a large scale raid.

Asked if he had any statement to make regarding reports that this was the end of slot machines in the county, State's Attorney Harris replied, "I think it might be pertinent to point out that this office is not the law enforcement agency in the county. We prosecute cases brought to our attention. The Allegany County sheriff is the law enforcement agent in the county and if you want a statement regarding what will be done, it would be well to call on him."

Sheriff Edward Muir said there will be a systematic clean up of all slot machines found. He said there would be no large scale raids but that his personnel intended to cover the county in a matter of time.

The Sheriff said newspaper publication regarding the matter was premature, but he also admitted that a majority of clubs apparently knew what was afoot a very short time after the meeting Monday afternoon. (The News withheld publication of the story for about 35 hours in order to give authorities ample time in which to make raids.)

Works Fast

Acting Chief of Police B. Frank Gaffney stated yesterday that he attended the meeting Monday, but said any information regarding the affair should come from the State's Attorney. The acting chief did say that Cumberland clubs and other organizations apparently had been advised of the plans a short time after the meeting.

"I can't understand how a grapevine can work so fast", Gaffney commented.

Law enforcement officials quoted Harris as having told them that it is their job to enforce the law, and that he wanted machines in operation in the county brought in "by the truckload."

At this point he reportedly turned to the chief of police of Lonaconing and remarked, "If you have any trouble finding the machines, just go to Mayor Evans and he will point them out to you."

Law enforcement officials said today Harris apparently was alluding to a remark made by Mayor Jack Evans at a recent public meeting called at City Hall here to discuss needed fund-raising legislation. Evans reportedly said "I'm here representing the owners of 45 slot machines in Lonaconing."

Evans' remark plus a series of other incidents allegedly resulted in the action Monday.

One law enforcement official remarked yesterday, "This is the end of slot machines in Allegany county."

Machines Played By Children

Another officer said in his opinion a recent upsurge of juvenile delinquency is one cause for the wide-scale cleanup. For example, in recent weeks, school officials have reported that school children in Frostburg had allegedly been playing slot machines with their lunch money, he said.

Asked what the law enforcement officials told Harris Monday at the meeting, Sheriff Muir said "They promised to cleanup all slot machines where they are found."

To date none has been found. Some officers grumbled that a newspaper story "upset the applecart," but others readily admitted the damage was done by the tipoff that went down the line a matter of minutes, in some cases, after the officers left the State's Attorney's office Monday. Some clubs reportedly "evacuated" slot machines from their quarters and carted them away.

The word that went around reportedly was not to "cover them up and get them out of sight," but "get rid of them," which was interpreted as being a precaution against orders by law enforcement agents

Judge Henderson To Be Red Cross Dinner Speaker

Kickoff Event Set For Monday At "Y"

Associate Judge George Henderson will be the principal speaker at the kickoff dinner of the 1947 Red Cross fund campaign in Allegany County, to be held Monday, March 3, at 6:15 p. m. at Central YMCA, according to Thomas B. Finan, general chairman.

Finan said division chairmen, their captains and campaign workers are invited to attend the dinner. The general chairman will preside and will introduce the various campaign leaders. Henderson will discuss the purposes of the American Red Cross and the need for funds to continue its work.

Present plans are to keep the affair as short as possible, Finan said. Tickets for the dinner will be on sale at the door Monday night.

Women To Meet Today

Meanwhile, division chairmen were readying final plans for the drive to raise $29,560 by March 10. The campaign will open Saturday, but the advance gifts section, headed by George Schwarzenbach, has already held one report meeting and the second is scheduled for tomorrow at 4 p. m. in the Post Office.

The women's division, headed by Mrs. Jim McQuown and Mrs. Holmes H. Cessna, will meet today at 2 p. m. in the Post Office to receive their supplies and assignments of areas to be canvassed. Finan will attend the meeting to answer any questions which may be raised regarding the drive.

Several captains in the division have already reported to Mrs. McQuown that they are prepared to start canvassing at any time. The division will start its work immediately after today's meeting.

The classified section will meet today at 7:30 p. m., headed by George Young and Max Bastian, and union delegates plan a meeting tomorrow at 8 p. m. at Rubber Workers' Hall, 12 South Mechanic Street, under the direction of John Chisholm, head of the labor section.

Eckhart Miner Is Injured At Work

A 53-year-old miner suffered undetermined injuries last night at 6 o'clock in Consolidated Fuel Mine No. 3, Hoffman, when he was partially buried under a ton-and-a-half of coal that fell from the roof, Frank Powers, mine inspector said.

Identified as Johnson DeVore, attaches at Miners Hospital, Frostburg, said the injured man was admitted at 7:45 o'clock and declared he was suffering from shock and "other possible injuries." He was in a semi-conscious condition late last night.

Powers said DeVore, and Paddy Thomas, also of Eckhart, were working on the night shift putting props under the section when the cavein came. If they had had five more minutes, Powers explained, the supports would have prevented the fall.

The coal fall caused by workers digging along an old section in a effort to remove "coal pillers," the inspector said, adding that this is the first serious accident to occur in that mine "in a number of years."

DeVore was partially buried under the fall but was helped to safety by Thomas who escaped injury and the shift boss, who was not identified. The injured man was carried to the mouth of the mine and then taken to the hospital, Powers said.

Allegany May Get Seventh Assemblyman

The possibility that Allegany County may be entitled to a seventh representative in the House of Delegates after 1950 was called to the attention of Governor Lane yesterday by William C. Walsh, state committee of reappointments chairman.

Walsh stated "there is a possiblity that Allegany County, whose poulation in 1940 was almost 87,000, will be 100,000 by 1950 and thus be entitled to an additional delegate."

However, since it can not be definitely determined, Walsh said, that the population will reach 100,000 or more by 1950, the county has not been included as one which should immediately be given an additional delegate.
